PREFACE.

The production of this work has been of the nature of a process of evolution, which the writer has found necessary to bring to an abrupt close in the interests of self-preservation. When but a boy of fifteen he became interested in inquiring about his ancestors concerning whom he was able to learn very little from his immediate relatives. This only intensified his curiosity to find out something about them. He at length happened on an old family Bible* that greatly stimulated his interest and incited him to collect the family records. For years this was a mere pastime and the material accumulated slowly with no thought of its ever being published. About 1899 he stumbled upon the Records of the Dutch Reformed Church of Sleepy Hollow near Tarrytown and to his amazement found this a perfect mine of information respecting his family. The search of various records in and about New York became fascinating and absorbed much of his leisure time. The accumulation of material grew rapidly until it became impressed upon him that it would be a misfortune if all that he had gathered should be lost as it probably would be lost forever. It was apparent that the only way to preserve it permanently would be to have it published. With the idea of publishing came the further idea of making the records as complete as possible for this purpose. At first this did not look like a large task as apparently only a few lines could be traced, and Bankers did not appear to be very numerous in the country. As the work proceeded, however, new lines were being constantly unearthed and the old lines were found to branch almost endlessly. The work grew in extent rapidly until that which was a pastime became a burden. The hours of leisure were no longer sufficient in which to do the necessary work. It demanded the time which should be given to rest and recreation. As a friend remarked the writer was like one who had taken into his home a lion's cub for a playfellow and now it had grown until it threatened to devour him. The only thing to be done under such circumstances is to destroy the lion. The compiler of this record has, therefore, found himself under the necessity of abruptly calling a halt, and of closing up the record with all its imperfections and incompleteness at once. With how much reluctance this decision has been made, only those who have been under the fascination of such a work can understand. It is with a feeling of the deepest regret that this record is put forth so imperfect and incomplete. Much more could be added with a little effort but time and strength are exhausted. With all its imperfections it is felt that the work should be published in order that what has been accomplished may be preserved.

Every effort has been made to render the record correct and accurate, yet it has not been possible to critically examine every source of information. Correspondents are frequently careless. The old family Bible has been stored away where it is inconvenient to get and a treacherous memory is relied on. Records are lost, and memory is the only source of information. Even original records are sometimes faulty. Where the author was in doubt he has given a choice of readings. When records of the same event from different sources are inconsistent the one which from all the circumstances seemed most probable to the writer has been placed in the text while the others have been appended in a foot-note. In one or two cases he has placed a family in a given line on circumstantial and perhaps insufficient evidence. Where that has occurred he has indicated the uncertainty.

As the work had its inception in the interest which the author felt in the history of his own family, it has resulted chiefly in tracing out the genealogy of the descendants of Laurens Bancker. In the course of such a research, however, it occurred necessarily that much material would be obtained of other families of the same name. In some cases these families were undoubtedly disconnected branches whose relationship may be established by later research, in other cases they were clearly independent families. It was at one time thought to make this treatise a history of the Banckers and Bankers of America, and such material was carefully preserved and added to at every opportunity with that ultimate purpose in view. With the abandonment of so elaborate a scheme it has seemed consistent and in some degree obligatory that this material should be included in the present publication. It has, therefore, been classified as far as possible and is included here as Parts II and III.

The work as a whole may be regarded as a contribution to the genealogical records of the Bancker and Banker families and by no means as a complete monograph. If it shall be the means of preserving something of the family history which would otherwise have been lost the chief object of the writer will have been accomplished.

EXPLANATIONS.

Owing to the constantly branching lines of a family genealogy it is difficult to devise any system of arrangement that is simple and easily understood so that one can trace forward or back to determine collateral relationships without becoming confused. Any genealogy will require some study to use it successfully. An effort has been made to make this as simple and natural as possible and to facilitate tracing by a simple system of numbering.

The order of arrangement is the order of primogeniture. That is, in each family the eldest child and all of his descendants are placed in succession before the next eldest child and his descendants. This arrangement has the effect of bringing nearest together in any part of the book those that are most closely related.

The names of heads of families receiving special treatment are printed in small capitals. These are numbered consecutively throughout the work in the order of succession by a prefixed number in bold face. The number in parenthesis following the name is the number of the parent and is to be used in tracing the ancestral line.

In the lists of children in any family those with numbers prefixed have become the heads of families important enough to require separate treatment, and the number is the consecutive number under which they appear later in the work. Names not prefixed by a number may or may not be heads of families, but have not received separate treatment and will be found discussed immediately following the list. In these lists of children the names have been spelled just as found in the baptismal and family records. In other places the prevailing form of the name has been used.

The division into chapters has been made for convenience of reference and while more or less arbitrary an effort has been made to maintain some degree of logical arrangement. The headings of some chapters are not to be too rigidly interpreted since they may contain more or less than their titles strictly indicate; thus the Frederick Bancker family of Chapter V logically includes all of the five succeeding chapters. The arrangement of the table of contents is intended to show the true relations of the several chapters.

INTRODUCTION.

The Banckers and Bankers of this country are chiefly descended from two Dutchmen who arrived here from Holland during the period of the Dutch control of New Netherlands, now the State of New York. They were Gerrit Bancker and Laurens Bancker. The former arrived here about 1653 or 1654 and soon after settled in Albany. The latter was here before 1673 but the time of his arrival has not been determined. He may have been born here. He was in Harlem at first but finally settled at Philipsburg, now Tarrytown.

So far as can be ascertained these two were no relation to each other whatever, and the families which have descended from them have kept wholly distinct, although for a long period they were scattered through the same region of the Hudson valley. These two men and their descendants present some rather striking contrasts. Gerrit appears to have been well educated for that time and was a very successful merchant and Indian trader, accumulating a considerable property. Laurens had no education, could not write his name at least when a young man, and was a laborer and farmer. The descendants of Gerrit were largely merchants, although many became farmers. In general they maintained a high degree of culture and social rank. Several of them attained to positions of prominence in the affairs of the Colony before and during the Revolution. For example, the first Treasurer of the State and the first Speaker of the Assembly were both from this family, while several held commissions in the Revolutionary Army. Since that period they have been less prominent in public affairs although maintaining a position of high social standing and respectability.

The descendants of Laurens may be said in some ways to have started at the bottom. The family prior to the Revolution was obscure, its members were chiefly laborers, farmers, and artisans with usually only limited opportunities for education and acquiring but little of this world's goods. In the Revolution they actually furnished more soldiers than the Gerrit Bancker family, but none of them held rank above a corporal. They were, in fact, as often described in legal documents, yeomen, and yeoman under a semi-feudal system. With the organization of the new nation a larger opportunity opened. The farmer and the artisan entered into his inheritance, the right of an education and the accumulation of property in his own name. Even before this, evidences of some education and the accumulation of property had begun to appear in the family, but now in several different lines more or less of prosperity came and with it better advantages. To day many of this family have reached places of high social standing while a few have been brought into a considerable degree of public prominence.

Both families were, on the whole, loyal to the American cause in the Revolution. I know of no tories. Two or three connected by marriage are doubtful. All who took actual part fought on the American side, and many were vigorous and active in the cause. Some were leaders continuing steadfast and patient through the darkest days of that struggle, others labored in the trenches and behind the guns. They bled, suffered privations, imprisonment, and death in no rhetorical sense, but literally as these records show. A few of the name were deserters. I could not identify these, but do not doubt that they were members of the family. Particulars as to the circumstances of their desertion are lacking and at this distance we must be charitable in our judgment of such an act much as we may regret the occurrence. Revolutionary records demonstrate that in thousands of instances desertions were by no means evidence of either lack of courage or lack of loyalty. Washington himself on more than one occasion condoned these acts declaring that the sufferings and trials of the men were greater than human blood could endure. The story of the mutiny of the Pennsylvania Line should never be forgotten for it shows what was the real spirit of these acts of insubordination. These men driven to the last state of desperation by the awful agony of the struggle never lost sight of the great principle for which they suffered. It does not become us, therefore, to hastily condemn them while we sit in the comfortable enjoyment of that which they purchased by what was more than a blood sacrifice.

In all my researches I have not found that either family ever produced a criminal of any kind, nor have I ever known of one of the name being under arrest on a criminal charge. This seems to be a most remarkable record. I can not venture to assert that such a thing has never occurred, but my researches have not discovered anything of the kind. I can not speak so strongly, however, of some forms of moral laxity, and each family must acknowledge that it has had its delinquents, perhaps not more than other families, yet enough to keep us humble that we be not over boastful of our family honor. I have not considered it necessary to call specific attention to these. The sins of the dead are past. This mention is made lest in our ignorance we be exalted with false pride.

The Gerrit Bancker family has not been prolific in male lines, although many of the families have been large. In the successive branches, therefore, the name has often run out or been perpetuated by a single line. On the other hand the Laurens Bancker family has almost constantly produced a majority of males and so has spread the name widely. As a result most families by the name of Banker will be found to trace to Laurens rather than to Gerrit. There are a few exceptions. The name spelled Bancker is very rarely met with today and these are probably all descendants of Gerrit.

This leads us to the consideration of the ## NAME.

As to the origin of the name of the family, I have found considerable interesting data, but such as rather incites curiosity than gratifies it. In the earlier records of the Colony of New York, while still under the influence of the Dutch spirit and language, the name is nearly always spelled Bancker, sometimes Banckert.

As the English language became dominant there was a gradual dropping of the c in different lines as they became anglicized, and today all the descendants of Laurens Bancker spell their name Banker. The descendants of Gerrit Bancker in part retain the c, while some have dropped it.

At the time of the Revolution we find the name on muster rolls spelled quite frequently Bonker. This was probably English spelling of a Dutch name by sound. Two or three traditions that have been related to me also indicated that the name was formerly pronounced as though spelled Bonker, and this would accord with the Dutch pronunciation of Bancker. I have reason to believe that there are some lines of the family who now spell their name Bonker, but I have been unable to positively trace any such.

In some of the very early records of Laurens Bancker, the name is spelled Banckert, and this appears to be an older form of the name. In fact, among Holland records I have found the name spelled Banequaert. What significance this latter spelling may have I can not say, but it certainly has a French flavor and may suggest Huguenot influence. The name of Gerrit Bancker also appears occasionally with a final t.

The earliest trace that I have found of the name in history has been in connection with a somewhat remarkable family of Dutch sea-captains, eleven of whom served in the Dutch navy during the rise of the Dutch Republic and the period of Dutch maritime supremacy. They were indeed representative "Sea-Beggars." The history of this family is of interest to us because of its relation to the origin of the name Bancker in at least one instance. The first of these sea-captains was Joos van Trappen of Middelburg in Zeeland, who died Jan. 4, 1596. He seems to have had at least two sons, both of whom became sea-captains, Michael van Trappen, "called Banckert," and Adrian Banckert. We are told that Van Trappen was properly the family name, but that the descendants of Joos added the name Banckert, and by this name they have been chiefly known. I have not been able to discover the least suggestion as to why they added the cognomen Banckert which they seem to have preferred to their original name of Van Trappen. De Jonge writes the name Banckers, but De la Rue writes it Banckert, and we are informed that in the original written signature the final letter is "as much a t as an s."

The son of Michael, a second Joos, arose to the dignity of Vice-Admiral and commanded a division of the fleet under the famous Admiral Tromp when he sailed up the English Channel with a broom at his mast's head. He died in 1647. His son, Adrian, became the most famous of the family. He became Captain in 1642, Vice-Admiral in 1665, and Lieut.-Admiral in 1666. His portrait is given by De Jonge.

The following genealogical table of these "Sea-Beggars" taken from De Jonge's, Geschiedenis van het Nederlandsche Zeewesen, will perhaps be of some interest. I give the table verbatim et literatim.

Joos van Trappen,

† te Middelburg, 4. Jan., 1596.

I have found no evidence that either Laurens Bancker or Gerrit Bancker was in any way connected with this family of Dutch seamen, but I have made very little search of Holland records.* Similarity in names suggests the possibility of some relationship for Gerrit.

The name Banker, however, is occasionally found in Germany. There is a family of the name living in Philadelphia who came from Walzhut, Baden, in Germany about sixty years ago. There is also a Gottlieb Banker in Chicago who informed me that he came from Switzerland about 1884. He was born in Winterthur, and the family had lived in the Canton of Zurich, he believed, for five or six generations. A glance at the map will show that this is in close contact with Baden, Germany, and suggests that these are two branches of a south German family. There is also another family in Chicago who hail from Berlin, Germany. In Pittsburgh, Penn., I found a Banker who was so recent an arrival from the German Fatherland as to be unable to converse with me in English. I question if the German Bankers have any connection with the Holland Banckers. The fact that Banker is evidently a German name and belongs to a German family is some reason why we who are of Dutch descent should retain the c and write our name as originally Bancker. I should regard the restoration of the c where it has been dropped for several generations as suggestive of snobbery, yet I can not feel but that its loss has been unfortunate.

In Brooklyn, N. Y., there is a John F. Banker who came from Russian Poland where, he informed me, his name was Bankerwitz, the ending witz being a Polish terminal like son in our English Johnson. He claimed that his family came originally from Scotland to Poland during the wars of the 17th century. Aside from this I have never heard of the name Banker as a Scotch name, nor does the name itself suggest a Scotch origin.

The "Patronymica Britannica" says of the name Bancker that it is a corrupt spelling of the name Banker. This is the only intimation I have seen that either name ever appears as the patronymic of an English family. However true the above statement may be of English families it is not true of Dutch families.

* Mr. A. A. Vorsterman van Oyen of Arnhem, Steynstrasse 17, Holland, is able to furnish considerable information concerning the Holland families of the name. I did not feel able to avail myself of his researches.

The most remarkable experience I have ever had was to find in New York City a family of Russian Jews by the name of Banker. The father, Lewis Banker, came to this country from Russia in 1871. When his children began to attend the public schools of the city, they pronounced their name to the teacher who spelled it as easily as she could according to the sound, Banker, and they have continued to use the name so spelled ever since. Precisely what the Russian name may have been it would be difficult to tell, but by this means we have started here in America a Jewish line of Bankers.

The name Bankert occurs occasionally in this country, but I have not had an opportunity to trace any of these families or to learn the origin of their name.

FAMILY INSIGNIA.

No citizen of the United States has any right that could be recognized either by the laws of this country or of Europe to bear coat armor of any kind whether by assumption or inheritance; nor is the use of heraldic insignia as indicative of family rank consistent with American principles. Nevertheless, as pertaining to the history of one's ancestry under different social conditions, the question as to what armorial devices they may have borne is a proper subject of enquiry and rightfully belongs to a family history. To an American family coat armor has much the character of a rare antique; it is of little or no use, often difficult to prove and taken largely on faith, but ornamental and gratifying to the possessor.

Bankert Arms according to Rietstap

My researches as to the coats of arms which may have been borne by Bankers have not been extended very far and have not resulted in much information. The only coat of arms that I know of attributed to this name is described by Rietstap as follows: "De gules a la fasce ondee d'argent accompane de trois escalier a vis d'or." The charge is a rather unique design in heraldry which more commonly figures animals or plants. Its significance can only be surmised, but it suggests the purpose of attainment. No motto is given with the arms, but an appropriate one would seem to be "Climbing up the golden stair." The arms described were borne under the name of Banckert by the family of Dutch sea-captains previously mentioned whose ancestral name was van Trappen. I have not been able to connect any of our American families with this distinguished line.

In the Gerrit Bancker family there have appeared in use certain heraldic designs which have been thought by some to be coat armor. However they may have originated, these designs were used as book-plates. Six such designs have been discovered and there may have been others. Charles D. Allen in his work on "American Book Plates," page 167, describes five of these. The oldest appears to be that of Evert Bancker Jr., (No. 344) which is here reproduced. His son, Charles N. Bancker, had two book-plates, an earlier one similar in design to that of his father and a later which was an elaboration of this design into a pictorial plate. Gerard Bancker (probably brother of Evert Jr.) also had a pictorial book plate, as did likewise Abraham Bancker. I do not know what Abraham this is unless it be the surrogate of Richmond county, see page 255. All of the above are described by Allen and the last is represented on page 143 of his work. Richard Bancker (perhaps the son of Christopher, No. 304) had a much simpler design than any of these, being somewhat similar to that of Evert here shown, but without a motto.

and there may have been others. Charles D. Allen in his work on "American Book Plates," page 167, describes five of these. The oldest appears to be that of Evert Bancker Jr., (No. 344) which is here reproduced. His son, Charles N. Bancker, had two book-plates, an earlier one similar in design to that of his father and a later which was an elaboration of this design into a pictorial plate. Gerard Bancker (probably brother of Evert Jr.) also had a While these book-plates differ more or less from each other in almost every feature there is one character that remains common to them all. This is a conspicuous figure 4 as the center of the design. Its significance is not positively known. On account of the heraldic character of these designs some have supposed them to represent a coat of arms. It has been claimed that the 4 stands for "four ships taken from the enemy." I have not found the slightest evidence in support of this claim, and it involves several assumptions for which there appears to be little foundation. No such character is known in heraldry and it seems improbable that the design originated from coat armor. It has been suggested that it was a business trade-mark. As these men were all prominent merchants there may be something in this, but I have found no direct evidence in support of the suggestion. The fact that the men who thus emphasized this character in common were often only first and sometimes second cousins would indicate that it had originated at least one or two generations earlier. In this connection it may be observed that when Elizabeth, wife of Gerrit Bancker, was about to visit Holland in 1668 she was given power of attorney by her mother, Maritje Damiens, to receive from S. H. Sybingh of Amsterdam a certain instrument intrusted to his keeping several years before and sealed with the mark here shown. Whether this has any connection with the 4 appearing in the Bancker book-plates I cannot say. In any case this figure appears to be as distinctively a family mark as though it were indeed an heraldic character registered in some European Herald's College. If there is something of mystery as to its origin and significance, it but adds to its interest as a family symbol.

VITAL STATISTICS.

An attempt to compile vital statistics of the family has proved unsatisfactory on account of the very incomplete data obtained concerning many of the families. In many cases this is due to carelessness or negligence in making returns; in other cases it is due to a loss of records. At the best only a rough approximation can be hoped for, too crude to be of any value in drawing definite conclusions. Nevertheless these tables serve to bring together many facts concerning the family, and will be found suggestive of interesting reflections. Because of the unsatisfactory character of this work no attempt is made to include more than the descendants of Laurens Bancker, and all comments and remarks must be understood as applying to this family.

Since these tables were constructed some further reports have been received which would change the actual figures to some extent but would not materially alter the relative conditions.

SIZE OF FAMILIES.

In studying the history of any family it is always a matter of some interest to know how many children there were to a family. This is also a matter of vital interest as bearing on the question of the perpetuation of the family. The following table will be found of some interest in this connection and needs little explanation. There have been included in the table only those families in which there is reason to believe their quota of children is complete. This rule excludes 97 families of recent marriage.

The families are divided into two groups; the first consisting of those families from a single marriage, and the second of families from a double marriage. One element of error effecting the "Average per family," especially for double families, has crept in. Double marriages in which one of the unions was childless have been placed in the single marriage group. This makes the "Average per family" for double marriages too high. There should also be added to the table one family of 14 children by a triple marriage, 7 boys and 7 girls.

An interesting feature in the table is the fact that the male children exceed in number the females. By comparison with the next table this appears to be a law of the family.

LONGEVITY.

The following table shows approximately the age attained by various members of the family. It is divided into two groups: the dead whose longevity is determined, and the living whose longevity is undetermined, as many of these may be expected to add many years yet to their lives. The latter part of the table is, therefore, of no value whatever as bearing on the question of the longevity of the family, but is retained because of its interest in other ways. In fact, the material bearing directly on the subject of longevity proves to be too meager to give very much satisfaction. It must be remembered that, in the first place, we are confined in our statistics to those descendants of Laurens whose names actually appear in this work,—as near as can be estimated, much less than half the total number of his posterity; second, even from these must be excluded those still living,—nearly two-thirds of the number; and, finally, of the latter more than one-third must be put one side on account of their age at death being unknown. This means that out of possibly 5,000 or more descendants we have only about 500 on whom to base any study of longevity. Yet even this meager list furnishes some interesting comparisons. It will be observed that the period of greatest mortality is under ten years. This is in accordance with the law of human mortality. It is said that half the human race die before they are five years old. In the present case, of about 524 deaths 230, or nearly one-half, occurred before the age of ten. This item, however, should undoubtedly be larger, as in some families there was a failure to report children who died in infancy. A striking feature of this item is the remarkable equality of mortality in the sexes at this period, which is in marked contrast with the conditions that prevail later in life. Excluding this first decade, we find that the period of greatest mortality for the females is between the ages of 20 and 40 years, while the period of greatest mortality for males is past 60, even up to 90.

As compared with the American Experience Table of Mortality the family appears to be short lived. Especially is there a high rate of mortality at just that period when according to the American Table it ought to be lowest. This perhaps is partly, but not wholly, accounted for by the extreme mortality of women at this period. On the other hand, a considerably larger number than the Experience Table would lead us to expect reach the advanced age of 90 years, and here, curiously enough, the females lead.

* The number that would be expected to die according to the American Experience Table of Mortality.

† These numbers are undoubtedly too small. Full reports of the latest families are difficult to obtain.

This table emphasizes another fact already observed in the preceding table, that is, that the family tends to an excess of males over females. This is seen in the totals of living members as well as in those of the dead. It is also shown by the fact that more females have married into the family than males. This appears from the following figures: there have married into the family at least 691 persons; of these 292 have died, and 399 are still living; of the 292 who have died, 129 were males and 163 were females, and of the 399 living, 183 are males and 216 are females.

It may be further noted from this table that we have, as gathered in this record, a total of 2,028* direct descendants of Laurens Bancker, of whom 1,145 are still living. This is probably not half of the actual descendants of Laurens. To this number we may add the 691 mentioned above as becoming members of the family by marriage, making a total of 2,719.

A further most remarkable fact is, that of this list of nearly 3,000 persons in the family there is a difference between males and females of only 3.

DISTRIBUTION.

The distribution of the family by birth in states and countries has been as follows:

The migrations and distribution of the family have been chiefly along certain well defined lines, which are largely de-terminated by the topography of the country and the development of the means of communication. Laurens himself, arriving when the country was new and settlements were mostly confined to the narrow rim of the Atlantic Seaboard, located first at New York and later moved to what was then a frontier at Tarrytown. His descendants for the next hundred years, nearly three generations, were almost wholly confined to the county of Westchester. A few crossed the Hudson to its west bank.

With the advent of the Revolution this region became disturbed and broken up, and on the return of peace we find the family greatly scattered, and it is at this time that we lose all further trace of a number of lines. One line appears to have remained near Tarrytown, others we find in various parts of Dutchess county. By the end of the century one branch had settled in Putnam county, and many of these are still found about Peekskill and Carmel. Another branch had settled near Hyde Park and have a few members in that vicinity yet. A third tarried a while in Dutchess county but finally settled in Schaghticoke, Rensselaer county, N. Y. A few of these are still in this region. A fourth likewise lived for a time in Dutchess county, but finally made its way to the far north at Plattsburgh, Clinton county, and their descendants are to be found in large numbers still in that region. Several evidently crossed the Hudson and settled in Greene county, Delaware county, and Orange county. These latter have been more difficult to trace than the others.

A generation later, about 1820-1835, with the opening of western New York by the Erie Canal, several of the Schaghticoke family migrated to the country between Syracuse and Rochester, and their descendants are to be found in this region now. At the same time others from the lower counties, Greene, Delaware, and Putnam, also migrated to the region near Ithaca and Elmira and are still found there. A little later came the opening of the Northwest Territory, and finally Minnesota, and several of the families of Central New York pushed on into Michigan and northern Ohio. At this time the Plattsburgh hive began to swarm, and a number from this region migrated to the West. Some settled in central Ohio, others in northern Illinois, and a third lot in Minnesota, while still others made the long journey to far-away Utah. Soon after the Civil War the Schaghticoke family sent out another colony into Minnesota and one into Kansas.

Since that time the whole country has become so settled and the means of communication so easy that the members of these families no longer remain segregated in local colonies as formerly but become diffused more or less through the mass of the population and shift about from point to point with greater facility. It is, therefore, no longer possible to trace their migrations.

OCCUPATION.

As to occupation the family has been preeminently a race of farmers, laborers, and artisans. The only coat of arms that we can lay claim to is that which was so highly honored by Abraham Lincoln, a pair of shirt sleeves, the distinctive heraldic insignia of the highest order of strictly American nobility. The man who is ashamed of this coat of arms is not a true American.

Laurens Bancker himself seems to have been at first a laborer and later in life a tenant farmer on the Philipse Manor, or possibly was attached to the household of the Lord of the Manor. His descendants of the first three or four generations appear to have been without exception men and women who earned their living by the labor of their hands. Not until after the Revolution do we find any of the family entering the professions or even becoming merchants. Of the 172 placed in the following table as unknown, circumstantial evidence indicates that undoubtedly more than one-half were farmers or farm laborers. It seems safe, therefore, to assert that of the 700 whose occupation is here listed, at least 300 have been tillers of the soil.

Of the few who have assayed a professional career, an unusually large percentage have won more than average success. While the family has produced by direct descent only eleven lawyers, there have been five who have attained at least to the position of county judge and some have become conspicuous in their profession. There have been only four of direct descent engaged exclusively in religious work; a deaconess, a missionary, and two ordained ministers, one of whom is also a missionary. The two missionaries have attained conspicuous success in their work, and one has been honored with special recognition by the British Government for his services in India. Two of the family have entered upon the stage, of whom one has attained to the highest eminence as a popular actress and an artist in her profession.

As to the accumulation of this world's goods none of the family have become exceedingly wealthy; that is, I presume that there has not been more than one who has been worth half a million, and certainly there has never been a millionaire. A number, however, would be regarded as men of wealth in their local communities, and a very large number have been in comfortable, and even well-to-do, circumstances. In several communities they have been recognized socially as among the leading families and have exerted a positive influence on the development and character of the locality.

In the preceding table the first column is the list of those in direct descent, both male and female, who have actually engaged in some occupation; the second column contains the list of those females whose occupation may be regarded as that of their husbands. Under the item "Various" are included some thirty different occupations in which only one or two were engaged and which were difficult to classify; such as guide, tip-printer, mail-carrier, etc. These were all brought together under the one head to save room.

MILITARY SERVICE.

The patriotism of the family has been sound if not active, and perhaps in activity they compare favorably with most other families. On this point little data for comparison can be obtained. So far as can be determined none ever fought against their country, and a goodly number have been active in its service. As will be seen from the following table, most of this service has been in the ranks and not a few have bled, suffered captivity, and died.

Under "Regular Army" and "Navy" are given those whose service has been chiefly in the Philippines. There undoubtedly should be a larger number for the War of 1812. The records of this war are more difficult to collect than are those of the Revolution.

CHAPTER I.

LAURENS MATTYSE BANCKER.

1. LAURENS MATTYSE BANCKER, so far as the records show, first appeared in America at Harlem, now the vicinity of 125th Street in New York City, on Tuesday, November 7, 1673. He was known at this early date and for many years after, according to the Dutch custom,* simply as Laurens Mattysen, which was spelled, however, in various forms, Lowrens Mathysse, Laurens Matthyzen, Louwerens Mathys, Loutweyns Mattyse, and Louw-reijns Matijss, being some of the more important variations. In 1711 his name appears as Lowrens Banckert and about the same time, or a few years earlier perhaps, we find it written in full, Louwrens Mathysse Banckert.

The occasion that first brings this sturdy Dutchman to view was that of the troubles between the Dutch of New Amsterdam and the English of Connecticut at the time of the re-capture of the province by the Dutch from the English. In 1664 the English had seized the province of New Netherlands and made it a British colony. In 1673 it was re-captured by the Dutch and held for less than a year, when it was returned by treaty to the English. At the time of this seizure of the government by the Dutch, the English of the neighboring colony of Connecticut felt it their duty to interfere and began to make trouble and to threaten an attack upon the Dutch colony from that side. Harlem, being nearest the Connecticut border, was especially exposed to attack and the people deemed it necessary to take means for their protection. For this purpose, on the 7th of November, 1673, the "Schout, Magistrates, and the whole community being assembled," a force was organized under the command of Cornelis Jansen as captain. This was divided into "four companies or corporalships in order, by turns with their fellow soldiers, to keep the night watch and to go the rounds as needful, and each his arms to keep ready, provided with powder and lead as required." One of the members of this night watch, in the corporalship or company of Adolph Myer, was Laurens Matthyssen.

Whence did he come? On that question little light can be thrown. It is known that he was living in 1735. It seems very doubtful, therefore, if he was over twenty years old at the time of his appearance in Harlem in 1673. It is equally improbable that he was less than fourteen or fifteen at the time he was assigned a position in the night watch. We may assume, then, with considerable confidence that he was born sometime between 1650 and 1660. His name indicates that his father's name was Mattys, but at no time between the dates given do we find a record of the baptism of a child Laurens son of any Mattys.

Was he an immigrant? Searching the records of arrivals in the colony at this time reveals only the following rather tantalizing items: first, "Feb., 1658, in the ship Faith, Mattys Roeloffs, from Denmark, and wife and child," in this ship also came Hendrick Harmensen from Amsterdam, whose daughter Laurens afterward married; second, "Dec., 1657, in the Jan Baptist, Thys Jacobsen"; third, "Mar. 9, 1660, Matthys Princen, a soldier, from Waltneel," and, fourth, "May, 1661, in the St. Jean Baptist, Tys Barensten, from Leirdam, and wife and three children." We are left, therefore, in perplexity and doubt as to the history of Laurens prior to the 7th of November, 1673. From that date, however, the principal facts in his life can be determined, although there are some gaps that cannot be supplied.

Soon after his service on the Harlem Night Watch he seems to have cultivated the acquaintance of Jannetie Hendrickse, whom we may picture as a buxom Dutch maiden in a homespun petticoat and stomacher. She lived at Flatlands, now the south part of Brooklyn, and thither Laurens hied himself, not by trolley and elevated railroad, but by trudging sturdily over the hills and through the woods of Manhattan to what is now Peck's Slip, where he crossed the East River in a skiff, then trudged on through the sand hills of Bruecklyn to the Flatlands beyond, where he found the object of his search. They were married probably shortly before 1681.

Jannetie, whose name is also spelled Janneken and Janneije, was a daughter of Hendrick Harmensen and Egbertie Jans. Her father came from Amsterdam in 1658 and married Egbertie, of whose ancestry I find no trace, probably soon after his arrival. He settled in Flatlands, where he seems to have accumulated some property. He died between 1674 and 1677, leaving the widow Egbertie and five children, Herman, Styntje, Jannetie, John, and Annetie. Herman married Margriet Sodder of Hempsted, and had a son Hendrick, baptized June 22, 1679, and a daughter Cornelia, baptized July 8, 1681. Styntje married Eldert Lucasse Voorhies, a farmer of Middewout (Flatbush), and had children: Lucas, bapt. Dec. 5 or 25, 1677; Hendrikje, bapt. Apr. 4, 1680; Johannes, bapt. Dec. 26, 1681; Anetje, bapt. Feb. 24, 1684. John and Annatie were minors in 1681 and nothing more is known of them.

The widow, Egbertie, soon after the death of her husband, married Jan Sneediker, a widower with at least four children. He was a shoemaker by trade and came to this country in 1642. He kept a tap-house, or tavern, in New Amsterdam until 1654, when he was sent by Governor Stuyvesant to found his new settlement at Middewout. He was one of the signers of the Patent and was the local magistrate from 1654-1664. He died in 1679, soon after his marriage to Egbertie, leaving considerable property.

As the children of both families were now grown and marrying, it became necessary to have some settlement of the conflicting interests and to provide for the care of the widow. For this reason the family assembled, Jan. 30, 1681, before the town clerk and drew up a mutual agreement of settlement, the original of which is still preserved in the Brooklyn Hall of Records. It is written in Dutch, but the following is a translation of it:

"On this the thirtieth day of the month January of the year of our Lord Jesus Christ anno 1681, in the 34th year of His Majesty's reign, appeared before me, Direk Storm, clerk, in the town Midwout, in their own persons the worthy Egbertje Janze, at present widow of Jan Sneediker deceased, on the one side, and Peter Comelize empowered by Anna, daughter of Jan Snediker deceased, and Peter Comelize, husband and guardian of Jannitie Sneediker, and Geridt Sneediker and Peter Come-lize aforesaid empowered by Styntje Sneediker, all sisters and brothers and surviving children by will of Jan Sneediker aforesaid; as also therebesides the present children of the aforesaid Egbertje Janze, by name Herman Hendricks and Eldert Luij-casse, at present husband and guardian Stijntje Hendrickze, and Louwreijns Matijss, husband and guardian of Janitje Hendrickze, and Coort Steffense and Willem Huijen, guardian and tutor over Jan Hendrickze and Annitje Hendrickze, who together have found it good and agreed in friendly manner for the best interests of the said widow and also for the best interests of all the aforesaid, agreeing herein upon the following condition, (the which the right of inheritance shall appear upon the death of the aforesaid widow).

Firstly, to wit, the lot of land and valleys with all that is ground and nail-fast on or in the same, just as it was owned by the aforesaid Jan Sneediker deceased and as it is owned by the present widow aforesaid up to this time, together with all such rights and privileges as depend on and to the same or may afterwards accrue from declarations of the deed thereof, the aforesaid Geridt Sneediker shall take possession of next month of August, anno 1682, to till and to use just as shall please his mind, forever and in perpetuity, with also such horses, to wit three horses, two geldens and an old mare, with an old wagon, with further the old hay and iron-work which in all belongs to the same. For this aforesaid parcel the said Geridt Sneediker promises to make and keep in repair a house, with the garden and the enjoyment of the fruit trees, and also to furnish yearly two hundred and fifty guldens, with also the pasturage for two cows and their winter's fodder in behalf of the aforesaid Egbertie Janze, during her life time; but if the said widow is inclined to keep no cows, Geridt Sneediker shall be bound to pay for this pasturage and fodder aforesaid to the said widow.

Item. Since the human race is subject to death and nothing is more uncertain than the hour of the same, it is stipulated and confirmed by these presents that the said Geridt Sneediker shall pay also the sum of seven thousand guldens in four successively following years, the first payment beginning a year after date of the decease of the aforesaid widow of Jan Sneediker deceased; to wit, a rightful fourth part of the aforesaid seven thousand guldens, amounting each year or installment to seventeen hundred and fifty guldens, and the same to be paid in good marketable winter wheat or rye or pease market price, seawant value, and the same to be delivered at the ferry; to wit the year two hundred and fifty guldens for and to satisfaction of the said widow and the said seven thousand guldens to be paid them at the said time and to be delivered to and in behalf of the aforesaid children, in right manner and share as was announced by the last testament and final will made by the aforesaid Jan Sneediker deceased, provided he receives by the last payment good transport and deed from all the aforesaid parties herein.

Item. In case the said Geridt Sneediker, herein conditioned, may remain in arrears of payment of the aforesaid yearly sum in behalf of the said widow and again on account of the principal sum of seven thousand guildens, except his own share by declaration of the said testament and final will, the said lands shall be and remain for full security and pledge.

Thus done and executed, all without deceit or guile; in token of the truth, to fulfill what is written above, this is signed by the same with their own hands, on this day, month and year as above in presence of the undersigned credible witnesses hereunto invited.

¶ All of Geridt Sneediker's interest in the above settlement was later conveyed by him to Peter Comelize who seems to have taken possession of the farm.

In 1682 Egbertie as widow of Hendrijck Herremensen made conveyance of a house, lot, orchard, &c. It would seem, therefore, that for those early days she was left in comfortable circumstances. Nothing further is known of her.

After the above settlement of the Sneediker-Hermanse affairs, Laurens and his wife Jannetie appear to have left Flatbush and for the next twenty years their whereabouts are a little uncertain. Whether they went back to Harlem, or settled in New York, or found a location somewhere else it is difficult to determine. As his eldest children were baptized in the Dutch Reformed Church in New York it would seem that he must have lived in its vicinity. About the close of the century, however, there occurred a series of important changes in his affairs. The exact date of these events can not be fixed, but they evidently all occurred about the same time and may have been related. They were the death of his wife, his second marriage, his removal to Philipsburg Manor, and the assumption of the patronymic by which in a modified form his descendants have since been known.

Jannetie died about 1701 and he married, before 1704, Niesje De Groot. Her ancestry has not been determined. Only two immigrants of the name are known to have come before this time. William Pietersen De Groot, wife, and five children came over in April, 1662. He died within a year and his wife, Tystje Willem, having four minor children, appears to have married in 1663 Arien Huyberzen, a widower with three children. In April, 1663, Staes De Groot arrived from Tricht and is believed to have settled on Staten Island. Niesje may have been the daughter or grand-daughter of one of these.

About the same time Laurens seems to have settled on Philipsburg Manor. This was part of the estate of Frederick Philipse, one of the most conspicuous figures in the early history of New Netherlands and also afterward when it became New York. Philipse was a member of the governor's council for more than twenty years. He was of noble birth but came to the colony poor and without friends. He worked at the carpenter trade and helped to build the original Dutch Reformed Church in New York. He acquired considerable wealth by industry, trading and financially successful marriages. By grants from the government and purchases from the Indians he obtained possession of all the territory on the east shore of the Hudson between Spuyten Duyvil and Croton River comprising nearly four hundred square miles. This tract was afterward by royal charter erected into the Manor of Philipsborough or Philipsburgh. The manor house was a strong stone fortification, known as Castle Philipse, and stood near the banks of the Hudson at the mouth of the Pocantico or Sleepy Hollow brook. This building, since somewhat modified into a more elaborate mansion, is still standing on the original site, a mile or so north of Tarrytown. It was in this vicinity that Laurens now settled.

Old Sleepy Hollow Dutch Church—Built 1699.

In 1699 Philipse erected near his manor house a substantial stone church which is now the oldest church building in New York state. It stands at the east side of the road from Tarrytown and just north of the Pocantico. It faces the road and the west. Behind and to the north of the church lies the old graveyard filled with the ancient brown sand-stone grave-markers now crumbling to pieces. Continuous with this graveyard farther north extends the more modern Sleepy Hollow Cemetery. It was from the records of this ancient church that I was able to recover the great bulk of the history of Laurens Bancker and his immediate descendants. Laurens became one of the first members of this Sleepy Hollow Dutch Church, and his name appears in what may be called the list of the charter members of this old church as Louwrens Mattyse Banckert, the last name appearing now for the first time.

Laurens and his wife Niesje were both living at Sleepy Hollow as late as 1735, where they seem to have lived the quiet life typical of that famous spot, and which has perhaps cast the spell of its influence more or less over all their posterity. The wife at least occasionally visited the great metropolis but beyond that nothing is known of their doings, nor has it been possible to determine the date of death of either. The family maintained itself in this vicinity for nearly a hundred years, or until the whole region was broken up by the Revolution. Numerous at that time, they have since then utterly disappeared from the region. Today it is scarcely possible to find a resident of the place who has ever heard of one of the name living there.

There would seem to have been some special bond of attachment between Laurens and the Philipse family since we find that many of his children are named for members of that family; as Adolph, Frederick, Rombout, Catharine; while frequently the lady Catharina Philipse stands sponsor at their baptisms both at Sleepy Hollow and in New York.

The children of Laurens by his first wife were:

2. Anneken, bp. Mar. 28, 1686;
5. Hendrick, bp. Apr. 1, 1688;
15. Maria, bp. Mar. 25, 1691;
Rombout, bp. May 17, 1696; died young;
24. Fredrik, bp. May 22, 1698;
125. Adolf, bp. 1701.

By his second wife, Niesje De Groot, he had :

Rombout, bp. Nov. 5, 1704;
Barber, bp. June 16, 1707;
Johannis, bp. Mar. 21, 1711;
Catharina;

213. Jacob.

Nothing further is known of Barbara. She probably died young. All the children of the first wife except Adolph were baptized in New York. Adolph's baptism is entered on the Sleepy Hollow records but from the omission of the month and day appears as though it might have been entered sometime after the event. The first child of the second wife was baptized in New York, the next two at Sleepy Hollow. Catharina was the daughter of Niesje; Jacob may have been a son of Jannetie but see page 225 for discussion.

Rombout was baptized in New York and was the only one of Niesje's children that was baptized there. He married, Aug. 5, 1727, Maritje Davidson who was baptized Mar. 10, 1704, a daughter of David Davidson and Jannitje——. He had at least four children as follows:—Louwrens, bp. Apr. 27, 1728; David, bp. Apr. 11, 1730; Barbara, bp. June 15, 1737; Abraham, bp. June 16, 1744. All trace of Rombout's descendants was lost beyond these children, except possibly Lawrence.*

Johannis was baptized at Sleepy Hollow and married, Aug. 10, 1734, Catharina Davids, possibly a sister of Maritje who married his brother Rombout. He had at least two children; Niesje, bp. Apr. 1, 1735, and Myno, bp. May 1, 1748. Niesje married at Philipsburg, Dec. 4, 1756, Jakobus Kennif who was baptized Apr. 24, 1731, a son of Jeremias Kennif or Cennif and Annatie De Rivier. The family was traced no further. Myno, or Willemeyntie, married, June 1, 1767, Jacob Timber† from Tappan. They settled in Tappan where they had at least two children; Johannis born Nov. 13, 1770, and Cathrina, born Nov. 19, 1772. These were traced no further.

Catharina was the daughter of Niesje as appears from a statement at the baptism of one of her children. The record of her own baptism was not found, but she was a witness to a baptism as early as 1718. This suggests that she must have been older than Johannis at least. She married, Mar. 13, 1724*, Johannes Laurier, a widower of New York. She had at least four children: a pair of twins, Anna and Jannetje, bp. Oct. 26, 1726; then Christiaan, bp. Sept. 25, 1728; and Jannetje, bp. Aug. 11, 1731. The family was traced no further.

† According to the Tappan records his name was Trumper. The name appears later to have been spelled Tremper.

CHAPTER II.

THE CRANCKHEYT FAMILY.

2. ANTJE BANCKER (1) was baptized in the old Dutch Church of New York, Mar. 28, 1686. She married Hendrick Cranckheyt* and they lived in the vicinity of the present Tarrytown. They became members of the Sleepy Hollow Church, he by confession of faith June 18, 1717, and their children were all baptized there. Hendrick, who was himself baptized in the New York church June 21, 1682, was according to that record a son of Teunis Herek and Sophia Hendriex. Teunis was a son of Harek Siboutsen and Wyntie Teunis and married Sophia, who was from Esopus, Aug. 10, 1679.

Concerning this Cranckheyt family James Riker says, "Harek Siboutsen, who was a ship carpenter and a native of Languedoc in the south of France, married at New Amsterdam in 1642, Wyntie Teunis from Naerden. He owned property near the Heeren Gracht, adjoining Abm. Riker. In or about 1650 he removed to the Poor Bowery† where he died between 1681 and 1684. His widow survived him many years. They had sons, Sibout, Teunis, John, and Jacobus. The first three brothers settled in the Manor of Cortlandt, Westchester Co., assumed the name of Krankheyt (now written Kronkhite or Cronkhite) and have many descendants there." This assumption of the surname is evidently in the same abrupt way that we have seen the name Banckert adopted. Hendrick and Antje had a large family as the following taken from the church records will show:

Theunis, bp. June 1, 1708;

Lowrens, bp. March 21, 1710;

3. Jenneke, bp. March 21, 1711;

Sophia, bp. March 25, 1712;

Wyntje, bp. May 25-26, 1714;

---

* The name is spelled variously Kranckheyt, Krankheyt, and Crankheyt. In later days it has been corrupted into Cronkheyt, Cronkhite, and even Cronk.

† On the south shore of Bowery Bay in Long Island City.

Hendricus, bp. June 11, 1715;
 Zefya, bp. April 23, 1717;
 Johannis, bp. June 24, 1718;
 Johannis, bp. August 31, 1720;
 Maria, bp. April 24, 1722;
 Annatje, bp. April 23, 1723;

4. Helena, bp. April 10, 1725.

It may be noted that the first four children were named after the four grand-parents. This was in accordance with the Dutch custom. Sophia, Wyntje, Zefya, and Annatje have been traced no further.

Theunis married, Nov. 2, 1728, Antje Van Tassel, a daughter of William and Weyntie Van Tassel. He appears to have always lived in the Manor of Philipsburg where he had children as follows: Aaltje, bapt. Apr. 1, 1735; Jacob, bapt. Apr. 23, 1737; Johannis, bapt. Apr. 10, 1739; Abraham, bapt. Oct. 20, 1741. These have been traced no further.

Lowrens married Wyntje Brouwer from the Manor of Cortlandt Apr. 7, 1744. She was the daughter of Matthys Brouwer* and Wyntje Cranckheyt* and was baptized June 13, 1724. After their marriage no further trace was found of Lowrens and Wyntje and it is probable that they soon removed from Sleepy Hollow.

Hendrick probably married Esther Daniels of Langh Reesths Oct. 10, 1741. He lived at Philipsburg where he seems to have had the following children baptized: Maria, bapt. Apr. 13, 1754; Antje, bapt. Nov. 1, 1756; Hester, bapt. Apr. 24, 1759; Jan, bapt. June 28, 1763; Rebecca, bapt. June 20, 1766. The family has been traced no further.

Johannis married, Dec. 3, 1743, Hilletje Beselie, who was baptized at Sleepy Hollow June 26, 1722, a daughter of Frank Beselie and Hilletje ———. He had at least two children as follows: Hilletje, bapt. Aug. 22, 1744, and Timotheus, bapt. Apr. 25, 1749. They have been traced no further.

Maria appears to have married either Dirk Van Thexel or Van Tassel, Sept. 25, 1742, or she may have married Jan Delie-* Matthys Brouwer lived in the Manor of Cortlandt and he married, Mar. 19, 1719, Wyntje Cranckheyt "from Long Island." According to Riker, Jacobus, the only one of the Cranckheyt brothers who remained on Long Island, married but died without issue at the age of 70 years. Who then was Wyntje Cranckheyt?

novi from New York, Sept. 5, 1741. According to the church records there were two Maritie Cranckheyts who married as above and it is not possible to tell which is the present one. No further records of either were found.

3. JANNETIE CRANCKHEYT (2) was baptized at Sleepy Hollow, March 21, 1711, and married David Foseur, also of Philipsburg, Apr. 13, 1734. This name is so variously spelled that it becomes difficult to trace since one is often in doubt whether it can be really the same name.* David appears to have been the son of Jan and Evatje Foseur and was baptized at Sleepy Hollow Mar. 25, 1706. He and his wife appear to have lived at Philipsburg where they had ten children baptized as follows:

Jan, bp. June 25, 1734;
 Hendrick, bp. Apr. 1, 1735;
 Annatje, bp. Oct. 18, 1737;
 Abraham, bp. Apr. 10, 1739;
 Jannetje, bp. June 3, 1740;
 David, bp. Sept. 25, 1742;
 Jacob, bp. Nov. 10, 1744;
 Eva, bp. Apr. 19, 1746;
 Matheus, }
 Teunis, } bp. May 1, 1748.

The last two were probably twins. Eva married, June 9, 1765, Thomas Feil or Teil. The family has been traced no further, but they were of a martial spirit as four of them at least enlisted in the French and Indian War, and one or more gave up his life in the cause of his country.

Hendrick when 25 years old enlisted, Mar. 21, 1759, in Capt. William Gilchrist's Company, and died in the army. He was 5 ft. 9 in. high with light hair and eyes. Abraham enlisted, Apr. 13, 1758, in Capt. John Verplanck's Company. He was 5 ft. 8 in. high with brown eyes and a dark complexion. David enlisted, Mar. 31, 1760, in Capt. Bayeux's Company. He was a cordwainer, that is a shoemaker, and was 5 ft. 7 in. high with light hair and eyes. Jacob enlisted, May 13, 1760, also in Capt. Bayeaux's Company. He was 5 ft. 5 in. high with light eyes and brown hair. It seems probable also that Jan enlisted in this war as the name of John Fushey appears in a list of deceased soldiers of 1759.

4. HELENA CRANCKHEYT (2) was baptized at Sleepy Hollow April 10, 1725, and married Hendrick Kool Jan. 21, 1749-50. He was born at sea about 1719, but his parentage is not known. Apr. 8, 1758, he enlisted in Captain Jonathan Fowler's Company for the French and Indian War, having been a member of Captain John Underhill's militia company. He enlisted again, May 2, 1760, in Captain Gilchrist's Company. He was 5 ft. 8 in. high and had grey eyes and a light complexion. Record has been found of only two children as follows:

Hendrick, bo. Dec. 12, 1750; bp. June 4, 1751;

Johannes, bp. Oct. 24, 1758.

The older son, Hendrick, married Christina Conklin of whom nothing more is known, nor is the date of their marriage known. They had children as follows; Aaltje, bapt. Nov. 5, 1774, and Hendrick, bapt. Feb. 6, 1777. The family has been traced no further.

CHAPTER III.

THE HENDRICK BANCKER FAMILY.

5. HENDRICK BANCKER (1) was baptized in the Dutch Reformed Church in New York City April 1, 1688. He married, Jan. 15, 1715, Marytje De Vouw, widow of Jacob Buys, and settled in Philipsburg. The record of his marriage states that he was born there. He joined the Sleepy Hollow Church Oct. 31, 1724. His wife was a daughter of Abraham De Vouw* and Mynno de Maree and was born in 1691. She married Jacob Buys in 1709 by whom she had two children, Abraham and Jacob. The latter born Sept. 20, and baptized Oct. 14, 1713, in Tappan after the death of his father. Hendrick's children were as follows:·

6. Abraham, bp. June 11, 1715;
Jan, bp. June 24, 1718;
9. Jannetje, bp. Aug. 31, 1720;
10. Nicolaes, bp. Apr. 23, 1723;
12. Rachael, bp. Dec. 4, 1725;
13. Hendrik, bp. Apr. 11, 1730;
Isaak, bp. Apr. 17, 1733;
14. Willemina.

Concerning Jan and Isaak no further trace has been made. It appears certain that Hendrick had a daughter Willemina, though no record of her birth or baptism has been found. Her name appears in the records usually as Myno or Meino but sometimes in full. I am also strongly of the opinion that there was a Gregorius born in 1728 and, therefore between Rachel and Hendrick.†

---

* Thos. F. De Voe in his "Genealogy of the De Veaux Family" informs us that Nicholas De Vouw was a French refugee who had escaped first to Germany and then to England and finally came with his wife and children to this country in 1674. He settled first in Harlem and was one of the "Night Watch" there in 1675. He afterward moved to Bergen, N. J., and finally to Hackensack. His oldest son was Abraham who married Mynno De Maree (probably de Marest) in 1688, and first settled in Hackensack, but about 1705 removed to Philipsburg. For a more complete account of this family see De Voe's Genealogy.

† See page 351.

6. ABRAHAM BANCKER (5) was baptized at Sleepy Hollow June 11, 1715, and married, Sept. 19, 1741, Rachel Gerritse who was also born at Philipsburg. They appear to have lived at Philipsburg until after 1758 and to have moved to New York before 1760. They had children as follows:

- 7. Arie, bp. June 12, 1742;
Abraham, bo. Nov. 5, bp. Nov. 10, 1744;
Marie, bo. June 26, bp. July 26, 1747;
- 8. Rachel, bp. Oct. 25, 1749;
Rebecca, bo. Dec. 27, 1753; bp. Apr. 15, 1754;
Elizabeth, bp. Apr. 25, 1758;
Johannis, bp. Feb. 6, 1760;
Annatje, bp. Mar. 14, 1762.

No further trace was made of any of these children except Aaron and Rachel. Marie possibly married John Beekman of New York, the license being dated Mar. 2, 1769. The first six children were all baptized at Sleepy Hollow and the last two were baptized in New York.

7. AARON BANCKER (6) was baptized at Sleepy Hollow Dec. 13, 1741. He evidently moved to New York with his father and became a bricklayer, being admitted as freeman of the city in 1770. He was one of the city firemen in 1776 under command of Jacobus Stoutenburgh. He married Margaret Steg of New York, Nov. 16, 1764. His children were:

- Abraham, bp. Mar. 20, 1765;
- Martha, bp. Sept. 21, 1766;
- Rachel, bp. Oct. 23, 1768;
- John, bp. Sept. 16, 1770;
- Margaret, bp. Oct. 25, 1772.

None of these have been traced any further.

8. RACHEL BANCKER (6) was baptized at Sleepy Hollow Oct. 25, 1749. She removed to New York, doubtless with her parents, and there married Jasper Stymets Mar. 24, 1767. She had at least five children as follows:

- Pieter, bp. Apr. 19, 1772;
- Frederick, bp. May 14, 1775;
- Abraham, bo. Nov. 4, 1780; bp. Aug. 17, 1784;
- John, bo. June 3, 1783; bp. Aug. 17, 1784;
- Benjamin, bo. Sept. 20; bp. Nov. 6, 1785.

All of the children were baptized in New York and its being the disturbed time of the Revolution accounts for the irregularities in the baptisms. This family has been traced no further, but a Peter Stymets married Maria Thompson and had a son Jasper born Oct. 16, 1793.

9. JANNETJE BANCKER (5) was baptized Aug. 31, 1720, at Sleepy Hollow and married Barent Duytser in the same place Oct. 7, 1738. He was a son of Barent Duytser and Marie Kanklie, and was born in Tappan, across the Hudson, Aug. 15, 1714. His father lived in Philipsburg at least from 1697 to 1712 when he probably moved to Tappan. After their marriage Barent and Jannetje continued to reside at Philipsburg where they had the following children:

Johannis, bp. Aug. 7, 1739; died young;

Maritje, bp. June 12, 1742;

Lena, bp. Oct. 31, 1745;

Johannis, bp. Sept. 30, 1747;

Catrina, bp. Oct. 25, 1749;

Elizabeth, bp. Aug. 17, 1752;

Rebecca, bp. Oct. 26, 1754;

Isaac, bp. Sept. 6, 1757;

Jacob, bp. Oct. 28, 1759;

Rachel, bo. Mar. 20; bp. Apr. 30, 1763.

Little further is known of this family. Elizabeth appears to have married Levi Weillie, Jan. 10, 1770. A Barent Dutcher, probably our Barent above, made his will June 8, 1772, and it was admitted to probate Dec. 31, 1772. In this he mentions his daughters, Mary, Catharina, and Rachel and his son Isaac. It also appears that Mary had married Lieut. Geo. Monson and had at least one son, George, born Nov. 12, 1784. Catharina married a Barnes and possibly after 1772 married second Timothy Brooks by whom she had at least two daughters, Mary, born Mar. 7, 1785, and Hannah, born May 6, 1787. In 1766 Barent seems to have been living on Franklin or Main St., Tarrytown, N. Y.

10. NICHOLAS BANCKER (5) was baptized at Sleepy Hollow Apr. 23, 1723. He married, June 25, 1748, Magdalena Van Wormer from Catskill. They lived for a time at Philipsburg, but about 1750 removed to New York where he became a freeman in 1751. He had at least five children as follows:

Isaac, bp. Aug. 24, 1748;

Cornelis, bp. Oct. 25, 1749;

Catharina, bp. Jan. 10, 1753;

Nicholaas, bp. June 4, 1755; died young;

11. Nicholaas, bp. June 15, 1757.

The first two were baptized at Sleepy Hollow, but the remainder in New York. It seems probable that Isaac was a shoemaker and lived in New York where he died May 25, 1790, leaving a widow, Gertrude, and several children. The widow died between 1807 and 1810 leaving a will in which she mentions her daughter, "Catharine Porter, wife of Thomas Porter," and grandsons, John Maddan and Joseph Maddan, minors. Cornelis and Catharina have not been traced any further.

11. NICHOLAS BANKER (10) was baptized in the Dutch Reformed Church in New York City, June 15, 1757. He appears to have returned to Philipsburg his father's birthplace at least after the Revolution. He was a soldier in that war and held the rank of corporal. He enlisted Dec. 15, 1777, in Capt. Gabriel Requa's Company of Col. James Hammond's Regiment, 1st Westchester County Militia, and on Jan. 2, 1778, he was wounded by a musket ball in the right hip during an engagement at Storms Bridge in Greensburgh, N. Y. For this service he drew an annual pension of $96, from Sept. 1, 1826, to his death May 26, 1835. It is also stated that during the month of Nov. 1776, he was a member of Capt. Sibout Acker's Company and was stationed at Peter Van Tassel's where he was wounded in the encounter with Lieut. Althouse. He appears also to have served in Capt. Geo. Comb's Company of Col. Hammond's Regiment and was captured by the British. He received pay for his time in captivity to Aug. 8, 1779, £11, 7s. 6d. He seems to have continued service in Capt. Comb's Company until at least May 25, 1780, for which he received £25, 8s. 5d. He then served in Capt. Israel Honeywell's Company of the same regiment on several alarms from Nov. 1, 1780, to July 31, 1781, for which he received £12, 15s. 6d. He also served in the same company from Nov. 11, 1781, to Nov. 11, 1782, on sundry alarms for which he received £7, 1s. 8d. In the meantime also he served in Capt.

Daniel Martling's Company of the same regiment, probably a picked company for some special service, and was again captured by the British, receiving for his time in captivity to Jan. 12, 1782, £7, 12s. 10d.

After the war he settled in Greensburgh, Westchester Co., N. Y., now Tarrytown, where he married in 1779 or 1780 Catharine Ecker or Acker. She was the widow of a man by the name of Tuthill and had a son Abraham by her former marriage. She was baptized Apr. 24, 1759, and died in Greensburgh, Nov. 25, 1841. She was the daughter of Abraham Ecker* and Annatie Lent. After her husband's death she made application for a pension, but was unable to prove six months' service. This would indicate either that we have confounded two Nicholas Bankers in the above record of service or more probably that she was simply unable to furnish the technical proof of service, her husband having based his own claim on his wound received at Greensburgh which did not involve evidence of six months' service.

Nicholas dropped the e from his name and appears in all records as Banker. He had at least five children as follows:

Isaak, bo. Dec. 30, 1783;
Catharine, bo. Jan. 14, 1785;
Jemima, bo. Jan. 4, 1788;
John, bo. Dec. 12, 1791;
Ann, bo. Mar. 25, 1800.

Nothing more is known of Isaak, but he was probably living unmarried in 1826. Catharine married Deliverance Dutcher, a son of Capt. William Dutcher* or Duytser and Catrina Concklie, who according to the record on his gravestone, was born Mar. 25, 1783, and died Nov. 7, 1823. Catharine died July 10, 1875. She and her husband are both buried in the graveyard of the Sleepy Hollow Dutch Church a little north of the church. A grand-daughter, Mrs. Andrew C. Field, is said to live at Dobbs Ferry, N. Y. Catharine had five children as follows: John, born Oct. 18, 1814; Alexander, born July 28, 1817; Anthony, born Dec. 26, 1819, died Nov. 14, 1824; Salem, baptized July 13, 1823; and Deliverance, born Oct. 1, 1821.

* This Abraham Ecker was a brother of Wolfert Ecker who married Engeltie Boeckhout. See page 49.

† Capt. William was the son of Johannes and a grandson of Barent Duyster and Marie Concklie or Kanklie, the name is now spelled Conklin. See page 42.

Jemima married Isaac Acker who was born in 1775 and died in 1834. She had the following children: Smith, born 1809; John, born May 13, 1812; Oliver, born Nov. 16, 1814, died unmarried.

John married Jemima Acker Mar. 5, 1820.

Ann appears to have married a Storms.

The family of Nicholas was traced no further.

12. RACHEL BANCKER (5) was baptized Dec. 4, 1725, at Sleepy Hollow and married, Nov. 24, 1744, Petrus Storm, probably a son of Dirk and Baranicka Storm,* baptized Aug. 28, 1722. Peter and Rachel lived at Philipsburg, where they had children baptized as follows:

Elizabeth, bp. July 5, 1746;

Hendricus, bo. Feb. 9, bp. Apr. 17, 1750;

Maritje, bp. Apr. 4, 1753;

Abraham, bo. Aug. 16, bp. Sept. 9, 1755.

These children were not traced further.

13. HENDRICK BANCKER (5) was baptized at Sleepy Hollow Apr. 11, 1730. He married Ruth Matus or Maltus from Long Island Apr. 26, 1751. She seems to have died July 4, 1762, and Hendrick, who was then living in New York, married Marytje Calfort, a widow from "Hoog Diutslund" (Germany), Nov. 27, 1765. Hendrick appears to have gone to New York soon after his first marriage and possibly had no children, at least no record that could be identified with him could be found.

14. WILLEMINA BANCKER (5) was born in Philipsburg, but the date is not known. She married, Oct. 11, 1755, Abraham Storm. They lived for some years at Philipsburg, but afterwards moved to New York. It is difficult to decide from the records just what children they had. There were four Abraham Storms living in Philipsburg at this time, three of whom had been married between 1753 and 1755. Unfortunately, just at this period the clerk failed to give the name of the mother of baptized children, the entry appearing simply "Abraham Storm, Zyn Kind

* The Storm family was so numerous in this region about this time that one feels some uncertainty as to the identity of the different individuals.

Gedoopt." Some of the following were certainly Willemina's children, others are doubtful:

Marytje, bp. Nov. 1, 1756;

Rebecca, bp. Sept. 6, 1757;

Maritie, bp. Sept. 4, 1759;

Abraham, bp. Sept. 4, 1759;

Margarita, bp. Nov. 11, 1764.

There appears to be no doubt of Marytje, as Hendrick Bancker and his wife Marytje witnessed the baptism. Margarita was baptized in New York, and the records state distinctly that she was the daughter of Abraham Storm and Willemina Bancker. The others were baptized at Sleepy Hollow and we know only that they were the children of an Abraham Storm. It may be noted, however, that Maritie was sponsored by Hendrick Cranckheyt and wife, which gives some weight to the view that she was a child of Willemina, in which case Abraham probably was not.

CHAPTER IV.

THE BOECKHOUT FAMILY.

15. MARIA BANCER (1) was baptized in the Dutch Reformed Church of New York Mar. 25, 1691. She went with her parents to Philipsburg and later married Jan Boeckhout, a grandson of the immigrant Jan Boeckhout.* He was the son of Peter Boeckhout and Lysbeth Papen or Pater† and was baptized in the Dutch Church of New York Aug. 18, 1683. He lived the whole of his long life in Philipsburg as a farmer, his farm including what is now Irvington. He was a captain of the militia for many years, from which circumstance he was generally known as Captain Boeckhout. He owned several slaves, five of whom, Tom, Dick, Tim, David, and a wench, were sold in 1786 on the settlement of his estate. Three brought £70 each and the wench sold for the least, £40.

Maria died in August, 1755, aged 73 years according to the gravestone, which would seem to be an error. After her death Jan married second, before 1760, Deborah ———, who survived him. He died Apr. 10, 1785, and his funeral seems to have been conducted with all the éclat of the good old Dutch customs, for we find among the expenses of the administrator at the funeral the following items: invitations to the funeral 8s., rum 15s., sugar, pipes, &c., 12s. 3d., wine £1 1s. He is buried

*Riker in his "History of Harlem" informs us that the founder of the Boeckhout or Buckhout family "came from Leyden in 1663. He became Koeherder van de gemente desen stede. Later he owned a farm at Mespát, and left two sons, Capt. Matthias who sailed a coaster and Peter a farmer."

† According to Riker (op. cit.) she was a daughter of Jan Pater and was born in Brazil. Before marrying Peter Boeckhout she had been the second wife of Peter Roelofs to whom she bore four sons and a daughter. After the death of Roelofs in 1679, it is related that Dr. John Greenleaf of Newton, "by way of a joke, offered to waive his bill for services for a kiss. The widow took him up, the kiss was duly given, and they shook hands over it. Afterwards, the doctor was so ungallant as to sue for payment. But the magistrate holding the settlement binding found for the defendant." She died before 1699, for on Nov. 21, of that year Peter married for his second wife Elsje Jeurians the widow of Thomas Verdon.

in the Sleepy Hollow graveyard, where his gravestone is one of the curious sights of the place. It stands a few rods north of the church and not far from the entrance. The inscription reads: "In Memory of Cap. John Buckhout, who Departed this life April the 10th 1785 Aged 103 Years and left behind him when he died 240 Chiln and Grand Children also Mary the wife of John Buet died August 1755 Aged 73 Years." His children appear to have been all by his first wife, Maria Bancker, and were sixteen in number. This is a most remarkable record. Maria had these children in a period of twenty-three years and none of them were twins. The list of children is as follows:

- Jannitje, bp. Mar. 25, 1712;
- Mattys;
- 16. Elizabeth;
- 17. Sara, bp. Apr. 18, 1716;
- Maritje, bp. Apr. 22, 1718; died young;
- Jan, bp. Apr. 21, 1719;
- 18. Jacob, bp. Nov. 1, 1720;
- 19. Maria, bp. Apr. 24, 1722;
- Petrus, bp. Aug. 27, 1723;
- Abram, bp. Apr. 10, 1725;
- 21. Brechje, bp. Apr. 2, 1726;
- Engeltje, bp. Aug. 19, 1727;
- Aaltje, bp. Apr. 11, 1730;
- 22. Isaac, bp. June 19, 1731;
- 23. Antje, bp. Apr. 17, 1733;
- David, bp. Apr. 1, 1735.

Jannetie married Myndert Hogenkamp of Tappan across the river and went there to live. She had at least two children: Jannetie, born Nov. 13, 1737, and Jan, born Nov. 23, 1739. Nothing further is known of the family.

Matthias was born in Philipsburg, but no record of his birth or baptism has been found. From the date of his marriage he must have been born before Sara and may have been the first born. He was undoubtedly the first son and named for his grandfather. He was the executor of his father's will in 1786. He married, Mar. 20, 1736, Elizabeth Martin, a maiden from New Reesell, and seems to have immediately moved to Tappan, as his first two children were baptized there. The rest were all baptized at Philipsburg. He had at least eight children as follows: Jan, born Aug. 31, 1736; died young; Evje, born Sept. 3, 1739, and probably married Peter Bancker*; Jan, baptized June 6, 1741, enlisted, Apr. 19, 1758, in the French and Indian War, and is described as 5 ft. 7 in., in height, with gray eyes, round face and a ruddy, freckled complexion; Mattheus, baptized Apr. 30, 1743; Maria, baptized Apr. 19, 1746; Abraham, baptized Aug. 24, 1748; Hanatje, baptized Oct. 8, 1751; and Daniel, born Jan. 14, 1757.

John perhaps did not marry, but he seems to have been living in 1786.

Peter married, Mar. 16, 1745, Aaltje Cuyper or Kupper from Haverstraw. She was probably a daughter of Nicholas Cuyper and Maritie Ecker and was born Sept. 8, 1722, and was baptized at Tappan Jan. 15, 1723. Peter and his wife lived for a time at Tappan, but may have later moved to New York, as he appears to have been admitted as freeman of the city in 1751. He had at least two children: Jan, born Jan. 19, 1746, and died Dec. 29, 1825; and Elizabeth, born Oct. 21, 1746. Nothing further is known of him.

Abram married, Feb. 29, 1749-50, Catharina Van Waert, but nothing further could be found concerning him.

Engeltje married, Feb. 15, 1752, Wolfert Ecker, who was born in 1721, a son of Sybout, and a grandson of Wolfert Ecker, the original owner of the famous Wolfert's Roost described by Washington Irving and which later became the more famous Sunnyside. The grandfather died in 1753 or the early part of 1754. Wolfert died soon after his grandfather and before Apr. 4, 1754. In his will Wolfert leaves all his property to his grandfather, making special mention of a gold ring. After the death of her husband Engeltje married second, Nov. 20, 1756, Abraham Van Waert. She had by her first husband one child, Sybout, baptized Aug. 17, 1752.† It is difficult to decide what children Engeltje may have had by her second husband as there were several Abraham Van Waerts at this time and the families are likely to be confused.

† A Sybout Ecker appears to have married some one by the name of Engeltje and had: Abraham, born Mar. 21, 1773; Jacob, born July 1, 1777; Elizabeth, born May 28, 1779; and Jacobus, born Jan 1, 1782. This family may be of Sybout above or it may be the family of Sybout, who was born in 1754, the son of Abraham Ecker and Annatie Lent.

Aaltje married, Aug. 11, 1753, Jan Van Waert. Nothing further is known of her.

David was traced no further and as he is not mentioned in the settlement of his father's estate he probably died young.

One of the girls (Jannitje, Engeltje, or Aaltje) appears to have married before 1786 William Devoe as her second husband.

16. ELIZABETH BOECKHOUT (15) was born in Philipsburg about 1714, but no record of her birth or baptism has been found. She is, however, mentioned in her father's will, so there is no doubt of her identity. She married, Sept. 30, 1738, William Jewell, a son of Joris (George) Jewell* and Metje De Groot. William was baptized at Sleepy Hollow Mar. 24, 1713. He died Nov. 6, 1789, aged 77 years, according to his tombstone in the Sleepy Hollow graveyard. He was a farmer and lived on Cortlandt's Manor in what is now the town of Yorktown, Putnam Co., until 1760, when he removed to his father-in-law's farm south of Tarrytown, where is now the village of Irvington. Elizabeth died Oct 1, 1790, aged 76 years, according to her tombstone. She had ten children as follows:

Joris, bp. Nov. 9, 1740;

Maritie, bp. Apr. 30, 1743;

Mettie, bp. June 22, 1745;

Jan, bp. May 3, 1747; bo. Jan. 17, 1746;

Willim, bp. Apr. 25, 1749;

---

* This name is usually spelled Juel or sometimes Juwel in the church records. George Jewell of Philipse Manor made his will November 17, 1759, and it was probated July 15, 1765. He mentions his wife, Martha, five sons, Staats, William, Abraham, Isaac, and John, and two daughters, Sarah Downy and Rachel Lemater. By comparison with the Sleepy Hollow and Tappan records I identify him with Joris Juel or Juwel whose wife was Metje De Groot. It seems likely, therefore, that Martha was a second wife. He was born in Westchester county and married June 3, 1704, Nettie or Metje De Groot from Hackensack. His children so far as could be determined were: Sarah, bapt. Apr. 11, 1705, at Tappan; Mettie, bapt. Dec. 1, 1706, at Hackensack; John, bapt. Oct. 12, 1708, at Tappan; Staedts, born Nov. 13, 1710, and bapt. Jan. 16, 1711, at Tappan; William, bapt. Mar. 24, 1713, at Philipsburg; Isaac, bapt. Apr. 23, 1717, at Philipsburg; Jan, bapt. June 21, 1720, at Philipsburg; Rachel, birth unknown; and Abraham, birth unknown. Sarah married William Downy (Donny or Douni) and had at least one child, Catharina, bapt. Apr. 23, 1734. William married Elizabeth Boeckhout as noted in the text. Rachel married Barend Delameter and lived at Philipsburg. Abraham married Sarah Boeckhout, sister of Elizabeth above; see page 52. The names are so intimately associated in the records that there appears to be no doubt that they are all one family.

Isaac, bp. June 20, 1752;
Abraham, bo. Apr. 4, 1755; died young;
Elizabeth, bp. Apr. 21, 1756;
Debora, bp. June 21, 1762;
Abraham, bp. Apr. 16, 1774.

None of these were traced any further except as follows:

Joris married some one by the name of Annatje and had at least three children, all baptized at Sleepy Hollow as follows: Jan, born Mar. 10, 1770; Abraham, bapt. Sept. 13, 1772; and Willim, bapt. Apr. 16, 1774.

John was born in the Manor of Cortlandt. He married, Oct. 21, 1770, Elizabeth Lerrens (Lawrence), said to be a cousin of the famous Capt. James Lawrence, commander of the "Chesapeake." John was a farmer and lived on the Philipse Manor near Tarrytown during and after the Revolution. He took active part in the great conflict. He was at Tarrytown when the British vessels Rose and Phoenix came up the river in July, 1776, and he enlisted in Capt. Glode Requa's Company. He was employed during the summer in sinking the chevaux-de-frise to prevent the British vessels passing up the river, and after that was stationed at Fort Independence until the retreat of Gen. Washington and the American Army to White Plains. His company then joined the army at White Plains. From there he was sent with a small force to Dobbs Ferry to drive off the British vessels lying in the river at that place. Having accomplished their purpose they then marched up to Sing Sing and remained there for some time. John afterwards returned to his home near Dobbs Ferry, but was soon driven off by the enemy and his family had to find a home in the northern part of Westchester county, where they remained until the close of the war. He now enlisted again and in the fall of 1780 was taken prisoner near Pine's Bridge. He was taken to New York and was confined for seven weeks in the old Sugar House Prison. He was finally exchanged and returned to his family. He applied for a pension Feb. 4, 1833. He died Dec. 21, 1838, and his wife died Oct. 3, 1831, aged 85 years 10 months and 16 days, according to her tombstone. Both are buried in the Sleepy Hollow graveyard. John had the following children: Marya, born May 1, 1771; Debora, born Nov. 2, 1773; Elizabeth Crank, born Jan. 19, 1774, bapt. May 30, 1784*; Elizabeth, born Feb., 1779, bapt. May 30, 1784*; John, and Martha. Of these children apparently only Elizabeth (which Elizabeth?) and John lived to have families. According to M. D. Raymond of the Tarrytown Argus, Elizabeth, "only daughter of John Jewell," married John Storm and was the mother of the late Capt. Jacob Storm of Tarrytown. John, Jr., married Martha Ferris, a daughter of Capt. Oliver Ferris and had eleven children, three of whom were Martha, Abigail L., and George. Martha married Lemuel Lawrence of Dobbs Ferry. Abigail married Joseph Mellows and had George, who married a daughter of Seth Bird and had Sarah E., the wife of Malcolm Connell of Tarrytown." Raymond's account becomes a little ambiguous at this point, but I understand that Abigail had also Theodore F. of Kensico; William of Sing Sing; Sarah, who married E. H. Birdsall of Tarrytown; and Martha Ann, who married Charles Reynolds of Kensico. George Jewell lived at Stratford, Conn., and left a daughter, now Mrs. Minnie Cary of Des Moines, Iowa. A letter addressed to the latter was returned unclaimed and efforts to communicate with others brought no replies.

Deborah married John Banker. I have not been able to identify him. He died before 1832, at which date Deborah was living. She had the following children: Martha, born Mar. 3, 1786; Elizabeth, born Aug. 17, 1791; William, born Apr. 15, 1795; and Deborah, born Aug. 27, 1798, and died about March, 1825, unmarried. Nothing further was learned of her family.

17. SARAH BOECKHOUT (15) was baptized at Sleepy Hollow Apr. 18, 1716, and married, Nov. 1, 1735, Abraham Jewell, a son of Joris Jewell and Metje De Groot, and hence a brother of William, who married Sarah's sister, Elizabeth. They lived at Philipsburg, where Sarah had the following children:

Isaac, bp. Apr. 10, 1739;

Mettie, bp. Apr. 30, 1743;

Jannitje, bp. Aug. 22, 1744;

Aaltje, bp. Nov. 15, 1746;

Rebecca, bp. June 22, 1748;

Annie, bp. Aug. 30, 1749;

---

* I do not understand these two entries, but they are given as children of Jan and Elizabeth Juel.

Abraham, bp. June 4, 1751;

Sara, bp. Sept. 3, 1753;

Maria, bp. May 3, 1757;

Ezechiël, bp. Oct. 2, 1759;

Jacob.

Three of the girls seem to have married as follows: one to Josiah Secorr, another to Henry Charlick, and a third to William Ladew, but it could not be found which ones thus married.

Ezekiel was a Revolutionary soldier and served in Col. Roswell Hopkin's Regiment at Peekskill in 1777 and at Fishkill in 1779, for which he received £3, 3s. 3d.

Jacob is mentioned in the settlement of his grandfather's estate. The family was traced no further.

18. JACOB BOECKHOUT (15) was baptized at Sleepy Hollow, Aug. 31, 1720, and married, Sept. 9, 1749, Marytje Ecker. She was probably a granddaughter of Wolfert Ecker.* As Wolfert had several grandchildren named Marytje, it is impossible to decide which of these she may have been and there is no clue to her parents. Jacob was living in 1774 and had children as follows:

Marytje, bp. Apr. 17, 1750;

Jan, bp. Apr. 4, 1753; died young;

Engeltje, bo. Aug. 31, 1755;

Jan, bp. May 8, 1764;

Lea, bo. Sept. 1, 1766.

None of this family were traced any further except Engeltje. She married first, Nov. 9, 1773, Nicholas Storm, who was probably a son of Abraham Storm, and was baptized June 17, 1755, but what Abraham this was it is impossible to tell. Nicholas soon died and Engeltje married second, May 1, 1777, Jacob Ecker. She seems to have continued living at Philipsburg and had the following children by her second husband: Willem, bapt. Aug. 17, 1778; Marritie, born Aug. 1, 1782; and possibly Willemyntie, born June 17, 1783. The mother of the

* This name is also spelled Acker and Aekart. Wolfert died about 1754 leaving a widow, Marytje, and sons, Stephen, Sybout, and Abraham and a daughter, Marytje. Each of the sons had a daughter Marytje and all were born between 1728 and 1734. As Wolfert had at least 26 grandchildren by these sons, the Eckers or Ackers became very numerous in Sleepy Hollow about this time.

last is given as Jenneke Ecker. This may be a clerical error or it may mean a second wife of Jacob, which seems improbable.

19. MARIA BOECKHOUT (15) was baptized Apr. 24, 1722, at Sleepy Hollow. She married, Sept. 3, 1747, Jacob Van Waert also of Philipsburg. They continued living at Philipsburg and Maria was still living in 1774. She had at least four children as follows:

- 20. Marytje, bp. Oct. 25, 1748;
Jacob, bp. Oct. 23, 1750;
Jan, bp. Aug. 19, 1754;
Engeltje, bp. Sept. 6, 1757.

Jacob married, June 7, 1771, Hester Van Noortstrand, who was born Apr. 18, 1757, a daughter of William Van Noortstrand and Catrina Devoe. He had at least three children: Jacob, bapt. June 20, 1772; Willim, born Nov. 10, 1773; and Abram, bapt. July 6, 1778.

Jan married, Nov. 9, 1773, Catrina Van Waert. What relation his wife may have been to him I have been unable to determine. He had at least one son, Johannis, born Oct. 6, 1775.

Engeltje was not traced any further.

20. MARIA VAN WAERT (19) was born in Philipsburg, N. Y., and baptized, Oct. 25, 1748. She married, Mar. 29, 1767, Thomas Buis or Boyce of the same place. He probably died June 7, 1826, aged 80 years 2 months and 16 days. Maria had at least children as follows:

- Jacob, bp. Sept. 3, 1768;
Johannes, bp. Apr. 22, 1770;
Engeltje, bo. May, 1780;

and probably also:

Thomas, died Apr. 10, 1825, aged 41 yrs, 9 mos. 7 ds.

Jacob seems to have married Sarah ——— and had at least two children: Thomas, born Dec. 15, 1796, died May 26, 1803; and Rachel Williams, died Sept. 15, 1798, aged 10 mos. Jacob died Feb. 2, 1806. All were buried in the Sleepy Hollow graveyard.

Johannes probably married first, Deborah ——— and had Mary, who died June 17, 1796, aged 9 mos. He afterwards married Mary ——— and had John Van Waert, who died Feb.

4, 1805, aged 11 mos. and 16 ds. Nothing further is known of the Buis family.

21. BRECHJE BOECKHOUT (15) was baptized in the Dutch Reformed Church of Sleepy Hollow Apr. 2, 1726. She married, Sept. 21, 1746, Stephanus Ecker, probably a son of Stephanus Ecker and Engeltie Cankelie (Conklin?) and a grandson of Wolfert Ecker.* If so he was baptized June 4, 1726. Brechje died between 1766 and 1771, and her husband married for his second wife Geertje Bant, Sept. 8, 1771.† He died May 26, 1796, aged 70 years, and was buried in the Sleepy Hollow graveyard.

From the settlement of her father's estate Brechje appears to have had at least seven children, some of whom perhaps married as follows: one daughter married Joseph Rowlandson; another married Matthias Conklin; another married Jacob Wiley; and a fourth married Abram Locke. She certainly had four children as follows:

Brechje, bp. May 3, 1747;

Steven, bp. Apr. 27, 1762;

Aaltje, bo. Nov. 13, 1763;

Lea, bp. Apr. 22, 1766; .

perhaps also:

Mary;

John;

Abraham.

Brechje married, May 5, 1765, David Hemmen (Hammond), who was baptized in Sleepy Hollow June 16, 1744, and was a son of David Hemmen and Maritie Storm, or she may have married David Hemmen, who was baptized in the same church May 1, 1748, and was a son of Isaac Hemmen and Catharine Ackerman. I cannot solve this problem. She may have married a second time one of the four mentioned above. She had at least three children: Engeltje, born Dec. 21, 1766; Marytje, born Oct. 1, 1769, and David, born Feb. 2, 1771.

22. ISAAC BOECKHOUT (15) was baptized at Sleepy Hollow June 19, 1731. He married first, Sept. 29, 1754, Maragrietje

† By his second wife Stephanus had the following children: Petrus, born Apr. 16, 1773; Annatje, born Oct. 2, 1774; Stephanus, born Mar. 15, 1778; and Jacob, born Jan. 11, 1780.

Ecker, probably the daughter of Abram and Maragrietje Ecker and born in 1732. If so she was a granddaughter of Wolfert Ecker.* She must have died about 1762 or soon after, and Isaac married for his second wife Antje ——— before May 30, 1764. He died prior to Oct. 10, 1765, at which date his will was probated. He left legacies to his daughter Mary, wife Antje, and the rest of his property to his children "John and Rachel which I had by my first wife." He had children by his first wife as follows:

Maritje, bp. June 17, 1755;

Lea, bp. May 3, 1757;

Jan, bp. Sept. 13, 1760;

Rachel, bp. Sept. 7, 1762.

Probably by his second wife he had:

Mary.

From the language of his will I am disposed to think that Maritje and Lea had died and that Mary was by his second wife.

Mary married a Garrison and Rachel married a Genung.

23. ANTJE BOECKHOUT (15) was baptized Apr. 17, 1733, in the Sleepy Hollow Church. She married, July 6, 1755, Coenraad Saddoor, a tailor. He was born in Germany about 1734. On Apr. 15, 1758, he enlisted for the French and Indian War in Capt. Jonathan Fowler's Company, having been in Capt. John Boeckhout's militia company. He was 5 ft. 8 in. high, with grey eyes and a round face. Antje was living in 1786. She had at least seven children as follows:

Isaac, bp. Oct. 27, 1755;

Maritje, bp. Sept. 6, 1757;

Stephanus, bp. Apr. 24, 1759;

Jan, bp. Sept. 13, 1760;

Frederick, bp. Oct. 23, 1762;

Abram, bp. Oct. 22, 1765;

Elizabeth, bo. Sept 1, 1771.

Isaac married Wyntje Appelbe Sept. 2, 1775, and had the following children: Coenraad, born July 25, 1776; Maritje, born 1779; Antje, born 1780; and Joseph, born 1782. These all appear to have been baptized at one time in 1784. The irregularity was doubtless due to the disturbance of the Revolution.

Maritje married in November, 1774, Joris Miller. No further trace of the descendants of Antje Saddoor was made.

CHAPTER V.

THE FREDERICK BANCKER FAMILY.

24. FREDERICK BANCKER (1) was baptized in the Dutch Reformed Church of New York, May 22, 1698. He married, Apr. 1, 1721, Aaltje Storm, the daughter of Gregorius Storm* and Engeltje Van Dyck. Aaltje was born Aug. 20, 1701. Frederick died sometime between 1737 and 1744, and on June 9 of the latter year his widow married second Daniel Lamoureux, who had formerly married Jannitje Marze as his first wife. The children of Frederick were:

- 25. Thomas, bp. Apr. 10, 1725;
- 37. Hendrick, bp. Oct. 28, 1727;
- 38. Johannis, bp. Apr. 11, 1730;
Abraham, bp. Apr. 23, 1734;
Engeltje, bp. July 31, 1737.

Abraham and Engeltje have been traced no further.

25. THOMAS BANKER (24) was baptized at Sleepy Hollow Apr. 10, 1725. He appears to have married first Jane Nelson and second Anny Nelson, probably sisters, unless one of these is a clerical error. He removed to the vicinity of Rhinebeck and purchased a farm of 111 acres near Crum Elbow Nov. 10, 1768, for which he paid £222. He sold this in 1791 to John Rice of New York for "divers good causes and considerations." He had two children, both baptized in the Dutch Reformed Church of the Flats near Nether Rhinebeck. By his first wife he had:

Maria Ann, bp. Mar. 2, 1755.

By his second wife he had:

- 26. Frederick, bo. Aug. 13, 1758.

Maria is said to have married a man by the name of Burris. I have traced her no further. These two are believed to be all the children Thomas had.

* The Storm family in this country starts from Dirk Storm who came from the Mayory of Bosch with his wife and three children in the ship Fox in August 1662.

26. FREDERICK BANKER (25) was born Aug. 13, 1758, near Nether Rhinebeck and was baptized in the Reformed Dutch Church of the Flats. He lived most of his life at Staatsburgh near Hyde Park, Dutchess Co., N. Y. He was a Revolutionary soldier and enlisted first in 1776 as a private for 8 months in Capt. Isaac Conklin's Company of Col. John Frear's Regiment of Dutchess county militia. He again enlisted as Sergeant in Capt. Hageman's Company of Col. Cantine's Regiment. Also at various times he served in the militia companies of Capt. Josiah Burton, Capt. Reuben Spencer, Capt. Ostrom, Capt. Hugh VanKleeck, Capt. Elijah Herrick, and Capt. Wilson. He was engaged in the capture of the fort at Berrian Heights.* It is said that he and a man named Shultz captured a British vessel near Esopus, and that his son Thomas afterward received the prize money, but I have not found any records confirming this. In 1782 he was a member of a class in Spencer's Company of Frear's Regiment.†

He married in Ulster county, Mar. 18, 1781, Eleanor Underhill, the widow of John Rogers. She was born Sept. 4, 1762, and died June 6, 1857. Frederick died June 6, 1848. They are buried in the Episcopal graveyard at Hyde Park. His tombstone gives his age as 88 yrs. 10 mos. and 25 dys., which is an error. He had children as follows:

- 27. Thomas, bo. about 1782;
- 36. Mary, bo. Sept. 18, 1785;
  - Benjamin B.;
  - John;
  - Andrew, d. in 1812;
  - Margaret;
  - Annie.

Benjamin married and died in New York about 1877. He was a silversmith. He had children, at least; John, Thomas, and Ellen. John was a carpenter and lived in New Jersey; Ellen, it is thought, married a man by the name of Sloat and lived in New Jersey.

John married Carrie Clute and died in Albany.

* I have not been able to locate this.

† See also page 353.

Andrew with his brother Thomas enlisted in the War of 1812 and went down to New York. He died at Harlem Heights that year, unmarried.

Margaret married first a man by the name of Duvou or Devoe, second a man by the name of England. She lived near Allen's Hill, N. Y. She had at least one daughter, who married first a Myers. He was killed by the cars in the round-house in Albany, and she married second a Massee.

Annie married Joe Castil and lived in Connecticut. She had five children; Joe, William, Willard, John, and Ellen Mary.

The above facts were from the memory of Mrs. Foster. The families have been traced no further.

27. THOMAS BANKER (26) was born about 1782 at Staatsburgh, N. Y. He was a private or sergeant in the War of 1812. He married Jane Ellsworth, a relative of Col. Ellsworth of Civil War fame. He lived throughout his life at Staatsburgh, where he died Dec. 28, 1865, aged 83 years. His wife died Sept. 28, 1857, aged 71 years, according to her tombstone. They are buried in the graveyard of the Reformed Dutch Church at Hyde Park, N. Y. Their children were:

- 28. Julia H., bo. Jan. 8, 1818;
- 33. Frederick, bo. Oct. 8, ———;
- Mary;
- 34. Catharine, bo. May 20, 1828.

Mary married Benjamin Franklin Schultz, a brother of Gertrude Maria Schultz.* She has been traced no further.

28. JULIA H. BANKER (27) was born in Staatsburgh, N. Y., Jan. 8, 1818. She married, Feb. 4, 1841, John Foster,† who was born in England about 1801. He was a farmer and they lived in Hyde Park until his death, Apr. 15, 1862. Julia was living with her daughter, Mrs. Donaldson, in Brooklyn in 1907, but was in a very feeble state of health. She had children as follows:

- Jesse, bo. Mar. 2, 1842; d. in Aug., 1863;
- 29. Susan M., bo. Oct. 2, 1843;

Robert died a few years after his brother, but no particulars are known of him.

37. HENDRICK BANKER (24) was baptized at Sleepy Hollow Oct. 28, 1727, and, according to his gravestone, he must have been born about Aug. 19, 1727. There were two of this name in Philipsburg at this time with only three years' difference in their ages.* At the same time the church records were not so well kept as in preceding years and there is often some doubt as to which Hendrick a given record may pertain. The gravestone record, however, seems to identify this Hendrick beyond question. He married Catrina Van Tassel of Philipsburg Nov. 17, 1750. He was a Revolutionary soldier and served in Capt. Gabriel Requa's Company of Col. James Hammond's Regiment, the 1st Westchester County Militia, from May 2, 1779, to May 25, 1780, for which he received £31, 16s. 5d. His name appears on the Revolutionary Soldiers' Monument in Sleepy Hollow Cemetery. He was a farmer and at the close of the war he purchased 152 acres along the west side of the Saw Mill River near Pleasantville, in Westchester county. This farm was part of the Philipsburg Manor and was bought of the Commissioners of Forfeiture for the Southern District for £418. Hendrick died Oct. 28, 1805, and was buried in the Sleepy Hollow graveyard, where his grave may still be seen. The headstone, a brown sandstone, is broken and is rapidly disintegrating. When first seen by the author some years ago the inscription was nearly complete except the date of death. Now the record of Hendrick has entirely disappeared and that of his wife is nearly gone. The original record, however, has been preserved in the Inscription Book of Solomon Brewer, the old gravestone maker of Tarrytown during the period following the Revolution.† Hendrick's wife, Catrina, died Sept. 15, 1799,

* See page 45.

† This record as well as a number of others I have been able to obtain through the kindness of Mr. Daniel Van Tassel of Tarrytown.

aged 66 years, 5 months, 2 days. Hendrick dropped the c from his name, which appears on his gravestone as Banker. He had at least five children as follows:

Frederick, bp. Oct. 8, 1751;

Emie, bp. Oct. 24, 1752;

Aaltje, bp. Sept. 3, 1753;

Jan. bp. June 17, 1755;

Phebe, bp. Aug. 25, 1756.

Nothing further is known of Frederick, Jan, and Phoebe.

Emma appears to have married Isaac De Rivier, a son of Johannis De Rivier and Catharina Van Tassel. Isaac and his brother Jacob, possibly twins, were baptized at Sleepy Hollow Aug. 17, 1752. He was probably a descendant from Abraham De Rivier, one of the early settlers at Philipsburg, whose name appears in the list of the first church members. Isaac died Mar. 20, 1813, and is buried in Sleepy Hollow. Emma, whose name appears to have been gradually transformed into Anna, had children as follows: Maritje, bapt. 1777, born June 10; Catharine, bapt. 1777, born Dec. 23, 1777; Johannis, born Oct. 9, 1779; Marytje, bapt. 1783; Cornelius, born Nov. 26, 1786; and Jacobus, born September, 1790, died Nov. 18, 1814. The records are fragmentary and difficult to understand; I have, therefore, taken the entries just as they stand. The family has been traced no further.

Aaltje married John Gerritsen. He was perhaps a son of Teunis Gerritse and, if so, was baptized June 9, 1759. Aaltje had at least one child, Catharina, bapt. Feb. 6, 1777.

38. JOHN BANKER (24) was baptized at Sleepy Hollow Apr. 11, 1730. He married Eleanor Scott at Nether Rhinebeck Mar. 25, 1755. She was a daughter of William Scott and Mary Dehoyer.* After his marriage John appears to have lived for

* According to an old record in possession of George S. Newcomb of Cleveland, Ohio, this Mary was a daughter of Cornelius Derrickson Dehoyer and Cornelia Bogardus. The latter was a daughter of William Bogardus and a granddaughter of Anneke Jans Bogardus, made famous by the Trinity Church litigations in New York. Mary married first William Humphrey and had one son, Thomas William. She married second William Scott and had three sons and four daughters as follows; Cornelius, Joseph, Abraham, Cornelius, Mary, Eleanor, and Elizabeth. An interesting account of "Anneke Jans Bogardus and her Farm" will be found in Harper's Monthly Magazine for May, 1885, page 836.

a time in Dutchess county, at Rhinebeck and Poughkeepsie, and probably also in the Little Nine Partner's Patent, but finally he removed to Plattsburgh, N. Y. His children were all born in Dutchess county, but all went to Plattsburgh with him, so that he became the founder of the Plattsburgh branch of the Banker family. He dropped the c from his name. He is said to have been in the Revolutionary army and to have belonged to the cavalry, but it is not known to what company, and I have not been able to confirm this tradition from documents. He died in February, 1817, and his wife died in March, 1814. They are buried in Plattsburgh. John's children were as follows:

- 39. Willem, bo. Feb. 9, bp. Mar. 7, 1756;
Tomas, bo. Aug. 13, bp. Oct. 19, 1760; died young;
- 68. Lucretia, bo. Dec. 3, 1762;
Maria,* bp. Apr. 20, 1766;
- 71. Rebecca, bo. Feb. 5, bp. Apr. 2, 1768;
- 74. John, bo. Sept. 25, 1770;
- 94. Henry J., bo. Sept. 25, 1772;
- 106. Eleanor, bo. Nov. 7, 1776.

* The family records mention no Maria, but speak of Polly said to have been born May, 1763. I believe Polly and Maria to be the same. The record of Maria's baptism appears in the records of the Dutch Church of the Flats near Nether Rhinebeck. According to the old record in possession of G. S. Newcomb, Polly married Tunis Cronk. The last name is undoubtedly a corruption of Craneckheyt, for which see page 36.

CHAPTER VI.

THE WILLIAM BANKER FAMILY OF PLATTSBURGH.

39. WILLIAM BANKER (38) was born Feb. 9, 1756*, and was baptized March 7 in the Reformed Dutch Church of the Flats near Nether Rhinebeck. He married in September 1780, Ruth Soule, a daughter of George Soule of Rhinebeck, N. Y. Her father is said to have been a cousin of Bishop Soule and a descendant of Soule of the Mayflower. She was born Oct. 15, 1765†, and died Feb. 11, 1847‡.

William was a soldier in the Revolution. He enlisted at Rhinebeck, N. Y., May 12, 1777, as a private in the 4th Reg't of the New York Line under Col. Henry V. Livingston, and served for three years being discharged May 12, 1780. He was in Capt. Pearsee's and Capt. Fowler's Companies. He took part in the campaign against Gen. Burgoyne and was present at the Battle of Stillwater and at the surrender at Saratoga. With his regiment he accompanied Gen. Sullivan in his expedition against the Indians of Western New York and took active part in the bloody conflict of Newtown, near the present site of Elmira, by which the power of these tribes was completely broken. The story is told that in one battle his company was repulsed and retreating across a hollow, as they ran down one side, he became entangled in some blackberry bushes. His company got far ahead of him and at last in alarm he threw away his gun. In so doing he became freed from the bushes, and picking up his gun he started up the other side of the hollow after his company. The enemy discovered him before he was half way up and opened fire on him which materially quickened his pace. After his escape he found that fifteen bullets, so it is said, had gone through his coat and hat, but not one had touched his person. By reason of his service in the Revolution he became entitled to 600 acres of land which were granted to him by the Legislature of New York State as Lot No. 77 in the 16th Township of Military Lands. This lot was located in Cayuga county. He sold the tract, Mar. 9, 1801, to John Smith of Newchester Town, Grafton Co., New Hampshire for $90. He is called in the deed William Bonker and was then living in Peru, Clinton Co., N. Y. He became a pensioner in 1818. The story is told that in after years he used to light his pipe with Continental paper money. After the war he lived for a time at Nine Partners in Dutchess county, but about 1785 probably he removed to Clinton county, N. Y., and settled at West Peru, where he died Aug. 2, 1839. He had twelve children as follows:

- Margaret, bo. June 11, 1781;
- Thomas, bo. Apr. 11, 1783; died in six months;
- 40. John, bo. Aug. 7, 1785;
- Elizabeth, bo. Apr. 22, 1788;
- 55. Benjamin, bo. Apr. 5, 1790;
- Martha, bo. May 6, 1791;
- Lucretia, bo. Apr. 24, 1793; d. in 1794;
- Lucretia, bo. Dec. 21, 1795; died without issue;
- Rebecca, bo. Apr. 17, 1798;
- 60. Jonathan, bo. Aug. 4, 1800;
- 62. Elias, bo. Oct. 16, 1803;
- 65. Huldah, bo. June 12, 1805.

Margaret was born probably in Dutchess county, N. Y.* She moved with her father to Peru, N. Y., and there married William White. Later she moved to Cardington, Ohio, where she died, said to be over eighty years old. She had five children; Reuben; Rachel who is said to have married a Ruben Banker; Nemiah; Horace who became a physician and lived in Cincinnati, Ohio; and Howlan who married and had at least two children; Lucretia, a teacher, said to be living in Cardington, Ohio, and a son, Theodore, who became a lawyer and has died. A letter addressed to Lucretia at Cardington was returned unclaimed and no further trace of the family could be obtained.

Elizabeth married Elijah Weston, a farmer, and lived at Schuyler Falls, N. Y. She had several children including Adrian who became a physician in Keesville, N. Y., and is now dead, and Emeline who married a physician by the name of Reynolds.

* One correspondent says in Peru, Clinton Co., N. Y., but it is very doubtful if William Banker moved to Clinton county before 1785.

Nothing further is known of the family.

Martha married Horace Beach who was born Mar. 3, 1786. She died May 14, 1832, having had eleven children of whom the seventh was William Banker born Sept. 18, 1821, and died Jan. 7, 1898. This son had at least one child, Charles H., who lives in Providence, R. I. Nothing further is known of the family.

Rebecca is said to have married Ashael Delano or Dillno and moved to Erie, Pa. Nothing more is known of her.

40. JOHN BANKER (39) was born Aug. 7, 1785, probably in Dutchess county, N. Y., but it is likely that his father removed to Plattsburgh soon after this date*. He married first Christiana Kent, a daughter of John Kent, and lived in Goshen, Clinton Co., N. Y., where he carried on the business of farming, blacksmithing, and manufacturing farm tools. After the death of his wife he went to Cardington, Ohio, where he married as his second wife, Deborah Parker, Aug. 24, 1836. She was a widow and lived with her brother near Cardington. Mr. Banker died at Mt. Gilead, Morrow Co., Ohio, in April, 1860† His children by the first wife were:

- 41. Ezra Kent, bo. Oct. 18, 1809;

Hannah;
- 44. Mary, bo. Feb. 28, 1816;
John, died young;

Ruth;
William S.;
- Martha.

By his second wife he had:

- 53. Margaret Ann, bo. Aug. 2, 1837;
Prudence Wells, bo. Aug. 19, 1839.

Nothing further is known of Hannah. She probably died young.

---

* A correspondent states that he was born in Plattsburgh. This could not be, as the first white boy born in Plattsburgh, Platt Newcomb, was not born until Nov. 1, 1785.

† One correspondent says that he died at Mt. Vernon, Ohio, in 1857.

George married in Boston, Mass., July 16, 1849, Henrietta Maria Hull who was born in Durham, N. H., Jan. 8, 1829. She is still living. George was the inventor of the Banker can for shipping fluids. He is dead, but the date of his death I could not obtain. He had one child, Emma Eddy, born July 16, 1850, and died Dec. 23, 1851.

William S. is a commission merchant located on Hudson Avenue in Albany, N. Y. He has one son, Burt A., who lives at 3431 Vernon Ave., Chicago.

Ruth and Martha successively married their second cousin, William R. Banker, for whom see page 99.

Prudence was born in Mt. Gilead, Morrow Co., Ohio. She married John Loren of Morrow county. He died about 1905. She is still living at Mt. Gilead. Her children are; first, Dora, who married Charles Clevenger, a contractor of Mt. Gilead, and has a family; second, Etta who married James Johnson, a farmer in Morrow county, and has children; third, William, a farmer of Mt. Gilead, who married a Vaughan and has eight children; fourth, Mayme who is unmarried and lives with her mother; and fifth, Margaret D. who married a machinist in Mt. Gilead and has one boy. Nothing further could be learned of these.

He has had two children; Julia Louisa, born May 20, 1882; and died Feb. 16, 1892; and Martha Eliza, born May 21, 1883, and died Sept. 21, 1901.

After his death his widow in 1873 moved west with her family, and in 1880 she married Hiram Van Vliet at Winthrop, Mo. She had no children by her second marriage and died Oct. 11, 1893. Mr. Van Vliet died in May, 1899. Benjamin's family consisted of the following children:

Arthur graduated from the Ohio Wesleyan University in 1884. leeville, but soon moved west and settled in Shelbyville, Ind., and finally in Indianapolis. He was a lawyer and became a circuit judge of Indiana. He is said to have died July 12, 1868. Huldah probably died Aug. 17, 1891, but one correspondent gives the date of her death as Jan. 18, 1890. As both dates are given by her own children it is difficult to decide which is correct. Huldah had nine children as follows:

- Washington Abraham, died;
- 66. Ruth Maria, bo. Oct. 6, 1828;
Helen;
Phoebe Ann;
- 67. Mary Jane, bo. May 15, 1833;

CHAPTER VII.

THE NEWCOMB FAMILY.*

68. LUCRETIA BANKER (38) was probably born in Dutchess county, N. Y., Dec. 3, 1762. She married Kinner Newcomb at Nine Partners in Dutchess county, Jan. 15, 1784. He was born Aug. 17, 1756, at Nine Partners and was a son of Cyrenius Newcomb. He was a soldier of the Revolution, enlisting first in a company of Melancton Smith's Rangers in June, 1776. The next year he enlisted in Capt. John Rouse's Company in Col. Graham's Regiment, which was attached to Gen. Glover's brigade and took part in the Burgoyne campaign. He afterward served in several regiments including the 2nd and 5th of the New York Line. While in Capt. Rosekran's Company of the latter regiment under Col. Lewis Dubois, he was detailed as "waiter" to the Colonel at Poughkeepsie during the latter's illness in October, 1779. He drew 600 acres of land for his services in the war and was a pensioner under the Act of 1828. A very full account of his Revolutionary service will be found in the Genealogy of the Newcomb Family. He received his final discharge from the army in January, 1782, and two years later married Lucretia. The next year they removed to Plattsburgh, Clinton Co., N. Y., being among the first ten actual settlers of the town. To encourage settlement in the new town ten gift lots of land were distributed to the first ten settlers, and other prizes were offered, among which was fifty acres of land to the first male child born in the town. This last went to Platt Newcomb, the first-born child of Lucretia.

Kinner Newcomb was for many years a judge of the county courts. In 1808-09 he was a member of the state Assembly for Clinton and Franklin counties. He commanded the first company of militia organized in Plattsburgh, and during the War of 1812 was in command of a company of "Silver Greys."

* This chapter contains the records of the descendants of both Lucretia Banker and her sister Rebecca as each of them married Newcombs, the two sisters marrying two brothers.

Lucretia died Mar. 4, 1830, and Kinner married second Olive Beckwith, July 1, 1830. He had no children by this second marriage and died in Plattsburgh Feb. 6, 1840. His widow died June 4, 1854, aged 74 years. Lucretia had two children:

69. Platt, bo. Nov. 1, 1785;
Levi.

Levi was drowned when a boy.

69. PLATT NEWCOMB (68) was born in Plattsburgh, N. Y., Nov. 1, 1785, being the first white male child born in the town,* in consequence of which he received fifty acres of land as a prize. He graduated from Union College in 1808, being the first of the descendants of Laurens Bancer to receive a college education. He served in the War of 1812, as orderly under Capt. Seth Sherry in the 36th Regiment commanded by Col. Thomas Miller. He was in a skirmish party at Beekmantown in advance of the British when they marched on Plattsburgh in 1814. He helped tear up the bridge at Plattsburgh and was stationed in the river Saranac at the time of the battle to prevent the crossing of the British. He was also adjutant on Gen. B. Mover's staff of the New York militia and was commissioned inspector of the 42nd Brigade. He represented the counties of Clinton and Franklin in two sessions of the State Assembly, 1820-21.

Platt married, May 13, 1810, Ruth Scribner,† a daughter of Levi Scribner and Esther Hubbard. She was born in Norfolk or Norwalk, Conn., July 28, 1788, and removed with her parents to Plattsburgh in 1807. She died Mar. 3, 1862. Major Newcomb was living on the fifty acres of gift land in West Plattsburgh at his death July 8, 1871,‡ and his descendants still occupy the land. He had children as follows:

- Kinner Scribner, bo. Feb. 18, 1811; drowned May 25, 1830;
70. Angelina Lucretia, bo. Oct. 20, 1813;
Levi Platt, bo. June 11, 1821;
Sarah Esther, bo. June 3, 1828;
Julia Kezia, bo. Apr. 16, 1830.

---

* There was a girl born prior to his appearance.

† Her brother Jeremiah married Eleanor Bancer. See page 106.

‡ The Newcomb Genealogy says August.

Levi married, Nov. 18, 1858, Emilia L. Barber, a daughter of Salmon Barber* and Mary Felt. She was born in Beekmantown, N. Y., and died in Plattsburgh Dec. 16, 1865. Levi is a farmer and lived in Plattsburgh until 1872, then he removed to Foxvale, Mass. He returned in 1907 and now lives with his sister Julia on the original fifty acre tract given to his father. He has had one daughter, who died young.

Sarah married, Dec. 24, 1857, Amos Barber, a son of Amos Barber† by his second wife. He was thus a half-brother of Salmon Barber, the father of Emilia, who married Levi above. Amos was a farmer and was born in Beekmantown, but afterward removed to Plattsburgh. Sarah died July 7, 1866. She had two children, of whom Clarissa Marcena is the only one living. She is unmarried and is a Deaconess at 693 Massachusetts Ave., Boston, Mass.

Julia is unmarried and is living with her brother Levi on the old homestead at West Plattsburgh.

70. ANGELINA LUCRETIA NEWCOMB (69) was born in West Plattsburgh, N. Y., Oct. 20, 1813. She married, Apr. 29, 1838, Samuel Newcomb, a son of Dr. Samuel Newcomb and Josepht Stubinger. He was born in Boucherville, Lower Canada, Aug. 13, 1813, but removed to Plattsburgh in 1837, where he resided until his death May 3, 1891. Dr. Samuel Newcomb was a son of Cyrenius, the brother of Kinner, so that Samuel and Angelina were second cousins. Angelina died Mar. 26, 1904. She had the following children:

Kinner Samuel, bo. Dec. 19, 1838;

George Henry, bo. Nov. 11, 1840;

Platt, bo. Nov. 21, 1842;

Ruth Elizabeth, bo. Apr. 9, 1844;

Lucretia Matilda, bo. Mar. 26, 1846;

Julia Jorette, bo. Sept. 3, 1849; d. Aug. 6, 1853;

Levi Mead, bo. May 24, 1852.

Kinner enlisted in the Civil War Sept. 8, 1862, and served in the 2nd Regiment, N. Y. Cavalry. He was engaged in the battles of Leesburgh and Fredericksburgh and was finally taken prisoner Sept. 1, 1863, at Liberty, Va., and sent to Richmond. He was released the following March and sent to Annapolis and exchanged in time to take part in Sheridan's campaign in the Shenandoah Valley. "During his three years' service he was never sick and, except when a prisoner or detached on special duty, he was never absent from his regiment." Soon after the close of the War he went to Chicago, Ill. In 1868 he removed to Remington, Ind., but returned to Chicago in 1870, in which year, on Aug. 30, he married Minta Watkins, a daughter of Cephas Watkins. She was born Feb. 17, 1840, in Malone, N. Y., and died Aug. 8, 1889. After her death Kinner married second in August, 1890, Laura Emerson Hinman. He is a lumber dealer and resides at 1592 West Monroe St., Chicago, Ill. He has had two children: Alvermon Hubbard, born July 12, 1873, died July 4, 1881; and Ruth Lucretia, born Sept. 16, 1892, died Apr. 5, 1893.

George enlisted in the Civil War at the same time and in the same regiment with his brother Kinner. He was in the battle of Fredericksburgh and was killed in the action at Brandy Station June 9, 1863. He left no issue.

Platt married, Oct. 24, 1873, Sarah Jaquish. He lived for a time in Remington, Ind., but now resides in Cottage Grove, Oregon. He has had the following children: Arthur Erwin born Sept. 24, 1874, died Oct. 27, 1876; Samuel Cornelius, born June 16, 1876; Edgar Sanford, born Sept. 11, 1882; Lessie Angeline, born Jan. 17, 1887; Earle Platt, born June 12, 1891.

Ruth is a teacher and is living unmarried in Plattsburgh. Lucretia and Levi are also living unmarried.

71. REBECCA BANKER (38) was born near Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Feb. 5, 1768, and was baptized in the Dutch Reformed Church of that place on April 2. She married Simon Newcomb, who was born at Nine Partners, Dutchess Co., Nov. 30, 1753, a son of Cyrenius Newcomb and hence a brother of Kinner, who married Rebecca's sister Lucretia.* Simon Newcomb was a soldier of the Revolution. He enlisted at the same time and in the same company with his brother Kinner, and his Revolutionary experience was very nearly the same, a full account of which can be found in the Genealogy of the Newcomb Family. After the war he removed from Nine Partners to Pittstown, Rennselaer Co., N. Y., in 1783. It seems probable that he had married his first wife, Rebecca Norcross or Northrop, before this. In 1786 he went to Plattsburgh, N. Y. It is probable that his wife died here having borne him five children,* and he then married Rebecca Banker, who probably came to Plattsburgh with her father's family. She died Apr. 2, 1801, and he afterward married a Mrs. Allen in 1811, by whom he had one son. In 1835 he removed to Columbus, Ohio, where he died in 1841. Rebecca had at least three children as follows:

Mary, bo. June 2, 1808;†

Lucretia;

Erexenia.

Lucretia and Erexenia were twins. The first married Levi Stearns and lived in Potsdam or Ogdensburgh, N. Y. Erexenia married first a Page, second a Dodge, and third a McKinstry, and lived at one time in Cleveland, Ohio. Nothing more is known of either of these or their families.

72. MARY NEWCOMB (71) was born in Plattsburgh, N. Y., June 2, 1808. She married, Nov. 20, 1829, Eliphalet Haskins Newcomb, a son of her first cousin, Kinner Newcomb.‡ He was born in Chazy, Clinton Co., N. Y., June 8, 1808, and became a lawyer. They removed to Cleveland, Ohio, in 1835, where Mary died in 1855, and Eliphalet then married Mrs. Jane Brockway. He had no children by his second wife. Mary had eleven children, eight of whom died young and their names are not known; the others were:

* His children by his first wife were; Rebecca, Eliza, Mary, James, and Kezia. The last three died without issue. Rebecca married Amos Barber by whom she had at least; Salmon who married Mary Felt and had Emilia who married Levi P. Newcomb. (See page 93.) Amos Barber married a second wife by whom he had a son Amos who married Sarah E. Newcomb. (See page 93.)

† There are difficulties here that I am unable to remove. Newcomb says that Rebecca had four children, but he apparently accounts for only three. His record of the family is fragmentary, but I have not been able to add anything to it. The date given above for Rebecca's death was obtained from a Plattsburgh correspondent. The date of Mary's birth is from the Newcomb Genealogy. Certainly one or the other is wrong.

- 73. Helen M., bo. Mar. 26, 1834;
George Sanford, bo. Feb. 28, 1840;
Theodore Beman, bo. July 3, 184—.

George married, Sept. 18, 1862, Susan E. Billson, who was born in Ipswich, Mass., Aug. 4, 1841, a daughter of Caleb Billson and Susan Delphina Bartlett. He is a printer and was for years the head of the "G. S. Newcomb Printing Company." ## CHAPTER VIII.

THE JOHN BANKER FAMILY OF PLATTSBURGH.

74. JOHN BANKER (38) was born at Rhinebeck, Dutchess Co., N. Y., Sept. 25, 1770, and moved perhaps with his parents to Plattsburgh, Clinton Co., where he married Anna Baker about 1795. She was born probably in Connecticut, Apr. 25, 1775, and was a daughter of Zebulon Baker* and Annis Ross, and was a sister of Capt. John Baker, who married her husband's sister Eleanor.† She died Oct. 1, 1858.

John Banker was a soldier in the War of 1812, and served in the Horse Company. At the battle of Plattsburgh he was ordered to carry the axes from the fort to the bridge to cut it down. He dropped the axes at the bridge and as he turned to go back the British fired at him. One ball went through his hat and grazed his head and another cut the strap that held his sword. He felt the strap give and caught the sword with his hand. He was a farmer and tavern keeper. The old tavern is still standing a few miles west of Plattsburgh. During the War it was made a place of rendezvous for the British officers. At the time of the battle the women gathered in the old tavern, as Mrs. Banker was lame and could not be moved. The boys went on horse-back as near the scene of the battle as they dared. After a time they came back at a full run and every one was alarmed, but they brought news of a victory and in their excitement rode their horses right up on the broad piazza of the tavern. John lived here all his life and died Sept. 2, 1836. He had the following children:

75. Platt Newcomb, bo. Sept. 2, 1796;

82. Jeremiah Baker, bo. Oct. 9, 1797;

* Zebulon Baker was a shoemaker, tanner, and currier of New London, Conn. He entered the Revolutionary army and received his pay in Continental Money. As this depreciated he was left without means. As soon as his children were old enough to help, he sold what he had and went to Coeyman's, N. Y., where he bought a farm and there he and his wife died. He had six children; William, Alice, John, Anna, Jeremiah and Abigail. After his father's death, William bought out the interests of the other heirs and kept the farm in Coeyman's.

She had but the one child by her first husband: Maude Eloise, born Nov. 11, 1872.

This daughter, the now famous "Maude Adams," was born in Salt Lake City and made her first appearance on the stage at the age of seven and a half months. Her mother was at that time playing in the local theater in a play entitled "The Cottage Girl." This was followed by a farce, "The Lost Child." The baby who took the title role in the latter was suddenly seized with colic at the critical moment of its appearance. About the same time Maudie appeared at the stage entrance in charge of a maid to accompany her mother home. The need being urgent the manager snatched her up and hurried her on the stage, The child, delighted with the bright lights and glitter about her, crowed and laughed and quite captured the audience. This was the beginning of her career as a footlight favorite. She afterward appeared regularly in a number of baby roles. Later, as a child actress, she was the most popular in the West. The importance of obtaining an education, however, necessitated her retirement from the stage for a time. She afterward came east and first appeared in New York at the Star Theater in "The Paymaster." She was leading woman with John Drew for several seasons and finally appeared in the principal cast of "The Little Minister," in which her fame became fully established. She is now in the full tide of her popularity and is winning increased recognition as the greatest actress of the day. Her country home is at Konkonkoma, Long Island. A full account of her career has been written by Acton Davies under the title "Maude Adams," published by Frederick A. Stokes Co. A very interesting short account will be found in the Ladies Home Journal for November, 1903. See also Munsey's for August, 1905, Pearson's for May, 1908, and various popular periodicals of more recent date.

94. HENRY J. BANKER (38) was born at Rhinebeck, Dutchess Co., N. Y., Sept. 25, 1772. He moved to Peru, Clinton Co., and in 1798 married Mary Beman. He was a soldier in the War of 1812, being a private in Capt. Joseph I. Green's Company of Col. Stephen Thorn's Reg't of New York militia. He volunteered July 1, 1812, for six months at Plattsburgh under General Orders of the Governor, and again Aug. 31, 1814, for an indefinite term, continued in service seven months, and was honorably discharged. He received from the U. S. Government Land Warrants for 160 acres of land. He was probably in the cavalry as he furnished besides his clothing a sword and belt. He was a farmer and died in Schuyler Falls June 8, 1848. His wife died in February, 1857. He had at least seven children:

- 95. Ezra Turner, bo. 1800;

- 105. Rebecca;
Jemima;
Fanny.

It has been difficult to obtain information of most of this family.

His wife died May 13, 1875. When but a small boy, at the time of the invasion of New York by the British in 1812, he drove an ox-team into Plattsburgh to rescue a family just before the entrance of the British and had to run the oxen at the top of their speed on the way out to keep ahead of the troops. Some fugitives who met him on his way in warned him to go back, but he said, no, his father had sent him after that family and get them he would. He had nine children as follows:

- Silas Kent, bo. Apr. 6, 1828;
- 96. John K., bo. Aug. 2, 1829;

Silas married Mary Ann Sprague, a daughter of Renidine Sprague. He was a soldier of the Civil War and served in the cavalry. On one occasion he was engaged with his troop in a battle in a swamp and saw his captain attacked by three rebels. He dashed up and struck one with his saber and was immediately struck in turn over the head and knocked from his horse and trampled upon. He was not killed, however, and was carried off the field as a prisoner by the rebels. After three weeks with his captors he made his escape by appearing unable to travel on account of his injuries. The Confederates took his clothes and gave him a rebel suit instead and left him. This change of dress favored him, and he wandered through the mountains for weeks living on berries until he finally reached the Federal lines. He was an Adirondack hunter and a crack shot but wanted a mark. In one skirmish when the fight was hot he was behind a stump and peeking about nervously, when his captain spied him and called out, "Banker, why don't you shoot?" He replied, "I don't see anything to shoot at." After the war he went west and settled in Illinois near Fairbury. He died about eight years later. His wife died about 1902. He was lying behind a log with the adjutant who was loading while he fired. His brother Benjamin under orders to retire saw him and told him to come back. He said he would after one more volley, but the rebels suddenly made a dash forward and he was captured. He was taken first to Libby prison, then to Castle Thunder, and finally to Andersonville. An acquaintance saw him taken to the hospital one day and the next day recognized his body in the dead cart. He died Aug. 15, 1864, and his grave is No. 5536.

CHAPTER X.

THE BAKER FAMILY.

106. ELEANOR BANKER (38) was born in Dutchess county, N. Y., Nov. 7, 1776, and was baptized in the Dutch Reformed Church of the Flats near Nether Rhinebeck Feb. 16, 1777. She married John Baker, who was born in June, 1773, in New London, Connecticut, and when a boy moved with his father to Coeyman's, New York. He was a son of Zebulon Baker and Annis Ross and a brother of Anna Baker, who married Eleanor's brother, John Banker.* About 1796, the year after their marriage, John and Eleanor removed to Plattsburgh, N. Y., where they afterward lived.

John Baker was a prosperous man for the time and a prominent man in the community. He was captain of a light infantry company in the American Army in the War of 1812 and took active part in the operations against the British about Plattsburgh. His health was broken down by his exposures and he died of consumption Dec. 7, 1816. His wife was his equal in patriotic zeal and resolution. It is said that she turned the grindstone for the Captain to sharpen his sword. At the time the British were advancing to the Saranac River, a detachment of about five hundred came by Captain Baker's house, which is about a mile north of the river, and halted there. Captain Baker and his men were at Wait's Mills, now Morrisonville, tearing up the bridge. The British posted their sentinels about the house and asked for milk and refreshments, which Mrs. Baker gave them, and they paid for what they had. At some distance south of the house was a brook, and between that and the river at the bridge was a considerable rise of ground. At first the British officers supposed the river ran where the brook was, and seeing some smoke rising beyond the hill they asked where that was and were told it was at Wait's Mills on the river. They then learned that they had some distance to go through woods and broken country. Suspecting that some trap might be planned for them, they inquired where the Captain was, and Mrs. Baker told them that he was out with his men in defense of his country. Not being able to get much satisfaction from her they finally told her that they were going down to the bridge, but if they were fired on while on the way they would burn all the buildings on their return. She replied, "You can burn and be damned, I can use water as fast as you can fire." At this they laughed and tipping their hats rode off saying, "For such bravery from a little black-eyed woman, who would harm her?"

The British were met at the bridge by a small body of Americans in command of Captain Daniel B. Vaughan, a half-brother of Benjamin and Nathan Vaughan.* These men, concealed by a log house, conducted themselves so well as to convey the impression of being a much larger force and induced the enemy to retreat. The British troops returned by Captain Baker's house, but so far from molesting anything the soldiers were not even permitted to get apples from the orchard without paying for them.

The Captain's house was a log house but substantial and with considerable indications of prosperity. It was supposed that he had some money. Realizing the dangers of the times he placed his money in a stocking leg and buried it beneath a lone apple-tree in the pasture at some distance from the house. This tree was still standing a few years ago and leaned strongly to the west. The British came to the house several times and demanded the Captain's money with threats, but were beaten off by the female weapon in the mouth of his courageous wife.

The story is told that on one occasion in order to carry a warning to her husband, she rode her pony across a bridge from which the planks had been removed by the British scouts, and that the scouts who saw the performance cheered her. It is to be presumed that the bridge was neither very high nor very long. At the least these stories indicate the mettle of the woman.

Mrs. Baker lived to be nearly 80 years old, dying Aug. 29, 1856,† and often delighted in telling the story of her skirmish with the British. She had ten children as follows:

107. Zebulon, bo. Mar. 24, 1796;

111. James, bo. Feb. 10, 1799;

† Also given as July 4, 1857. She was said to be 81 years old.

- 119. Rebecca, bo. Sept. 15, 1801;
- 121. Sally, bo. Apr. 9, 1804;
Philander, bo. Aug. 28, 1807;
David, bo. May 2, 1809; d. Aug. 14, 1868, unmarried.
John, bo. Oct. 10, 1810; d. Sept. 20, 1846, unmarried;
- 124. Charles, bo. Jan. 16, 1812;
George, bo. Apr. 10, 1814;
Charlotte, bo. May 23, 1816.

Philander married and lived on a farm in West Plattsburgh all his life. He died May 6, 1885. His wife is also dead. He had two children, one who died in infancy and Elizabeth. The latter married Charles Meader, a son of James M. Meader. He is a keeper in Dannemora Prison. They have two children, Frank and Mattie. Frank is married and lives in Schenectady, N. Y., where he works in the Electric Works. This is all that could be learned concerning Philander or his family.

George married, Sept. 27, 1872, Octavia C. Carpenter, a daughter of Horace Carpenter and Marion Stickles. He died May 9, 1885. His widow is still living in Morrisonville, N. Y. He had twin sons born July 15, 1875, and both died in infancy.

Charlotte married George A. Standish, said to be a descendant of Miles Standish. He was a lawyer in Plattsburgh. Charlotte died Oct. 22, 1895. Her husband died before her. She had two children, one who died young and Charlotte Mary. The latter married Charles Stackpole, a son of Stephen Stackpole. She died and Mr. Stackpole married a second time and is again a widower. He is now a shoe dealer in Plattsburgh. He has four children: Miles Standish, who is unmarried and lives with his father in Plattsburgh; Stewart C., who is married; Caroline Emerette, who is a teacher in New York; and George Augustus. The last one married, June 19, 1907, Jessie Pearl Teachout, a daughter of Henry Stevens Teachout from Essex Junction, Vt. He is in the boot and shoe business in Burlington, Vt.

he had four children. After her death he married second, Sept. 5, 1827, Elizabeth Albee, by whom he had nine children. He was yet a boy when the War of 1812 broke out, but being filled with a martial spirit he desired to enlist. His father, Capt. Baker, consented and had him mustered in as his aid. He served under his father to the end of the war, and afterward received a pension for this service. Immediately after being enrolled he and a comrade were sent out as scouts, and on their return they ran into a company of the British cavalry and narrowly escaped capture. At the engagement of Missisquoi Bay he stood fire like a veteran. The result of this battle was the complete route of the British forces on the Vermont side and the capture of a considerable amount of property. In the division of the booty Zebulon's share was $15. At the close of the war when he presented himself for his pay the pay-master asked his father, the Captain, if the boy should receive his pay. His father replied, "Yes, the boy can sign the pay-roll." He became an iron and lumber manufacturer in Saranac, N. Y., and was a successful business man for thirty-five or forty years. In politics he was a conservative whig and took an active interest in all public affairs. He was regarded as one of the substantial men of the community. He finally lost his property by putting his name on papers for two friends whom he supposed he could trust. The blow not only ruined him financially, but destroyed his health, and after five years of mental and physical suffering he died Sept. 23, 1857. His family were left in straitened circumstances and on account of their previous good fortune in which they had been reared they were ill-prepared to meet the stern conditions of their new life. He had four children by his first wife as follows:

John Sheldon;

108. Rhoda Ann, bo. Nov. 22, 1822;
Emeline.

By his second wife he had:

- Eleanor Margaret, bo. Oct., 1828; died in 1830;

John married Jane Roberts of Plattsburgh, N. Y. He lived in West Plattsburgh until 1849, when he left his family and went to California during the "Gold Fever." He stayed there three years and returned with a good fortune, but, not being satisfied, when the Pike's Peak excitement arose he went there and prospected and mined for two or three years with but little success. He died soon after at the home of his niece, Mrs. William D. Phifer. His wife lived with her daughter, Mrs. Bicknel, at Kearney, Neb., until her death a few years later. John had five children: Mary Jane, who married a Mr. Morrison of West Plattsburgh, N. Y., and is said to be living in Denver, Col.; Elizabeth, who married and is living somewhere in the west; Deborah, who married a Mr. Bicknell, lived for a time at Kearney, Neb., and is now living in Chicago; Alice, who married a Mr. Beemas and lives somewhere in the west; and John, who married and was for years a ticket agent on the Union Pacific Railroad, moving farther and farther west as the company desired, until the last known of him he was living in Pocatella, Nevada, where he was county clerk.

Emeline married Isaac Harrington of Peru, N. Y. They lived there for a while then moved to the Forks of the Saranac River just above Redford, where he worked in the iron works. He died a few years later. His wife, thus left with a family to care for, overtaxed her strength, but saw them all grown to manhood. Her son, James, urged his mother to come to him in Lowell, Mass. She went, but three days after her arrival died suddenly of heart failure in 1886 or 1887. She had four sons; Charles, Isaac, James, and Eugene. James never married and lived in Lowell, where he died about 1906. The other boys have wandered away and nothing is known of them.

Daniel married in February, 1861, Laura Strong of Cleveland, Ohio. He enlisted in the Civil War, Aug. 21, 1862, in Co. D, 103d Reg't, Ohio Vol. Inf. He was given a captain's commission on condition that he go into Kentucky and raise a company, which he did, bringing them safely to camp after several skirmishes. He received a further promotion at the close of the war. He settled on a farm in Lynn county, Iowa. Later he went farther west and was often heard from, but finally disappeared and has not since been found. He had three children: Susie, who is now dead; Jefferson, who married and had one child, but afterward left home in a disturbed state of mind and nothing more is known of him; and Julia, who married and is living in Cleveland, Ohio.

Susetta married in February, 1861, Luther Pease, M. D., of Fort Dodge, Iowa. They lived in Fort Dodge until 1863 and then moved to Linn county where the doctor died about 1879 or 1881. George married in 1872 or 1873, Jennie Lewis of Lincoln, Neb. He is a farmer and real estate dealer and lives in Ursa, Ill. He has seven children: Roy, an electrician for a company in South Texas; Arthur, who is conducting a rice plantation near San Antonio, Texas; Bert, a laborer in Los Angeles, Cal.; Carrie, who married Frank Scott, a farmer near Gibbon, Neb.; Glen; Clark; and Ruth. The last three are at home.

Nelson married in 1873 Minnie Brooks of Marshalltown, Iowa. He is a dealer in Texas lands for a Chicago company and lives in New Orleans, La. He has four children: Marie, Earl, Clare, and Byrd. Earl and Clare are married and are in partnership with their father.

At the age of twenty, Mr. Vaughan learned the blacksmith's trade of his brother Henry,‡ with whom he also worked one year on shares, then went into business for himself, hiring his shop and tools of John Banker,§ an uncle of his wife. With this man he also lived for two years. In 1839 he secured the Post Office at West Plattsburgh and held it for twenty years. In 1868, being then 67 years old, he wrote a brief account of the Vaughan family, which was afterward copied by Miss Rebecca Vaughan and published in 1904.¶ Mr. Vaughan states in this work that his wife was born May 8, 1805. ## CHAPTER XI.

THE ADOLPH BANCKER FAMILY.

125. ADOLPH BANCKER (1) was baptized at Sleepy Hollow in 1701. The record does not give any further date than the year, which would seem to indicate that it was not entered at the time of the baptism.* It is further notable that he was the first of Lauren's children to be recorded in the Sleepy Hollow records and that he was the last child by his first wife. The next child, the first by his second wife, was baptized in New York, as had been the earlier children, but thereafter all the children were baptized at Sleepy Hollow. This peculiar irregularity I have not been able to explain. Adolph was married, Jan. 16, 1724-5, to Maritje Schouten who was born at Courtland Manor. It is probable that she was the daughter of Symon Schoute and Ypje Jans and was baptized in New York May 6, 1703. Maritje appears to have had a brother, Andries, baptized Oct. 22, 1699, when the parents' names are given as "Simon Schoute and Lypje Valentyn." This would indicate that the father of Lypje or Ypje was Jan Valentyn. No further trace was found of him. In 1723 the "Widow of Simon Schouten" was taxed £16. She was then living in the "South Ward" of Dutchess county. This included what is now Putnam county. At that time there were about forty-five taxable inhabitants in this region, of whom the "widow" was the most heavily taxed, the next in amount of taxation being John Schouten, perhaps her son. This would indicate that the Schouten family was well off for that time and region.

After his marriage Adolph lived at Philipsburgh for a number of years. He held the office of deacon in the Sleepy Hollow Church in 1736 and again in 1738. As late as April 10, 1739, he witnessed a baptism there, but between 1741 and 1744 he and others migrated to Crum Elbow Precinct, now the vicinity of Hyde Park, in Dutchess county. In 1741, he with Frans Van Dyck and Joos Garrison, all of Westchester county, purchased a tract of seven hundred acres of land, being a part of the tract in Dutchess county known as the Nine Partners Patent. This seven hundred acre tract was sold by the proprietors for £210 to defray the expense of a division of the patent. Nov. 30, 1744, the three owners, now all of Crum Elbow Precinct, signed a deed of partition by which Adolph received as his share 234 acres located in the center of the tract. On Dec. 8, Adolph deeded his lot to Bastean Trever for £115. After this transaction all further trace of Adolph is lost. He had at least four children and probably more. They are as follows:

- 126. Nathaniel, bo. Nov. 27, 1727;
Janitie, bp. Apr. 24, 1731;
Jan, bp. June 26, 1733;
Jeremias, bp. Apr. 1, 1735.

Janitie was baptized at Sleepy Hollow. She married, Oct. 9, 1756, Johannes Van Tassel, possibly a son of Hendrick Van Tassel and Belytie Buys, and if so baptized Apr. 23, 1734. She had at least five children as follows: Hendrick, bapt. May 3, 1757; Frederick, born Apr. 5, 1761, bapt. June 27; Philippus, bapt. Apr. 30, 1763; Rachel, bapt. June 30, 1764; and Engeltje, bapt. Nov. 10, 1766. This family was traced no further.

Jan was baptized at Sleepy Hollow. It seems probable that he was the John Bancker of Fishkill who made his will December 22, 1796, and which was proved May 8, 1801. He was a farmer and had, according to his will, at least eight children; Hannah, Zeruiah, Phoebe, Nathaniel, Mary, John, Isaac, and Joseph. The last two were under twenty-one years of age in 1796. Nathaniel was executor of the will. A Phoebe Banker married Richard Travers Feb. 16, 1806. Nathaniel probably was the Revolutionary soldier who served as corporal in Capt. Thomas Lee's Company (also known as Col. Lewis Dubois's Company) in the 5th Reg't of the New York Line commanded by Col. Dubois. He received his appointment Jan. 1, 1777, and was discharged Dec. 11, 1779, having enlisted for three years. He afterward served in Col. Abraham Brinckerhoff's Reg't of Dutchess county Militia in the years 1779 and 1780, the latter service ending June 12, for which he received 12s. 2½d. Nathaniel seems to have married Elizabeth Humphrey and had David, born Nov. 16, 1786, and baptized in New Hackensack. He appears to have had also a daughter, Phoebe, bapt. at Hopewell May 7, 1782, but his name is given as Nathaniel Baker. His wife, however, was Elizabeth Humphrey. Further items in the Hopewell records are as follows: married, Mar. 22, 1805, Daniel Giles and Phoebe Baker; July 12, 1807, Jonathan Baker and Jane Van Vleght. It looks as though the Hopewell records had erroneously written Baker for Banker, yet these records may represent a different family. At Poughkeepsie is a record of letters of administration granted Apr. 19, 1809, in the estate of Nathaniel Banker who died intestate. No citation was found. Nothing further could be discovered of Jan's family.

Jeremias was also baptized at Sleepy Hollow. He enlisted Apr. 25, 1758, in Capt. John Verplank's Company for the French and Indian War. He is described as 5ft. 7½in. high with gray eyes and a round, ruddy face. He may have been the brother mentioned in Nathaniel's will.* If so, he had a son, Jeremiah, but nothing more is known about him or his family.

126. NATHANIEL BANKER (125) was born probably Nov. 27, 1727,† and was baptized in New York in the Dutch Reformed Church Mar. 20, 1728. He married, May 21, 1747, Hannah Conklin who was born Sept. 24, 1729. He settled on a farm in Rumbout's Precinct in the vicinity of Fishkill, Dutchess Co. His wife died sometime after 1764, and he married second, June 2, 1768, Annatje DeWitt at Poughkeepsie. She was baptized Oct. 5, 1729, and was a daughter of Lucas DeWitt and Catharine Roosa and a great-granddaughter of Tjerek Claessen DeWitt who came from "Grootholdt et Zunderlandt" in 1662. Nathaniel made his will June 9, 1772, being at the time "very sick." As it was probated July 16, 1772, he must have died soon after the date of the will. After providing for funeral expenses and debts, he gives first, to his wife Annatje, "one cow and four pounds in money for her Dowre"; second, "to my son Stephen five Pounds for his Birth-Right"; third, the wife and children to be in possession of all property till fall, then the estate both real and personal to be sold at Public Vendue and the money to be equally divided between "my wife Annatje, and my son Stephen, and my son Adolph, my daughter Mary, and my daughter Elizabeth, and my daughter Magdalene, excepting a Reduction to be made of thirty pounds of Stephen's portion, likewise of Mary, what she hath had as Inventory Taken and so to be Reducted out of her portion, and to my brother's son Jeremiah, I give ten pounds when he comes to the age of twenty-one, and to be put out to a trade as he chooses to go to"; lastly, "that my wearing clothes to be equally divided between my two sons Stephen and Adolph, and my two youngest daughters to be put out to Christian people by my executors and the two gray horses to be sold together for a team." Nathaniel dropped the c from his name. All of his children were by his first wife and were as follows:

- 127. Mary, bo. Oct. 29, 1748 or 9;*
- Stephen, bo. Feb. 5, 1752;
- 131. Adolph, bo. Mar. 27, 1754;
- Sarah, bo. June 16, 1756;
- 204. Elizabeth, bo. Sept. 19, 1759;
- Magdalene, bo. Jan. 20, 1764.

Stephen never married. He was born in New Castle, Westchester Co., N. Y. He was a soldier of the Revolution, serving at various times in the Line and in the Militia. He enlisted first from Fishkill, Dutchess Co., in June, 1776, for six months in Capt. Thomas Storms Company of Col. John Bailey's Reg't and took active part in the battle of White Plains. He enlisted again in March, 1777, for nine months in Capt. James Rosecran's Company of Col. Livingston's Reg't and took part in the battles of Stillwater and the capture of Burgoyne. He enlisted a third time in April, 1778, and served until Jan. 14, 1779, in Capt. James Sleight's Company of Col. Livingston's Reg't. He also served for various short periods in the militia. He received a pension of $80 a year from Mar. 4, 1831. He died Feb. 28, 1838, at Mastin Brundage's near Johnsonville, Rensselaer Co., N. Y. He is described as a short, fleshy man who talked very little.

* The last figure of the year is blotted in the record, but is either an 8 or a 9.

Sarah married John Losee and lived for a time at least near Hopewell, Dutchess Co., N. Y. She died April 12, 1836. She had at least one son, John, born Dec. 19, 1777. The family has been traced no further*.

Magdalene has been lost trace of.

127. MARY BANKER (126) was born near Fishkill, Dutchess Co., N. Y., Oct. 29, 1748 or 1749. She married Paul Vandervort. It is said that he was born on the shores of the Wallabout on Long Island and that before the Revolution he taught a Dutch school. He was a Revolutionary soldier and had a brother who was killed in the war. He served in Col. Jacobus Swarthout's Minute Men of the Dutchess county Militia. He was present at the hanging of Andre and about that time was put in charge of six soldiers left behind on account of sickness. He said that the only thing he ever stole was a sheep for those soldiers. He was finally discharged at Newburgh. After the war he drifted north with other members of the family to Rensselaer county and then to Saratoga county, but afterwards returned to Dutchess county and for many years tended a toll-gate some nine miles from Poughkeepsie. He lived to be 85 years old, never used glasses, and had fine teeth. In his last days he was very fond of playing the violin and telling war stories. It is not known when Mary died, but Mr. Vandervort married a second time having, it is said, one daughter by his second marriage. Mary had at least three children:

Jan, bo. May 5, 1781;

128. Nathaniel;

(A daughter).

Nothing further is known of Jan. The daughter whose name is lost is said to have married a John Losee and to have had at least one son named Paul. She lived in Dutchess Co.

128. NATHANIEL VANDERVORT (127) lived in Pittstown, Rensselaer Co., N. Y., and died in Troy about 1817. Nothing more is known of him nor is it known whom he married. He had two children as follows:

* I am told that the Losees were Tories. In the records of the Revolution I have found a John Losee who was arrested in 1777 and again in 1778 as a suspect near Fishkill; also a John Losee who served in Col. Roswell Hopkins' Reg't in 1777 at Peekskill and in 1779 at Fishkill. The latter was associated in the service with Stephen Banker, the brother of Sarah above.

129. Orsemus, bo. Mar. 22, 1809;
Mary.

Mary married George Conklin. Little is known of the family. She had at least one child, Elmira A., bo. Aug. 16, 1840. The latter married B. E. Fay and was living at 2441, 11th Ave., New York City, in 1902. She has had one son, Emmet.

129. ORSEMUS VANDERVORT (128) was born in Amenia, Dutchess Co., N. Y., Mar. 22, 1809. He married Abby Winney who was born Dec. 16, 1807. She died Jan. 21, 1869. Mr. Vandervort was for many years a United States Revenue Collector. The last twenty-five years of his life he lived in Clifton Park, Saratoga Co., N. Y., where he was interviewed when he was over ninety years old by the writer and most of the information concerning the descendants of Mary Banker was obtained from his memory. He was at that time a vigorous man for his age with clear mind and apparently trustworthy memory. Where it was possible to verify his statements by written records he was found to have been accurate. He remembered clearly his grandfather, Paul, as well as also his uncle, Adolph Banker, with whom he lived for a time after his father's death. He died a few months after this interesting interview on Dec. 27, 1900. He had three children as follows:

- Orsemus, bo. Oct. 15, 1830;
130. Adrian, bo. Dec. 21, 1832;
Laura, bo. Dec. 17, 1841.

Orsemus married Lucy Davis of Otisco, N. Y. He entered the Civil War as 1st Lieutenant in the 77th (?) N. Y. Vol. Inf. He was living in Colon, Mich., the last that was known of him. He had four children; Lizzie, Horace Henry, and Carl R. Lizzie married in Crescent, N. Y., and died without issue. She is buried in the Crescent Cemetery. Carl married Lottie E., daughter of Guy Anderson of Colon, Mich., Aug. 28, 1895. Nothing more could be learned of this family.

Laura married James F. Ross in Otisco, N. Y., and went to Beloit, Wisconsin. She has had at least two children; Charles who is dead and Vandervort. Nothing more was learned of her family.

130. ADRIAN VANDERVORT (129) was born Dec. 21, 1832. He married in Nov. (?), 1854, Calista Lyon who was born Feb. 25, 1835, a daughter of Daniel and Dorcas Lyon. He entered the Civil War as a private in the 12th N. Y. Vol. Inf. and served two years and nine months. He went to New Orleans under Gen. Benjamin F. Butler, was in Banks' Red River Expedition, and was at Port Hudson. He returned just before the close of the war, having been promoted on the field at Port Hudson to the rank of lieutenant. After the war he lived in Troy, N. Y., where he was for several years on the old Capitol Police force. He died there June 8, 1896, his wife having died Oct. 5, 1886. He had six children as follows:

Fred D., bo. Nov. 14, 1855;

Jennie L., bo. Jan. 13, 1857; d. Aug. 6, 1864;

Addie L., bo. Oct. 30, 1858; d. Oct. 17, 1886;

Abbie I., bo. Oct. 7, 1870;

Charles E., bo. May 22, 1873;

Adrian Orsemus, bo. Apr. 13, 1876.

Fred married, Dec. 3, 1876, Anna E. Robertson who was born Dec. 3, 1855, a daughter of Peter and Jane Robertson of Borodino, N. Y. He is a locomotive engineer on the Boston and Maine Railroad and lives at 488 Ninth St., Troy, N. Y. He has three children; Jennie C., born Oct. 15, 1880; Leon F., born June 25, 1882; and Arthur L., born May 13, 1885.

Charles married, Nov. 29, 1893, Tillie McClum, a daughter of H. McClum of Troy. Nothing further is known of him.

Adrian graduated from Purdue University, La Fayette, Ind., in the class of 1900.

131. ADOLPH BANKER (126) was born in Fishkill, Dutchess Co., N. Y., Mar. 27, 1754. He married, Jan. 1, 1778, Ruth Oakley who was born Oct. 21, 1756. She had a brother William*, but her parents are not known. She died in Johnsonville, N. Y., at the home of her son Timothy Sept. 8, 1838. Her grandson, George W. Grant,* informed me that when he was about ten years old she visited his home and distributed among her grandchildren a quantity of Continental paper money. He received two ten dollar certificates as his share. On asking his mother afterwards how grandmother came to have so much money she replied that grandfather, meaning her own grandfather, had given it to her mother and that he got it in payment for cattle that he had sold to the American Army during the Revolution. It was Grant's impression that she meant her grandfather Banker, but it seems altogether probable that it was the grandfather Oakley that was referred to. Adolph served on several occasions in the militia during the Revolution. He appears to have enlisted first in Capt. Stephen Duryea's Company July 30, 1776, and is described as "Aged 22; born in Fishkill; stature 5ft. 5½ inches; fresh brown hair." He served as a corporal in Col. Samuel Drake's Reg't, Third Westchester Co. Militia, to June 20, 1779, for which he received £1 19s. 2d. and again as private to June 6, 1781, for which he received 5s. 4d. From June 7 to 12, 1780, he was called out in Capt. Nicholas Brower's Company of Col. Abram Brinckerhoff's Reg't, 2nd Dutchess Co. Militia, on a general alarm to repel the enemy by order of Gov. Clinton. For this five days service he received 11s. 4½d. He also served in Col. Jacobus Swartwout's New York Regiment of Minute-men.

---

* William Oakley married first Dorcas Reynolds. He settled in Schaghticoke on the north bank of the Tomhannock Creek, about a half-mile east of Schaghticoke Hill when this region was nearly all forest. He sold this tract to his brother-in-law, Adolph Banker, and afterwards lived in Schroon, N. Y. Later he lived with his youngest son, David R., at Bemis Heights. He finally married a second time a widow, name unknown, and is believed to have died in Lansingburgh, N. Y. He had seven children; Phoebe, Clara, John, Jesse, Gilbert, William, and David R. The last died in August, 1883, lacking only ten days of being 85 years old.

After the Revolution he and his wife migrated to Rensselaer county and it is believed first settled near Lansingburgh. He soon moved to Schaghticoke where he was living in 1790, and finally to Pittstown adjoining. He lived on various farms along the north side of the Tomhannock Creek. It is told that the eldest of his children, Hannah, often went through the woods nearly to Johnsonville, 6 miles, after the cows, taking her gun with her and on the way home sometimes heard the panthers scream in the woods. He and his wife began very poor and it is said that their first bed was made of boards, but he got to be well off. He is said to have made his money trading. He began by trading horses and then traded farms. He is reported to have traded farms three times in one year. He was a man of few words, but would sit with his thumb in his mouth and trotting his knee, a favorite attitude,—then a trade was coming. Presently he would look up and say, “Mammy, I can trade this farm with so and so, and I will make so much.” He established his credit with the farmers by borrowing money when he had no use for it and then paying it back a little before it was due. In this way he was always able to secure money for a trade. He finally bought a farm at Johnsonville of Hoos, a tavern-keeper, and then bought additional of Van Wert. The farm thus formed became the Banker homestead. The Boston and Maine Railroad now passes through it, and the site of the old house is opposite and a little west of the station. The present brick house was built by his son Timothy on the old site.

Adolph died Jan. 22,* 1822. He and his wife are buried in the Millertown graveyard. His will was made Oct. 2, 1820. He distributed his property equally to his children, except $1000 given to his wife. Besides a farm of 285 acres, he had personal property that inventoried at $7,681.87. The inventory contains some interesting items among which may be noted the following standing together; “Red cow $16, Red and white cow $14.50, Black girl 5 yrs. old $1.” This black girl was known as Dean. She afterwards married Peter Mathers, and some of her descendants still live in Schaghticoke. Adolph had seven children as follows:

- 132. Hannah, bo. Jan 1, 1779;
- 161. Nathaniel, bo. Nov. 3, 1780;
- 165. William, bo. May 5, 1783;
Stephen, bo. July 2, 1785; d. Dec. 15, 1794;
- 175. Eunice, bo. June 27, 1788;
- 193. John, bo. Nov. 2, 1794;
- 199. Timothy, bo. Jan. 24, 1797.

CHAPTER XII

THE GRANT FAMILY.

132. HANNAH BANKER (131) was born Jan 1, 1779.* She married, Mar. 24, 1799, Peter Grant† who was born in Dutchess county, N. Y., Apr. 16, 1778, and came to Schaghticoke, Rensselaer Co., at an early date. He lived on various farms in the latter town and in the adjoining town of Easton in Washington county during the rest of his life. He was a very sociable man and was generally known in the community as "Uncle Peter." He died near Johnsonville, N. Y., July 25, 1859. Hannah Banker was short and very corpulent having to a pronounced extent the characteristic Dutch physique of this line of Bankers. She

* One record gives the date 1778. It is said that she was born in Pittstown near Tomhannock, but it seems more probable that she was born in Dutchess county or possibly near Lansingburgh in Rensselaer county.

† Little is known concerning the ancestry of Peter Grant. The following tradition appears to be the most trustworthy of those I have been given and is in some points sustained by documentary evidence. Peter Grant's grandfather was Major James Grant, who was born in Scotland and held a commission as major in a regiment of Scottish Highlanders. He came to this country with his regiment in 1758 or 1759 and took part in the French and Indian War. After peace was declared he returned home to Scotland and gave such a glowing account of the country that his four sons, James, John, Peter and Matthew, enlisted at the beginning of the Revolution in the British Army and were transported to this country, landing at Quebec early in 1775. They soon after deserted and came to the States. On account of being deserters they found it prudent to separate and so lost all trace of each other. John became a captain of the Green Mountain boys, which position he held from July 27 to November, 1775. He was afterward regimental quartermaster of Jackson's additional Continental Regiment from June 1, 1777, to Apr. 23, 1779, and subsequently served as quartermaster of the New Hampshire State Militia. He married Susan Williams of Long Island and died in Granville, N. Y., Nov., 1825. His children besides Peter, mentioned above in the text, were James, who married Catharine Baucus and lived in Granville, N. Y., where he died leaving a family of two sons and four daughters; Elizabeth who married Michael Van der Bogart and also moved to Granville, where she died leaving a family; Susan, who married Isaac Travis and moved to Schaghticoke, N. Y., where she had at least one son and one daughter; Catharine, who married Nicholas E. Van Wagner and remained in Dutchess Co., (her genealogy will be found in the records of the Van Wagner family); William, who married and settled in Granville, N. Y., and had four sons and two daughters; Richard, who lived and died in Hastings, Oswego Co., N. Y.; and Daniel, the youngest, who lived and died on his father's farm in Pine Plains, Dutchess Co., N. Y., was married twice and had two sons and four daughters by his first wife and one son and four daughters by his second wife.

CHAPTER XV.

THE VERITY FAMILY.

175. EUNICE BANKER (131) was born probably in Rensselaer county, N. Y., June 27, 1788. She married, Feb. 1, 1812, James Gritman Verity, who was born in Queens county, L. I., Jan. 20, 1786, a son of James Verity* and Hannah Gritman. When fourteen years old James G. Verity was apprenticed to a Quaker weaver living at Nine Partners Patent, Dutchess Co., N. Y. He worked there until he was twenty-one, then went to Schaghticoke Point, N. Y., and worked in the cotton factories there for several years. He then worked for Uncle Peter Grant,† where he became acquainted with Eunice Banker. After his marriage he lived for a time below Melrose on a farm, continuing his trade of weaving on a loom in his own house. About 1830 he went west with his family and lived for a year near his brother-in-law's, Nathaniel Banker,‡ at Owasco, Cayuga Co. He then moved to Lysander, Onondaga Co., where he bought a

* The following account of the Verity family has been given me. I do not know its authority.

The Veritys are descendants of a James Verity who came to Long Island in the time of Cromwell. He was a Frenchman born in the north of France. He was in the French army on the confines of Turkey in the reign of Louis XIV of France and was captured by the Turks. While a prisoner he met and became attached to a Turkish woman by whose aid he escaped and with her returned to France, where they were married. Soon after this he came to Long Island, N. Y. One of his descendants was the James Verity mentioned in the text, who was born in Queens county, L. I., in 1760. He married in 1781 Hannah Gritman, who is said to have been of German descent.

A second account differs slightly from the preceding and is as follows: James Verity, the father of James G. Verity, was born in France and came to this country in 1776 as a soldier of the Revolutionary War. He married Rebecca Gritman, a woman of Dutch descent, and had five children: Rebecca, Charity, James, William, and Oliver.

The first account perhaps originated with Judge Verity of Ohio, who possibly gave the subject some investigation. The second account was given me directly by his sister, Mrs. Ruth Davis, the second eldest child of James G. Verity. I have not attempted to verify either account by a search of records, but have given both here that they might be preserved as of interest to the Verity family. My knowledge of the background of history leads me to give chief credence to the latter account.

farm and there lived until his death May 8, 1840. Eunice died in Lysander Aug. 22, 1834. She had nine children:

- 176. Oliver Banker, bo. Jan. 8, 1815;
- 181. Ruth, bo. Jan 21, 1816;
- 183. Caroline, bo. Apr. 15, 1817;
- 187. William Banker, bo. July 21, 1819;
- 189. Mary Ann, bo. Apr. 6, 1823;
- 190. Nancy, bo. Dec. 4, 1824;
Hope Jane, bo. Mar. 5, 1826;
- 191. James Henry, bo. Apr. 4, 1828;
- 192. Day Otis, bo. Dec. 1, 1831.

Hope Jane was born in Schaghticoke, N. Y. She went to Lysander, N. Y., with her parents when a child and later went to Michigan. About 1854 she married Jacob Wright, a widower with two children. She seems to have been living at the time with her sister, Caroline Barnes,* in Fulton county, Ohio. They went to a justice of the peace, Ben Hornbeck, near Morenci, Mich., in an open cutter, and the weather was so cold that Hope froze her feet. Soon after her marriage she and her husband went to live at West Unity, Ohio, where the youngest child died. About a year later they moved to Locus Corners near Hudson, Mich. A few years after Mrs. Barnes received a letter from her stating that she was not well and asking her to come and see her, but Mrs. Barnes was unable to leave her own family at the time. Nothing more was ever heard from her, and it is believed that she died about that time. Mrs. Barnes and also her brother, Oliver, tried to find her afterwards but were unsuccessful. She is believed to have had no children. Her husband's eldest boy by his first wife was Darius and he was about seven or eight at the time of her marriage.

176. OLIVER BANKER VERITY (175) was born in Pittstown, Rensselaer Co., N. Y., Jan. 8, 1815. He went to Lysander, Onondaga Co., N. Y., with his father in 1831. ## CHAPTER XVI.

THE JOHN BANKER FAMILY OF SCHAGHTICOKE.

193. JOHN BANKER (131) was born Nov. 2, 1794, in Rensselaer county, N. Y., either in Pittstown or near Lansingburg. He married, Nov. 23, 1815, Nancy Bryan, who was born in Schaghticoke, N. Y., Dec. 31, 1794. She was a daughter of David Bryan* and Elizabeth Lounsbury. John Banker was a farmer and lived all his life in Schaghticoke. He bought and sold farms at a time when such property was increasing in value and prospered financially. He finally purchased his father-in-law's farm at what is now East Schaghticoke. This place has passed down to his descendants and has thus remained in the family over 100 years. He was for many years a justice of the peace. Under the old militia system he was cornet in the Third Regiment of Cavalry in 1819, became 2d lieutenant, and finally in 1821 received his commission as captain of a cavalry troop. Many stories are told of his skill as horseman and swordsman. People of the community who knew him have always spoken of him with respect, and the author as a boy recalls hearing men of all classes, and especially the poor whom he had often befriended, speak of his later misfortunes with real sorrow. His wife died Sept. 25, 1863, and hers was the first grave made in the Elmwood Cemetery at Schaghticoke. She was in Rochester, N. Y., on a visit at the time of her death, and on the news being conveyed to her husband he suffered a shock that seemed to affect his mind, and shortly after he had a stroke from which he never recovered. At this time, by what was believed by many to be a conspiracy, he was led into a marriage with Mrs. Ellen M. Houghtaling. His children took the matter before the courts, and while the marriage was declared legal he was adjudged incompetent to care for his property, and his son David was appointed committee for his estate. He died Sept. 13, 1869. Out of the situation grew a series of law suits that continued for over seventeen years, the Court of Appeals finally reversing previous decisions and sending the case back for re-trial. The last decision sustained the contention of the children. Both parties were now exhausted, and, although lawyers have tried once or twice to stir the matter up again, it remains to this day in status quo. All parties directly concerned in this case are now dead. The widow died Jan. 28, 1909, in Albany, N. Y. Mr. Banker's children were all by his first wife and were as follows:

- 194. Elizabeth Bryan, bo. Aug. 2, 1816;
Clarissa, bo. Oct. 12, 1818; d. Oct. 2, 1821;
Eunice, bo. Jan. 27, 1821; d. Sept. 15, 1840;
David Adolph, bo. Jan. 12, 1823;
- 195. Ezra Bryan, bo. Mar. 13, 1825;
- 196. John Wesley, bo. Nov. 21, 1827;
- 197. Isaac Alexander, bo. Aug. 16, 1830;
- 198. Amos Bryan, bo. Nov. 6, 1832;
Harriet Eunice Clarissa, bo. Apr. 25, 1840.

Clarissa was the first person buried in the Schaghticoke Hill graveyard.

Eunice attended for a time Mrs. Seward's school in Rochester, but her health failing she was forced to return home. She collected many keepsakes which she bequeathed to her little baby sister, by whom they have been religiously preserved to this day.

David, who was named after his two grandfathers, never married. He was a farmer and together with his brother Amos Bryan purchased and lived upon his father's farm, the old Bryan homestead at East Schaghticoke. Under the old militia system he received commissions as ensign and lieutenant; he was also elected captain, but the system was abolished before he received his commission. He died Jan. 27, 1903.

Harriet married, Feb. 21, 1866, David Myers, who was born in Schaghticoke, N. Y., Mar. 12, 1835, a son of David Myers and Catharine Baylis. At the time of his marriage Mr. Myers was in partnership with Isaac Gorham in the hardware business, but the store was burned shortly after and he took the position of station-master at East Schaghticoke, to which in time he added a stage route, express business, and a milk business. The last three he conducted until his health failed, when they were managed by his wife until after his death, which occurred June 7, 1899. Shortly after his death his wife sold the business and for a time lived in her home in the village of Schaghticoke. She is now making her home with her nephew at the old homestead. She had one child, Addie Banker, born Nov. 21, 1866, and died of diphtheria Dec. 13, 1875.

Y., but most of his life was spent in Schaghticoke. He was well off, owning village property, and lands in Minnesota and Wisconsin, besides his farm just north of the village of Schaghticoke. He died June 24, 1884. Elizabeth died of pneumonia Apr. 19, 1890. She had four children:

J. Warren, bo. Dec. 17, 1851; d. Jan. 17, 1852;

She was a daughter of Jacob Stover and Catharine Hayner. Her paternal grandmother was a sister of Maria Wetsel, so that she and her husband were second cousins. Bryan succeeded to his father's farm and continued that business, being active, however, in various town enterprises. His wife died of pneumonia Mar. 7, 1894, and he died in February, 1899. He had seven children: Ilai Maude, born Dec. 8, 1879, a professional dressmaker living in Troy, N. Y.; Edith Stover, born Aug. 26, 1881, and died Mar. 31, 1885, of spinal meningitis; Platt Bryan, born Sept. 13, 1883, after his father's death went west to Sycamore, Ill., among friends, and later had a

Mr. Harwood at the time of his marriage was in the insurance business, but afterwards went into the grocery business with his brother-in-law, George Carroll, in Cohoes, N. Y. Jessie died Sept. 13, 1888. Her husband married again, Oct. 8, 1901, Helen Jones, and is now living in Seattle, Washington, where he is engaged in the real estate business. He afterward went to St. Paul, Minn., and there met and married, about 1856, Mrs. Amanda Elizabeth Richardson, née Harville, who was born in Wisconsin Dec. 3, 1835, a daughter of William Harville. She died there Jan. 5, 1880. Her body was brought the long journey back to Schaghticoke by her second son, John, who was then only nineteen years old, and she is buried in her father-in-law's lot in Elmwood Cemetery. The grave is in the southwest corner of the lot and is without a marker. Her removal east was a mistake, but at the time it was not thought that the family would go west. After the death of his wife Ezra sold out his interests at Grant's Hollow and moved to Kansas with his whole

CHAPTER XVII.

THE TIMOTHY BANKER FAMILY.

199. TIMOTHY BANKER (131) was born Jan. 24, 1797, probably in Pittstown, N. Y. He married, about 1818, Mary Ann Snyder, who was born Mar. 17, 1803, in Tomhannock, N. Y., a daughter of Christopher Snyder and Catharine ——* Mr. Banker came into possession of his father's farm near Johnsonville and lived upon it until his death Jan. 12, 1878. His wife died three months later, Apr. 14, 1878. He had six children:

- 200. George Washington, bo. Oct. 30, 1820;
- 201. Maria, bo. June 15, 1822;
- 202. Christopher Adolphus, bo. June 25, 1824;
Timothy Snyder, bo. Oct. 22, 1826;

Mary Ann, bo. Nov. 11, 1837.

Timothy became a lawyer and was district attorney for Rensselaer county at the time of his death. He was killed by the accidental discharge of his gun while hunting, Nov. 15, 1871. He left a widow, Julia A. Lord, who died in Brunswick, N. Y., Aug. 22, 1900. He had no children.

Mary married Samuel Collins. Her husband has died, but she is living. She owns property in Florida where she usually spends the winter and returns north for the summer. She has two sons, George and Timothy. George has been married twice and lives in Kansas City, Kan., where he is engaged in the insurance business.

* I have been told that Mrs. Snyder's maiden name was Hermon, but not with certainty. After the death of her husband she married a Walbridge of Lansingburgh. She lived to be very old and got the name of a witch among some superstitious people. It was said that some one trying to churn had trouble in getting the butter. Believing it to be bewitched she heated a poker red hot and thrust it into the churn to burn the witch and it was claimed that the mark of the hot poker was found on Mrs. Walbridge. The story shows how little we are removed from the age of absurd superstition.

200. GEORGE WASHINGTON BANKER (199) was born at Johnsonville, N. Y., Oct. 30, 1820. He married, June 25, 1862, Harriet Jane Comstock, who was born in Johnsonville May 18, 1827, a daughter of John Comstock and Sarah Stover. Mr. Banker was a farmer and lived for many years on the old Banker farm at Johnsonville. He was a member of the New York State Assembly in the session of 1864. He died May 26, 1882.* His widow was still living in Johnsonville in 1902. After his death the farm was sold and finally passed out of the family. He had three children as follows:

Sarah Alma, bo. Dec. 5, 1863;

George, bo. Nov. 1, 1866; d. Oct. 1, 1867;

Timothy Stover, bo. May 19, 1868.

Sarah married George Pratt, an engineer on the Greenwich and Johnsonville Railroad. She had one child, Leon, born May 1, 1892 or 1893, who lived only four and a half months. She died two days after the child was born. Her husband is still living.

Timothy married, in May, 1899, Emily Waldron and lives in Albany, N. Y. He is an engineer on the New York Central Railroad. He has one child, but I could get no further information.

Mr. Catlin and his family live at 98 Grand St., Troy, N. Y., and he is in the asphalt roofing business. Mary has one son, Freddie, born Apr. 26, 1873.

CHAPTER XVIII.

THE L'AMOREAUX FAMILY.

204. ELIZABETH BANKER (126) was born Sept. 19, 1759,* probably near Fishkill, Dutchess Co., N. Y. According to her father's will, she and her younger sister were "put out to Christian people" to be brought up and cared for, she being then about 13 years old. She lived for a time near Hopewell, Dutchess Co., N. Y., where she had a son by Thomas Wright. Later, about 1784-1787, she married Peter L'Amoreaux, who was born July 12, 1761. After this marriage she removed to Rensselaer county, where her husband and his brother Jesse bought a farm in Pittstown, near Valley Falls. Later Peter and his wife removed to Wayne county, N. Y., and settled on a farm near Rose. He died in Galen, N. Y., Dec. 22, 1850. Elizabeth died before her husband and probably before Nov. 17, 1847, as Peter does not mention her in his will of that date, but she was living in 1841. She had one child by Thomas Wright:

Daniel, bo. Aug. 23, 1782;†

By Peter L'Amoreaux she had:

John, bo. Oct. 9, 1787;‡

205. Jesse, bo. Nov. 1, 1790;

206. Catharine, bo. Dec. 1, 1793;

Joel, bo. Jan. 15, 1797;

Elizabeth, bo. June 10, 1800;

Phoebe, bo. June 1, 1802;

Jane, bo. Mar. 24, 1806.

Daniel Wright was living in Rose, Wayne Co., N. Y., in 1845, and he is mentioned in his step-father's will, but no further trace was found of him.

John settled on a farm in Butler, Wayne Co., N. Y., where he appears to have died between June 19, 1860, and Mar. 11, 1861, leaving a widow, Martha, and the following children:

James, who was then living in Peekskill, N. Y.; Sarah, who had married George R. Failing and was living in Arcadia, now Newark, N. Y.; Eliza, the wife of James Persons, living in Josco, Livingston Co., Mich.; Peter, who was living in Manchester, Washtenaw Co., Mich.; Thomas, who was living in Josco, Mich.; Mary, who had married Albert Persons and was living in Maitland, Canada West; Joseph, who remained in Butler; and Jane, who also lived in Butler and had married Ransom Loveless. According to her father's will, Jane received her share of her father's property in trust, to have the annual interest as long as she lived, but in case she outlived her husband she was to have the principal.

Joel lived in Rose, Wayne Co., N. Y., in 1845. He is said to have married and to have had at least two children, but I have found no trace of his family.

Elizabeth married Frederick Tanner and moved west. They were living in Granville, Putnam Co., Ill., about 1850. It is said that she died near Rock City, Stephenson Co., Ill., leaving at least one son, LaFayette, and that after her death the family went to Michigan. All further trace of them is lost.

Phoebe married Daniel Silliman in Pittstown, N. Y., but soon after moved to Wayne county, N. Y., and in 1850 was living in Wolcott. She is said to have had at least one daughter, Catharine, who married Wellington Olmstead before 1847. Nothing more is known of the family.

Jane married Zachariah Esmond, a brother of Charity, who married her brother Jesse. They lived in Pittstown for a time, but finally moved to Wilton, Saratoga Co., N. Y. She died before 1847. She had at least four children; Jesse, Phoebe Jane, Catharine, and John. Phoebe appears to have married Morgan Williams and Catharine married James D. Stiles. Both were living in Wilton in 1850. Jesse and John were living in Wolcott, Wayne Co., at that date, John being under 21 years of age. No further information of the family could be obtained.

Little information could be obtained of the descendants of Peter L'Amoreaux except in the two lines of Jesse and Catharine.

Jesse S. married, June 8, 1865, Ellen S. Holbrook. He took up the practice of law, in which he has been very successful, and was elected county judge of Saratoga county in 1882. He lives in Ballston Springs and also maintains his practice in New York City. He has no children.

CHAPTER XIX.

THE JACOB BANCKER FAMILY.

213. JACOB BANCKER (1) lived at Philipsburg, but no record of his baptism was found. He was sponsor on several occasions at the baptism of grandchildren of Laurens Bancker, and members of Laurens's family were frequently sponsors at the baptism of his children. It seems entirely probable, therefore, that he was a son of Laurens, but in what order his name should be placed can only be guessed by the date of his marriage, which would indicate that he was not the youngest. He married, Mar. 15, 1723-4, Rachel Montros, who was born in 1704, a daughter of Herman and Grietje Montros. His wife was living as late as 1739. It is not known when Jacob died. He had at least five children as follows:

Johannis, bp. Sept. 5, 1724; probably died young;

Jacobus, bp. June 24, 1727;

214. Petrus, bp. Apr. 11, 1730;

Johannis, bp. Oct. 15, 1732;

Aaltje, bp. Oct. 22, 1734.

The lines of descent from these children are somewhat uncertain. I am disposed to think that two of the boys, presumably Jacob and John, had each a son named Peter, that one of these Peters married Martha Maby in the Presbyterian Church of Yorktown, N. Y., Feb. 28, 1788, and became the father of Jeremiah Banker,* and that the other Peter was the one described here as No. 218. My reasons for this view are wholly circumstantial and are based on a variety of considerations that would hardly be profitable to discuss since it must be admitted finally that my view is only a well-considered guess.

214. PETER BANCKER† (213) was baptized at Sleepy Hollow, Apr. 11, 1730. He seems to have married Effie Boeckhout, who had a brother Abraham. She was, therefore, undoubtedly the daughter of Matthias Boeckhout and was born Sept. 3, 1739.* Peter died before February, 1786. At this date his widow was living in New York and is described as insane. He had children at least:

- 215. Jacob;
John;
Abraham, bo. Dec. 5, 1756;
Isaak, bp. Apr. 25, 1758.

Nothing more is known of John, Abraham, and Isaac except that John was a farmer in Cortlandt Manor in 1786.

215. JACOB BANKER (214) was the eldest son of Peter Bancker above and must have been born about 1750 to 1752. I, therefore, identify him with a Jacob Banker who at one time lived in Carmel, N. Y., and who is said to have been born in Westchester county and to have been the son of a Peter Banker. As the latter Jacob had a son born in 1779 and probably an older son it seems likely that he was the Jacob indicated above. At least we know of no other to whom he can be referred. He was still living in 1814, but nothing further is known of him. He had seven children as follows:

- Jacob, died about 1814 over 21 years old;
- 216. Jonathan Austin, bo. Sept. 9, 1779;
Isaac;
Hiram S.;
- 217. Job Austin, bo. Apr. 27, 1798;
Ann;
Margaret.

Isaac, whose wife's name was Hannah, died at the age of 93 years in Burdett, Schuyler Co., N. Y., where he had a son James M., living in 1903. Nothing further could be learned of the family.

Hiram died without issue in Montours Falls, Schuyler Co., N. Y., His wife's name was Jane.

Ann married Ralph Smith and was living in Lodi, Seneca Co., in 1903.

* See page 49.

Margaret married a Bailey and was living in Plymouth, Marshall Co., Ind., in 1903.

Nothing further could be learned of these.

216. JONATHAN AUSTIN BANKER (215) was born in Carmel, Putnam Co., N. Y., Sept. 9, 1779. He was a farmer and lived for a time at Hector, Schuyler Co., N. Y., then removed to Dix, Oneida Co., and finally returned to Montours Falls, Schuyler Co., where he died Nov. 22, 1870. He married, July 31, 1825, Sarah Pierce, who was born Dec. 21, 1801, and died May 27, 1846. He had the two following children:

Isaac, bo. Sept. 2, 1826;

Martin Bailey, bo. Apr. 4, 1841.

Isaac lives in Ridgetown, Ontario, Canada.

Martin is a farmer and was living at Moreland, Schuyler Co., N. Y., in 1903. He married, Apr. 3, 1861, Fanny J. Rau, a daughter of Daniel and Jane Rau. She was born Oct. 6, 1842. They have four children: Charles S., born Dec. 3, 1864; Daniel, born Apr. 3, 1873; Benjamin P., born June 1, 1880; and Fred Payne, born Mar. 13, 1888. Charles graduated from Oberlin College in 1892. He is married and lives in Pittsburg, Pa. Nothing further is known of the others.

217. JOB AUSTIN BANKER (215) was born Apr. 27, 1798, probably in Putnam county, N. Y. He settled in Ovid, Seneca Co., before 1820 and became a farmer and a miller. He was married three times. It is not known who his first wife was. His second wife was Margaret Smith, who was born June 5, 1803, and died Nov 2, 1840. He then married, about 1842, Mary Ann Ketcham, who was born Dec. 16, 1814, and died in April, 1873. Her mother was Sarah Shaw, but her father's given name is not known. Job A. died at Ovid, N. Y., Apr. 19, 1858. He had fourteen children. By his first wife he had:

Lockard.

By his second wife he had:

Peter S., bo. Aug. 21, 1829;

Hannah, bo. Mar. 14, 1831;

James, bo. Apr. 1, 1833; d. Dec. 9, 1844;

Jane, bo. Sept. 15, 1834;

Archelaus, bo. Aug. 19, 1836;

Margaret, bo. Nov. 27, 1838;

Ann Eliza, bo. Nov. 2, 1840.

By his third wife he had:

Austin, bo. June 28, 1843;

Albert, bo. May 1, 1845;

John DeMotte, bo. Mar. 23, 1847;

Alice, bo. Feb. 23, 1849; d. Dec. 21, 1889;

Sarah F., bo. May 15, 1851;

Mary Ella, bo. June 2, 1853; d. June 30, 1877, unmar.

Lockard is dead, but no particulars are known about him.

Peter married Therisa ——— and was living in Ovid, N. Y., in 1903.

Hannah married George W. Jones*, and Jane married Lewis Jones. Both live in Ovid.

Archelaus married Susan ———. He died in 1901. He seems to have had one daughter, Clara, who died before 1903, at which date his widow was still living.

Margaret's name is given as "Margaret B. Jones-Purdy."

Ann married an Everts and lives in Burdett, Schuyler Co., N. Y.

Austin married Anna ——— and was living in Hastings, Neb., the last known of him in 1895.

Albert was living in Ovid in 1903, but no particulars are known of him.

John D. has always lived in Ovid, N. Y., where he is engaged in fruit growing. He married, Feb. 1, 1871, Elizabeth Belinda Losey, who was born Sept. 29, 1851, a daughter of William B. Losey and Clarinda Smith. He has four children: Edith W., born July 24, 1875; Charles L., born Mar. 5, 1878; Abbie L., born May 4, 1881; and Helen J., born Oct. 13, 1892.

Alice appears to have married a Covert as she is called Alice Covert in 1873. Nothing further is known of her.

Sarah married L. P. Lewis and lives in Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

218. PETER BANKER ( ) lived in the vicinity of Philipsburg, but it is difficult to decide with certainty whose son he was. It seems to me that he was undoubtedly a grandson of 213 Jacob, but which of the latter's sons was his father I cannot decide. Still I must admit that this is only a guess. The following, however, appear to be clearly ascertained facts concerning him.

He lived all his life near Philipsburg, where he purchased a farm of 149 acres for $223.50 from the Commissioners of Forfeitures, Apr. 20, 1782. This farm was a part of the estate of Roger Morris and wife, which was confiscated by the state of New York under act of attainder of October, 1779. Banker's farm was in "Lot No. 5 of Philipse Patent."* Peter died in April or May, 1812. In his will he mentions his wife Patty, a son Benajah whom he appoints as executor, and "small children" not named. He speaks of himself as Peter, Sr. S. W. Phoenix in his history of the "Whitney Family of Connecticut," informs us that his wife's name was Patty Wright and that they had a son Peter. From these and other sources it appears then that he had at least five children as follows:

Benajah;

219. Peter, bo. Sept. 25, 1794;

Levi;

John;

224. Esle, bo. Feb. 14, 1801.

Benajah, who must have been the eldest of the family seems to have married someone by the name of Charlotte and to have moved to Auburn, N. Y., where he owned property from 1830 to 1836. No further trace of him was found.

Levi went "west," but no further trace of him was found except possibly the fact that an Ebenezer and a Levi Banker sold property in Owaseo, near Auburn, N. Y., in 1833 may indicate that these were brothers of Benajah.

John married Ann Williams, who died about 1877. He kept a shop for many years in Washington Market, New York City. He had at least seven children: William Henry Harrison, who married Rose ——— and kept a stall in Washington Market* until his death; Hezekiah; Levi; John; Sarah Jane, who married a Ham; Martha Ann, who married a Dickson; and Evelyn, who married George Owens. All of these are dead and nothing further was learned concerning their families.

* Henry Livingston says of this lot in 1819: "The northern part of this Lot and that which lies in the town of Kent is mountainous and rocky. Some of the valleys are excellent meadows and where the soil can be come at is good. But these estimable portions bear but a small proportion to the more rugged parts. The southern division of this tract and which is in the town of Carmel is hilly but cannot be deemed mountainous. Here extensive and excellent meadows everywhere meet the eye and tillage is well attended to. The soil, however, is generally stony, very little wheat is grown on this lot. Rye forms the bread of a very large majority. Their exports are rye, Indian corn, buckwheat, beef, pork, butter, and cheese. The whole of this lot is well watered by ponds and small streams. The buildings on this lot are generally below mediocrity. Many, however, are comfortable. The day for elegance has not arrived."

219. PETER BANKER† (218) was born at Carmel, N. Y., Sept. 25, 1794. He married at Yorktown, N. Y., Jan. 13, 1819, Anna Whitney, who was born at Yorktown, Apr. 5, 1793, a daughter of Abijah Whitney and Melicent Hyatt. She was a descendant from Henry Whitney, who was born in England about 1620. Peter was a farmer and he settled at Putnam Valley, N. Y., where his wife died Apr. 26, 1876. His will was admitted to probate Nov. 9, 1885. He had six children as follows:

- 220. Lewis, bo. Mar. 23, 1820;
Amanda, bo. Feb. 25, 1823;
- 221. John Ferguson, bo. Apr. 6, 1825;
Melicent Ann, bo. Jan. 22, 1828;
- 222. Harrison, bo. Jan. 4, 1832;
- 223. Gilbert Whitney, bo. Sept. 16, 1837.

Amanda married Gould Dorsey Tompkins, a son of Nathaniel Tompkins and Mary Cole. Her husband was a farmer and they lived at Putnam Valley. He is dead, but Amanda was living in 1902. She had one child, Theodore, who is married and lives in Danbury, Conn.

PART II.

PREFACE.

In the first part of this work have been given the history and records of those believed to be undoubtedly the descendants of Laurens Bancker. This second part contains the records and history of Gerrit Bancker and his descendants so far as they have come into the author's hands.

Undoubtedly much more material could be gathered concerning this family with a little systematic effort, but the writer has naturally been chiefly interested in recovering the records of the Laurens Bancker family. In this work, however, so much material was constantly falling into his hands pertaining to the Gerrit Bancker family that he seriously contemplated making a thorough search sometime with a view of completing the records of this family. With this purpose in mind, all material that chanced in his way was carefully preserved and, with the genealogist's enthusiasm, many clews were followed up more or less extensively. When the necessity of abandoning the more exhaustive plan was forced upon him it seemed best to publish in the present work such material as had been accumulated. It may be of some value to the members of the family.

During the publication of this genealogy several members of the family have shown so much interest and have so generously co-operated to make the work a success that it has given the writer a keen feeling of regret that he has not felt able to pursue his investigations further. He can only add that whatever material may be intrusted to him hereafter will be carefully edited and preserved and eventually deposited where it may be accessible to some future historian of the family.

CHAPTER XX.

GERRIT BANCKER.

300. GERRIT BANCKER was the emigrant ancestor of a large and important family of Banckers or Bankers in this country. He was born in Holland, but nothing positive is known of him until his arrival in New Amsterdam. In 1698 there was a William Bancker living in Amsterdam, Holland, who, Pearson asserts, was a brother of Gerrit. It seems to be certain, however, that this was his son.* According to Pearson, Gerrit arrived in this country before 1655 and two years after that date he was living in Beverwyck, now Albany, where he became an Indian trader and merchant. He resided here the rest of his life and had his home on the south side of what is now State Street, a little east of Pearl.

He married, Apr. 10, 1658, Elizabeth Dirkse Van Eps, a daughter of Dirk Van Eps and Maritie Damiens. Valentine relates an incident which he says occurred at their wedding.† The event was a notable incident in the life of the wilderness town of Albany and the guests gathered from miles around for a scene of great festivity. One unfortunate youth named Cryn Cornelison was conveying a large double sleigh load of guests across the Hudson on the ice, when the ice gave way and the whole party were immersed in the river. The girls were rescued by the gallant exertions of the young men, but the horses were carried under the ice and drowned. The young people were in a very serious condition when they reached the place of the wedding. According to Valentine, this wedding occurred in the spring of 1643. This seems improbable when compared with the dates of the births of their children. The date of marriage which I have given above is from the "Bancker Genealogy" by Adrian Bancker. If Elizabeth was seventy years old at the time of her death, as Valentine states, she would have been about twenty in 1643 and about thirty-four in 1658. Under the social conditions that prevailed in the new colony, neither maidens nor widows remained long in a single state. This is a conspicuous fact. It seems to me, therefore, possible that Elizabeth was married twice, the second time to Gerrit Bancker, and that Valentine has confused the two events. Moreover he calls her "Elizabeth Van Es (Van Ness), a daughter of Cornelius Hendricksen Van Es." I do not know his authority for his statements, but in the Albany County Records is to be found a minute which states that there came before the commissaries of Albany "the honorable Cornelis Van Nes and Margaret Damen, last widow of Hendrick Andriesse, deceased, now his wife dwelling here in Albany, who declare that they have appointed and fully empowered by these presents, Lysbet Direkse Van Eps, daughter of said Maritie Damen, and wife of Gerrit Bancker, proposing to return to Holland," to transact certain business for them. This confirms Pearson's account which states that Maritie Damen married first Direk Van Eps and by him had two children, Jan Direkse Van Eps, one of the first settlers of Schenectady, and Lysbet, who married Gerrit Bancker. Maritie married second Hendrick Andriesse Van Doesburgh, by whom she had a daughter, Jannetie, who married Martin Cregier, Jr.; finally she married Cornelius Van Nes. Maritie Damen was undoubtedly well off. She owned a house and lands in Niskayuna and also real estate in Albany. In the document above quoted from she empowers her daughter to collect in Holland a loan of 3,500 guilders with accrued interest and to reinvest the same at the comptoir general in Holland.

Gerrit Bancker was very prosperous as a merchant in Albany and accumulated considerable property both personal and real. He owned a house and lot in Esopus in 1664, where he seems to have lived for a time, as the court records state that he had left the village, and his house was rented for taxes by the court. He was one of the fifteen original proprietors of Schenectady in 1662, and besides owning farm lands had for his village lot the "northerly quarter of the block bounded by Washington, Union, Church, and State Streets," as the city is now laid out. He probably never lived here and his son Evert finally sold the property in 1702 to Isaac Swits. From 1657 to 1684 his name appears frequently in conveyances and other business transactions that show him to have been an active, enterprising man. He died between Nov. 25, 1690, and May 7, 1691.* According to his will his wife was made heir of all his property "whether situated in Albany, in Schenectady, in New York, in England, in Holland, or at Sea." This would imply that he had considerable property widely scattered.

Elizabeth, his wife, was evidently a highly capable woman, as would appear from the power of attorney given her by her mother and her second step-father. The journey which she seems to have taken back to Holland in 1668 was by no means a summer recreation at that day. A curious item is to be found in the Fort Orange records for August 25, 1660. A complaint is recorded against "Hendrick Andriessen for assault and battery on Lysbet, wife of Gerrit Bancker." Hendrick was undoubtedly her first step-father. After her husband's death she removed to New York and set up in business. She died soon after, on July 3, 1693, leaving a large amount of property, which went chiefly to her son, Evert. The inventory of her property shows that she owned real estate in Schenectady, Albany, Catskill, and New York; while her personal property consisted of a large amount of store goods, a share in a brigantine, a large quantity of furs of considerable variety, a negro boy, Toby, several belts of wampum, a number of pieces of silver plate, five gold rings, two of which were set with stones, several bibles and a number of religious books.

William, bo. Feb. 23, 1661;

301. Evert, bo. Feb. 24, 1663;

* Pearson says before Feb. 27.

† The dates here recorded are as given in the "Bancker Genealogy," by Adrian Bancker in 1838. The date of Evert's birth is given by his own son, Adrian, as Jan. 24, 1665. (See page 278.) As the latter date is from a record written by one so intimately related to Evert and is nearly a hundred years older than the "Bancker Genealogy," and as the latter is known to contain a number of errors, we may rightfully assume that the date, Jan. 24, 1665, is more nearly correct for Evert's birth. As we have no other record that I know of for the dates of the other children, for the sake of consistency I have followed the "Bancker Genealogy" throughout the list.

- Richard, bo. Dec. 23, 1666;

Maria, bo. Apr. 1, 1675;
Gerardus, bo. Aug. 1, 1677;
John, bo. Sept. 3, 1682.

William married Isabelle Winterswijk, of Amsterdam, Holland. He appears to have been living in Holland in 1700.* According to the "Bancker Genealogy" he had at least one daughter, Catharine, born Feb. 5, 1693. She married Peter Vandermater and had five children: Peter, born Aug. 10, 1711, and married Judith Holthuyzer; Clasiena, born Feb. 13, 1715, and married Peter Jaggar; William, born March 2, 1717, and died without issue; Jacob; born Dec. 17, 1723; and Adriana Margareta, born Aug. 18, 1726, and married P. Van Den. The family was traced no further. They possibly lived in Holland.

Richard is said to have died without issue. He was living in New York City as late as 1692, but no further trace of him was found.

Maria married, Sept. 20, 1694, Cornelius De Peyster, who was born in New York and baptized Oct. 4, 1673. He was the youngest son of Johannes De Peyster and Cornelia Lubberts, and hence a brother of Johannes De Peyster, who married Maria's sister Anna.† Maria died sometime after Feb., 1710, and Cornelius married, July 21, 1711, Cornelia Dishington, by whom he is said to have had five daughters, one of whom was Catharine, bapt. Jan. 23, 1712. Maria had seven children as follows: Cornelia, born July 10, 1695; John, born May 30, 1697; Elizabeth, born Nov. 5, 1699; Maria, born Nov. 12, 1701; Maria, born Apr. 3, 1704; Anna, born Apr. 6, 1707; and Catharine, born Feb. 12, 1710. All of these children died in infancy.

Gerardus, also called Gerrit, died intestate in 1702, and his brother, Evert, was appointed administrator of his estate. He appears to have had no issue.

* Pearson speaks of this William Bancker in Amsterdam as a brother of Gerrit, but in the correspondence relative to the call of Domine Barnardus Freeman to the church at Albany it appears that he was a brother of Evert. The call was actually given through William Bancker of Amsterdam, and in one of the papers appears this sentence, "Our fellow brother, Evert Bancker, has shown us certain writings of his brother Bancker of Amsterdam." This seems to prove that William Bancker of Amsterdam was the son of Gerrit and not his brother.

† See page 297.

John was living in New York as late as 1717. He is said to have died without issue.

A Sibilla Bancker is mentioned as a sponsor of one of Evert's children in 1700. It is difficult to conceive who she was unless she was a sister of Evert. If the name is intended for Isabella she may have been the wife of William, but at this date William was in Holland.

CHAPTER XXI.

THE EVERT BANCKER FAMILY.

301. EVERT BANCKER (300) was born in Albany, N. Y., Jan. 24, 1665.* He married, Sept. 24, 1686, Elizabeth Abeel, who was born Mar. 23, 1671, a daughter of Stoffel Janse Abeel.† Evert inherited most of his father's property as well as his mother's. He lived in Albany nearly all his life. He was a merchant, Indian trader, and a man of affairs like his father. He held many positions of prominence and influence. As an Indian trader and merchant he became thoroughly acquainted with both the Indians and the country. As early as 1685 we find him obtaining a pass for himself and comrade to Canada with a request to the Canadian officers to allow them to pass and repass. In 1692 he furnished part of the supplies for the Fusiliers, in King William's War. The same year he was made justice of the peace. In 1695 he was appointed mayor of Albany by the Common Council, being the third incumbent of that office. Soon after this in company with Domine Godfrey Dellijs, pastor of the Dutch Reformed Church at Albany, and others, Indian commissioners, he obtained from Col. Fletcher, the governor of the province, an extraordinary grant of land. The grant bore date July 30, 1697, and was for a tract of land on the Mohawk River beginning at a place called Owehdiere and extending up the river some fifty miles to a place called Arach Schone‡ and was to be four miles wide, two miles on each side of the river. For this immense tract they were to pay a reserved rent of one beaver skin a year for seven years and after that five beaver skins yearly forever after. Governor Fletcher made several

† According to Pearson, Stoffel Janse Abeel was a master carpenter and was living in Beverwyck (Albany) in 1653. He was born about 1623 and married Neeltje Janse Croon. He made his will Dec. 4, 1670, in which he mentions the following children: Magdalena, aged 17, and already married; Maria, aged fourteen; Johannes, aged eleven; and Elizabeth.

‡ In the petition the boundaries are given as "on the Skenectady river, two miles on every side from a place called Orakkie to another place called Onnawadage."

other similar extravagant land grants. In fact, the whole matter of land grants had fallen into great abuse. In 1699, the Assembly passed an Act annulling several of these extravagant grants including the one above mentioned.

In 1696, Evert was appointed one of the commissioners of Indian Affairs and held the office at various times until his death. His reports concerning the condition of the Indians will be found in New York Colonial Documents Vol. 4. As an Indian trader this position was of great pecuniary advantage to him. He was elected representative from Albany in the ninth Colonial Assembly and served from Oct. 20, 1702, to Nov. 6, 1704. He was appointed a master of the colonial Court of Chancery in 1705. In 1707, he was elected alderman from the first ward of Albany, but immediately after was appointed mayor of the city by Lord Cornbury, this being his second appointment to that office. In 1711 he was one of the managers of the expedition against Canada in Queen Anne's War. His reports and correspondence in connection with this expedition are to be found among the Albany manuscripts. In 1723 or 1726 he was resident commissioner among the Seneca Indians and in 1724 or 1727 he was commandant of the fort at Oswego with the commission of captain.

Evert was also a prominent member of the Dutch Reformed Church. He was a deacon in 1693 and again in 1700. In 1703 he was one of those mentioned as furnishing materials or labor for the "domine's house."

Near the end of his life he retired to his farm in Guilderland, where he died. He was buried in Albany July 10, 1734. His wife was buried Mar. 20, 1734. He made his will Mar. 30, 1734, leaving his property to his children and giving to his son Johannes £50 "provided he continues to live with me till my decease or till I dispose of my farm where I now live."<sup>1</sup> He had thirteen children as follows:

- Gerardus, bo. Feb. 11, 1688; died young;
- Neeltie, bo. Mar. 1, 1689; d. Sept. 23, 1712;
- Gerardus, bo. June 12, 1691; d. Nov. 1, 1705;
- 302. Elizabeth, bo. July 29, 1693;
- 304. Christoffel, bo. Oct. 27, 1695;
- Anna, bo. Oct. 3, 1697; d. Oct. 2, 1706;

- 326. Willem, bo. Oct. 28, 1699;
Jannetie, bo. Aug. 28, 1701;
- 335. Adrianus, bo. Oct. 10, 1703;
- 343. Gerardus, bo. Apr. 1, 1706;
Anna, bo. June 12, 1708; d. May 30, 1709;
Johannes, bo. Mar. 15, 1710; d. Apr. 30, 1710;
- 346. Johannes, bo. Feb. 20, 1712.

Jannetie married in Albany, Dec. 1, 1722, Hermanus Schuyler, a son of David Schuyler and Elsie Rutgers. They removed to New York City, where he was admitted freeman in 1728. Jannetie had seven children as follows: a girl who died before she was baptized; David, bapt. Feb. 7, 1725, and married Ann Hooglandt; Evert, bapt. Aug. 28, 1726, and died without issue; a pair of twins, bapt. Sept. 25, 1728, Hermanus, who married Eve Vredenburgh and Elizabeth, who married first Aaron King and second Isaac Perdon; Christoffel, bapt. Oct. 14, 1730; and Elsie, bapt. Aug. 22, 1736, and married Reynier Skates. The first two of Jannetie's children were baptized in Albany, the rest in New York. This family was not traced further, although it would probably not be difficult to obtain much more material.

302. ELIZABETH BANCKER (301) was born in Albany July 29, 1693. She married, Oct. 27, 1715, Gerrit Lansing, a son of Johannes Gerrit Lansing and Geertje Van Schaick. Gerrit was buried Jan. 26, 1736. Elizabeth had five children as follows:

- Neeltje, bp. Nov. 4, 1716; died young;
- Neeltje, bp. Apr. 11, 1718;
- 303. Geertruy, bp. Dec. 26, 1719;
- Johannes, bp. Oct. 9, 1724;
- Johannes, bp. Apr. 24, 1726.

Neeltje married Tobias Stoutenburgh and had a family.
Johannes married Sarah Solmatier and had a family.

303. GEERTRUY LANSING (302) was baptized in Albany Dec. 26, 1719. She married Lucas Witbeck, who was born Feb. 26, 1724, a son of Thomas Witbeck. She had seven children:

- Elizabeth, bp. Nov. 16, 1746; died young;
- Elizabeth, bp. Jan. 24, 1748;
- Gerrit,        }
- Thomas,        } bp. Mar. 18, 1750;

Abraham, bp. Feb. 11, 1753;

Samuel;

Johannes, bo. Feb. 5, 1760.

Nothing further was found of Elizabeth, Thomas, or Abraham.

Gerrit married, May 29, 1774, Immetje Perry and had at least three children: John Perry, born Mar. 10, 1775; Lucas, born June 23, 1778; and Antje, born Jan. 28, 1781. The family was traced no further.

Samuel appears to have married Rebecca Buys or Buis and had at least two children: Geertruy, born Apr. 22, 1778; and Christina, born Mar. 22, 1780.

Johannes is thought to have married Lena Van Den Bergh and had at least one child, Geertruy, born Nov. 19, 1786.

The descendants of Elizabeth Bancker have been traced no further.

304. CHRISTOPHER BANCKER (301) was born in Albany, N. Y., Oct. 27, 1695. He removed to New York City and there married, Oct. 16, 1719, Elizabeth Hooglandt, a daughter of Adrian Hooglandt* and Anna Byvanck. He was a merchant and a man of considerable prominence. He was a candidate for the office of alderman from the North Ward in 1737, and, although elected, his opponent, Johannes Burger, demanded a scrutiny of the election. The following item from the New York Gazette of Aug. 21, 1738, is of interest: "Last Saturday night three negro men got a canoe to go into the country and be merry with some others on Sunday, and going through Hell Gate they were sucked into the Pot or Whirlpool, the canoe drawn in and Alderman Banker's negro (The Fiddler) drowned, the other two saved themselves by swimming to the shore." He held the office of alderman continuously until 1742 and was again elected in 1755. In 1739, he and Hendrick Rutgers† with others were owners of the Privateer Stephen and Elizabeth. In 1755 and 1756, he was one of the commissioners of fortifications in New York. He made his will Feb. 22, 1752, in which he mentions his son Evert as the eldest and four others; Adrian, Richard, Christopher, and William. Christopher, however, died about a year before his father. The will was probated May 26, 1763.

Christopher's father-in-law, Lieut Adrian Hooglandt, was one of the patentees of Kayaderosseras Patent in what is now Saratoga county. This was an immense tract of about seven hundred thousand acres, the original title to which was obtained by misrepresentation. Nearly sixty years after, the heirs of the original proprietors were constrained to relinquish a part of their claim to the Mohawk Indians and to pay an indemnity in order to secure a clear title to the remainder. The two patentee rights of Adrian and Joris Hooglandt were divided between the three families of Bancker, Renaudet, and Rutgers. After Christopher's death the Bancker portion was again divided, Nov. 22, 1771, to the four brothers; Evert, Adrian, Richard, and William, sons of Christopher. Christopher and his wife also inherited from her father a large interest in the Wawayanda Patent in Orange county. Christopher had at least nine children as follows:

- Adrian, bo. June 28, 1720; died young;
- 305. Evert, bo. May 29, 1721;
- 309. Adriaan, bo. July 25, 1724;
- Christoffel, bo. Feb. 3, 1726; d. June 22, 1727;
- Dirk (Richard), bo. July 15, 1728;
- Elizabeth, bo. Oct. 9, 1730; d. Aug. 31, 1731;
- Christoffel, bo. June 6, 1732;
- Anna, bo. Oct. 27, 1734; d. without issue;
- 325. Willem, bo. Jan. 8, 1736.

Richard married Sara Duyckinck. He was a merchant of New York City and together with John Thurman in 1756 owned two or more armed sloops, the Blakeney and the Wheel of Fortune. He was buried Apr. 19, 1775, and his wife was buried Mar. 3, 1785. He seems to have had only one child, Elizabeth, bapt. Feb. 8, 1758. Nothing further is known of her.

Christopher married Anna Richardson.* He was a merchant of New York and made his will Jan. 20, 1756. It was probated Jan. 27, 1762. He appears to have left no children. After his death his widow married, Sept. 17, 1764, Robert Leake, commissary-general of the British forces in North America.

Clute in his "History of Staten Island" says that Adrian had a brother Gerard, also living on the island. I have found no other reference to a Gerard in this family, and as Christopher does not mention such a son in his will I doubt if Clute is correct.

305. EVERT BANCKER (304) was born in New York May 29, 1721, and was baptized in the Dutch Reformed Church June 4. He married, Apr. 14, 1747, Elizabeth Boelen, a daughter of Abraham Boelen and Elizabeth De Peyster.* Hence Evert and his wife were second cousins. He was a merchant and man of affairs in New York City and had his dwelling in Wall Street. It is said to have been near where the Bank of America now stands. During the Revolution, owing to the scarcity of lead in the colonies, 423 pounds of sash leads were removed from his house by order of the Convention for public use.

Evert does not appear to have attained to any prominence until after the death of his father, but about that time we find him associated in a mercantile business with Gerard Bancker,† probably his cousin. From 1769 until the opening of the Revolution the firm of Evert and Gerard Bancker, merchants, furnished a large part of the supplies and necessities for his Majesty's troops and much of the time held the position of barrack-masters for New York City. With the beginning of the Revolution, Evert comes into greater prominence. He was chosen one of the Committee of One Hundred which was organized by the People of New York Colony, May 1, 1775, as a Provisional War Committee or Committee of Resistance. This was the response of New York to the news of Lexington.

Evert was elected a deputy to the second, third, and fourth Provincial Congresses of New York, that is, to all but the first. His first election to the second Congress occurred Feb. 20, 1776, at a special election held to fill vacancies, so that he did not take his place in the Congress until near its close. The Provincial Congress was the Revolutionary Assembly of the Colony, succeeding in authority the Colonial Assembly. The fourth Congress reorganized the colony under a new constitution, and New York became a State of the Union. The fourth Provincial Congress, which adjourned May 13, 1777, was succeeded under the new constitution by the state Assembly. Evert was immediately elected member of the new Assembly. He served continuously throughout the first eleven sessions of this body with the exception of the seventh and eighth sessions, or from Sept. 1, 1777, to March 29, 1788. He was speaker of the Assembly from the third to the sixth sessions inclusive, that is, from Aug. 18, 1779, to Mar. 23, 1783. His service as a legislator and speaker of the Assembly thus practically covered the whole period of the Revolution. He was one of a special committee of twelve appointed by the Committee of Safety for the State of New York Oct. 19, 1776. This committee was to co-operate with Major-general Schuyler in repelling the enemy from the northern and western frontiers of the state. The committee was active and held a number of important meetings, but Evert appears to have been present only at the first, Oct. 24, 1776. He was also a member of the second Council of Safety which held its sessions from Oct. 8, 1777, to Jan. 7, 1778, and for this latter service of ninety-five days he received £95.

After the close of the war he seems to have lived a retired life. He sold off at various times his interests in the Kayada-rosseras Patent, and finally conveyed his remaining claims to his son Abraham B. Bancer, of Kingston, N. Y., Nov. 5, 1800. Evert died in Kingston, probably at the home of his son, Jan. 13, 1803. His grave is beside his son's and very near the southwest corner of the Reformed Protestant Dutch Church as it now stands. His wife died and was buried in New York City Apr. 2, 1789. I have found trace of only three children:

Elizabeth, bp. Feb. 22, 1749;

306. Christoffel, bp. Jan. 6, 1751;

308. Abraham Boelen, bp. Sept. 25, 1754.

Elizabeth perhaps married Col. Marinus Willet, as his first wife and died without issue.*

306. CHRISTOPHER BANCER (305) was born in New York City and was baptized in the Dutch Reformed Church Jan. 6, 1751. He married, Sept. 3, 1771, Maria Smith, apparently in the First or Second Presbyterian Church. He was a merchant and man of affairs, and seems to have lived in the West Ward of the city. He died and was buried, Nov. 29, 1803, in the Dutch Church graveyard. His wife was living at the time of his death. He had eleven children:

- Elizabeth, bp. Feb. 28, 1773;
 307. Margrita,        }
       Maria,         } bp. Sept. 18, 1774; twins;
       Richard, bo. Oct. 11, 1780;
       Ann Genet, bo. June 8, 1784;
       Jennet Livingston, bo. Apr. 28, 1786;
       Arrietta, bp. Apr. 11, 1789;
       Evert, bp. July 17, 1790;
       Sarah Sophia, bo. May 9, 1792;
       John S.;
       William.

It is probable that Ann, Jennet, Evert, and Sarah died before 1803, as they are not mentioned in their father's will.

Elizabeth married, Feb. 21, 1797, Robert Saunders. She had at least three children: Robert Bancker, born Mar. 29, 1798; Marinus Willet, born Mar. 9, 1800; and Margaret, who was living unmarried in 1849.

Maria never married. She made her will Sept. 6, 1849, and it was probated May 8, 1851.

Richard was not baptized until Jan. 20, 1784, undoubtedly owing to the disturbed conditions incident to the Revolution. He married Ann Montanye Oct. 27, 1799. Nothing further was learned of his family.

Arietta never married and probably lived with her sister Maria. She and her sister made their wills on the same day. Arietta's was probated Dec. 22, 1866.

John is mentioned in his father's will in 1803 as having a family. He probably should be placed before Richard. Nothing further is known of him.

William is also mentioned in his father's will and it is expressly stated that he is the youngest son. Nothing more is known of him.

307. MARGARET BANCKER (306) was born in New York City and baptized in the Reformed Dutch Church Sept. 18, 1774.

She married Col. Marinus Willet probably as his second wife, as his son Edward states that his father married first a daughter of Evert Bancker, and, therefore, probably Margaret's aunt, Elizabeth.* Col. Willet was born at Jamaica, Long Island, July 31, 1740. His father was Edward Willet, a farmer. He took part in the French War and accompanied Abercrombie as a lieutenant in 1758 and was engaged in the battle of Ticonderoga. He sided with the colonists in the Revolution and was active from the very beginning. He was one of the most efficient officers of the Americans in that struggle. The details of his military career will be found in a work written by his son.† After the war he was sent by Washington to treat with the Creek Indians, in which undertaking he was very successful. He was later appointed a brigadier-general to lead an expedition against the Indians of the Northwest. This position he declined, as he was not in sympathy with the coercive policy which had been adopted. He was elected member of the Assembly in 1784, but within a month was appointed sheriff of New York and again held the office in 1791. He was elected mayor of the city in 1807. In 1824, he was chosen a presidential elector and was president of the Electoral College. He died Aug. 23, 1830. I do not know the date of his wife's death, but she was living in 1846; nor do I know whether any of his children were by his first wife. I assume them all to have been by the second. They were as follows:

Marinus;
William M. ;
Edward M., bo. 1805;
Elbert;
Margaret.

Marinus was a physician and lived in East Broadway, where he died in 1840.

William became a Methodist minister and had at least one daughter, Mary.

Edward was living in New York City as late as 1888. He had at least two children, Clemence S. and Margaret.

† "A narrative of the Military Actions of Colonel Marinus Willet taken chiefly from his own manuscript. Prepared by his son, William M. Willet. 1831."

Margaret married James H. Ray and had two children, Margaret W. and Catharine A.

The descendants of Col. Willet were not traced further.

308. ABRAHAM BOELEN BANCKER (305) was born in New York and baptized in the Dutch Reformed Church Sept. 25, 1754. He married in Kingston, N. Y., Ariantje Mantius or Mancius, probably soon after Sept. 20, 1778, as on that date the banns were published. Ariantje, or as the name appears in later generations, Arietta, was baptized in the Dutch Reformed Church of Kingston July 26, 1752. She was the daughter of the Rev. Georgius Wilhelmus Mantius, pastor of the church, and Cornelia Kierstede. Abraham doubtless accompanied his father to Kingston during the troubles of the Revolution and afterward made it his home. He took active part in the Revolution. At the beginning of the war he was third lieutenant of the Rangers in the 1st Battalion of New York under Col. Lasher, and was one of the seventeen officers who voted that that organization should serve the cause of the colonies as a battalion. Later he was a lieutenant in the 1st Reg't of the Line under Col. Goose Van Schaick. He was commissary of prisoners from 1777 to 1779. After the war he became clerk of the Senate, which position he held from Feb. 18, 1784, to Apr. 5, 1802. He was also secretary of the Convention called to ratify the Federal Constitution in 1788. He died very suddenly, Feb. 7, 1806, and is buried beside his father in the Kingston church-yard. His grave-stone says: "Short was his summons to Eternity. The morning sun shone unclouded on his prospects and health animated each feature. Evening came; but—the animating spirit had fled." He had four children:

Evert, bp. Aug. 3, 1779; died young;

George William, bp. Aug. 12, 1781;

Elizabet Boelen, bp. Mar. 16, 1786; d. Sept. 9, 1788.

No further trace of this family was made.

309. ADRIAAN BANCKER (304) was born in New York July 25, 1724, and was baptized in the Dutch Reformed Church on the 29th. He married, Nov. 7, 1753, Anna Boelen, a daughter of Abraham Boelen and Elizabeth De Peyster, hence his second cousin and a sister of his brother Evert's wife, Elizabeth.* He removed to Staten Island, where he became prominent in public affairs and took an active part in the events of the Revolution. He held the office of supervisor for the town of Westfield in 1772 to 1773. He was elected deputy from Richmond county to the second Provincial Congress which met Nov. 14, 1775, to May 13, 1776. He was also elected member of the Assembly in 1784. He was made surrogate of Richmond county, Mar. 13, 1787, and held the office until his death Sept. 29, 1792,† when he was succeeded by his son Abraham. He seems to have owned a place in Wall Street, New York, as late as 1776. In that year 569 lbs. of sash leads were taken from this house by order of the Convention for public use, chiefly to make bullets. He sold a large part of his interest in the Kayadarosseras Patent in 1789. Further interests in this Patent appear to have been sold by his executor in 1796, but a considerable portion went to his heirs. About the time of his death he was the owner of five slaves. In his will, made Aug. 7, 1792, he mentions only his sons; Christopher, Abraham, and Adrian, and his daughter, Anna Elizabeth. It is probable that the others were dead at this time. His wife was buried in New York June 15, 1790. The portraits of Adrian and his wife went into the possession of his son Abraham and were by him willed to his sister, Anna Elizabeth. They are believed to be now in the possession of Dr. De-Groot of Mendham, N. J. Adrian had eight children as follows:

Christoffel, bp. Sept. 25, 1754; died young;

Elizabet, bp. June 15, 1757; died young;

Abraham, bp. May 15, 1760;

Christoffel, bp. Feb. 16, 1763;

Elizabet, bp. Nov. 9, 1764; probably died young;

Anna, bp. Aug. 3, 1766; probably died young;

310. Adrian, bp. Sept. 2, 1770;

Anna Elizabeth, bp. Sept. 20, 1772.

Abraham lived nearly all his life on Staten Island, where he became quite prominent in public affairs. He is said to have been educated at King's, now Columbia College. He was county clerk of Richmond county from Feb. 11, 1781, to Feb. 4, 1784; he then became sheriff and held the office until 1788. He was a member of the first Board of Regents and was one of the twenty-four citizen members named in the act. He was elected member of Assembly for the twelfth and thirteenth sessions Dec. 11, 1788, to Apr. 6, 1790. He was also a member of the state convention to ratify the Federal Constitution in 1788. He succeeded his father as surrogate of Richmond county in 1792 and held the office until May 30, 1809. He was one of the presidential electors in 1804, his vote being cast for Thomas Jefferson, who was elected for his second term. At this time the electors were appointed by the state legislature. He appears to have never married. His will, made June 19, 1822, in Morris county, N. J., was probated Feb. 6, 1832. In this instrument he provides for the division of the remaining family interests in the Kayadarosseras Patent between his sister Anna Elizabeth and the heirs of his brother Adrian. The further relation of the family with this Patent has not been traced. A number of Abraham's personal letters commenting on the events of his day have been published in the Magazine of the Daughters of the Revolution. It is related that "he was a spy in the Revolutionary War and that Washington gave him an elegant sword, jeweled and inlaid with gold and silver, which was left by will to Abraham Bancker, whose wife had it cut up into carving knives."

† The record of his burial appears in the Dutch Reformed Church of New York as above, but in the Record of Wills of Richmond county, Mr. Hubbard informs me, his signature is under an entry dated Sept. 6, 1792, and immediately under it is this entry, "Adrian Bancker died Sept. 30, 1792, and was succeeded by his son Abraham."

Christopher seems to have been living in 1792, but he is not mentioned in his brother Abraham's will in 1822 nor are any of his family, though the families of both Adrian and Anna Elizabeth are mentioned in full. This suggests that he was dead and that he had no issue.

Anna Elizabeth married Peter DeGroot and had at least ten children: Ann, who married a Dickerson (or Dickman), Peter, Robert, Eliza, John, William, Catharine Jane, Margaret W., Alfred, and Abraham B. The family has been traced no further, but a Dr. DeGroot, supposed to be a descendant of Anna, is said to live in Mendham, N. J.

Jannetie seems to have married, May 21, 1763, Daniel R. Winne, and had at least one child, Willem, born Mar. 21, 1769. She may have had also a son, Daniel K., who married Alida Vischer. The latter was born Feb. 19, 1789, a daughter of Teunis G. Vischer and Alida Lansing. Daniel K. had the following children: William Bancker, born Sept. 3, 1810, and died young; Sarah Catalina, born Nov. 16, 1811; William Bancker, born Sept. 28, 1813; Ann Maria, born Jan. 2, 1816; and William Vischer, born Apr. 7, 1818. The family has been traced no further.

The name Bancker is lost in this generation of William's family, as Thomas B., the only son having a family, had no sons.

327. THOMAS BROUWER BANCKER (326) was born in Schenectady Dec. 8, 1729. He married first, Nov. 2, 1754, Anna

Mebie, a daughter of Jacob Mebie. She died July 2, 1776, aged 43 years, 8 mos., 28 dys. He then married Geertruy Van Slyck, who died before him. Thomas was a blacksmith and built and lived in the house at 108 State St., his blacksmith shop standing next east. This is as stated by Pearson in 1873. He appears to have owned one or more slaves. He was a deacon of the Dutch Reformed Church in 1763 and an elder in 1799. Thomas had a military spirit and was active in the service of the colony of New York during the period of the Revolution. In 1767 he was a member of Capt. Nicholas Groot's Company of militia in Schenectady. The next year he was recommended as 1st lieutenant in a new regiment of militia under Col. Van Slyck. In the time of the Revolution he was 1st lieutenant of the 4th Company, 2nd Reg't of the Albany county militia, receiving his commission Oct. 20, 1775. He became captain of the company June 20, 1778. In 1785 his company received £270 for its services in the War. He died May 25, 1807. He had six children, all girls, as follows:

- 328. Annatie, bp. Oct. 31, 1756;

Elizabeth made her will in 1831. She mentions besides relatives, "a colored woman usually called Flora Banker."

Catharina married Frederick Vedder and had at least one son, Brower Banker, and probably another. They appear to have owned some slaves.

328. ANNATIE BANCKER (327) was born in Schenectady and was baptized in the Dutch Reformed Church Oct. 31, 1756. She married, June 25, 1775, Daniel Toll Clute, a Son of Gillis Clute. William Bancker, bo. Sept. 26, 1791; Tanneke, bo. Mar. 26, 1794;
Neeltje, bo. Feb. 5, 1800.

Annatje, later called Nancy, is mentioned in her aunt's will as Nancy Shutts, but in the petition of administration she is called Nancy Stewart, wife of John Stewart; moreover, the will mentions a Nancy Stewart, daughter of John Stewart. I cannot understand the Shutts.

Jillis or Gillis died before 1836 leaving children: Nancy, who married a Wilmerding, of Moscow, N. Y.; Charles S. and Daniel of Moscow; and Elizabeth Susan, the youngest. These have been traced no further.

Gertrude married John McMichael of Schenectady, but was traced no further.

Francis Van De Bogart, bo. Oct. 4 or 5, 1810.

Annatie married John Newkirk, according to Pearson, but according to her aunt's will in 1836 she was the wife of John F. D. Vedder. It is probable that her first husband died and that she married second John F. D. Vedder, husband of her deceased sister, Esther.

Albert married Nancy Feling.

Jacob married Elsie Fisher and died Jan. 17, 1855. He had at least one son, Brower Banker.

Martha married Thomas H. Miter when she was over sixty years old and is said to have had a very happy wedded life. She died Feb. 16, 1890, without issue.

Samuel married Catharine Filkins and had at least six children: William, Jacob, Floris, Charles, Rachel, and Elizabeth. Jacob was killed in the Civil War. The others are believed to be all dead, but nothing is known as to their families.

Adrian married Helen Stranahan and had four children: William and George and a pair of twins, Ellen Jannet and Helen Jane. All are supposed to be dead except possibly William. Nothing further is known of the family

John married Maria ———, of Schenectady and had two children, William and Elizabeth, but nothing further is known of them.

Elizabeth married Allen Stranahan, a brother of Helen. She had three children: Margaret, William, and Luke. They all married and had families. The boys lived in Essex county, N. Y., but nothing further is known of them.

George went to Texas, where he was married six times. During the Civil War he entered the Confederate Army and rose to the rank of a brigadier-general. He was a member of Magnolia Lodge, A. F. and A. M., and at the time of his death was the oldest past-grandmaster of the state. He died at his residence on San Jacinto Street, Houston, Tex., in October, 1890. He left a widow, but nothing further is known of his family.

Eleanor married Lyman Fenn. She died Jan. 9, 1904, in Troy, N. Y., her husband having died previously. She had no issue.

Luke married Maria Bortel and lived in New York City. He had two children, Frank (a girl) and Alson Hull. He and his wife are both dead.

340. FLORIS BANCKER VAN VLECK (339) was born in Brunswick, Rensselaer Co., N. Y., Feb. 19, 1801. He married, Feb. 19, 1824, Eliza Benjamin, who was born Aug. 5, 1798, a daughter of John Benjamin and Elizabeth Tupper. His wife died Nov. 20, 1851, and he died Feb. 6, 1891. He had eight children as follows:

- 341. William Henry, bo. Feb. 12, 1825;
Elizabeth Jane, bo. Sept. 27, 1826; d. Jan. 26, 1901, unmarried;
Judd Abbott, bo. Sept. 22, 1828; d. Jan. 10, 1835;
Josiah Kellogg, bo. May 9, 1831; d. Mar. 14, 1833;
Margaret Maria, bo. May 5, 1833; d. Oct. 26, 1835;
Mary Augusta, bo. Dec. 5, 1835;
Sarah Anna, bo. Oct. 29, 1837;
Emily Martha, bo. Dec. 21, 1841; d. in infancy.

Mary A. is living unmarried with her sister Sarah. She has in her possession the original family record written by Adrian Bancker, No. 335. It is written in Dutch and in a remarkably clear and beautiful hand.

Sarah married, July 20, 1858, Peter B. King, a son of Daniel King and Elizabeth Dickson. Her husband has died and she is living at 555 Second Ave., Lansingburgh, N. Y., on property originally owned by her great-grandfather, Maj. Floris Bancker. She had one son, Daniel, born June 17, 1863, and died the same day. She has adopted her grand-niece, Sarah Augusta Holbrook.

341. WILLIAM HENRY VAN VLECK (340) was born Feb. 12, 1825. He married, Nov. 5, 1845, Elizabeth Say Wilson and died July 27, 1868. He had seven children as follows:

Augustus Benjamin, bo. Oct. 25, 1846; d. Oct. 1867, at

Key West;

Martha Jane, died young;

Alpharetta, bo. 1851; died young;

Kate T., bo. Sept. 16, 1853;

Frank W., bo. Aug. 17, 1855;

Fred, bo. Sept. 14, 1860;

Elizabeth Jane, bo. Aug. 17, 1862.

Kate married, Mar. 16, 1876, Albert W. Holbrook of Rutland, Vt., and had four children: Fred, who died in infancy, Jan. 11, 1883; Elizabeth, who also died as a child, Dec. 31, 1882; Sarah Augusta, born Dec. 25, 1876, and afterward adopted by her great aunt, Mrs. Sarah A. King, with whom she is now living unmarried; and Grace Wilder, born May 25, 1885, who married Claude Paulger and lives with her mother near Farmington, Oakland Co., Mich.

Frank W. married Luella ———, from whom he was later divorced. He lives in Melrose, N. Y., and has one daughter. His wife is living in New York City.

Fred went west and nothing further is known of him. He is believed to be unmarried.

Elizabeth married first, Jan. 1, 1879, William Miller of Sand Lake, N. Y. After his death she married Ezra Sliter. He has since died and she is now (1908) living with her daughter, Annabelle. She had three children, all by her first husband: Annabelle, born June 4, 1880, who married Forrest Eugene Hulsart Nov. 25, 1903, and lives in Freehold, N. J.; George Washington, born Feb. 3, 1884, and died young; and Elizabeth, born Aug. 12, 1885, who married Charles Lavigne in December, 1907, and lives in Troy, N. Y.

342. MAGDALENA BANCKER (335) was born in New York May 14 and was baptized in the Dutch Reformed Church May 19, 1746.* She married, Mar. 12, 1771, Ulpianus Van Sinderen, who was baptized Apr. 29, 1750, a son of Rev. Ulpianus Van Sinderen and Cornelia Schenck. His father was pastor of Flatbush and came from Holland in 1747 and was a son of Rev. Hotso Van Sinderen of Holland. Mr. Van Sinderen was a joiner. Magdalena had one son:

Adrian, bo. in 1772.

Adrian married first, in 1797, Mary Lawrence, a daughter of Capt. Thomas Lawrence and Elizabeth Fish of Newtown, L. I. After her death he married second, on Thursday evening, Feb. 1, 1821, Mary Suydam, the widow of Henry Whitney. She was a daughter of Hendrick Suydam and Phoebe Skidmore of Hallett's Cove, L. I., and was born Sept. 5, 1780. Her first husband, whom she married July 30, 1808, was a merchant of New York. He was born at Derby, Conn., July 30, 1772, and died at 75 Broadway Mar. 12, 1812. Adrian was a merchant of New York City and died there Aug. 20, 1843. His widow died at 109 Remsen St., Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 15, 1867. He had by his first wife: Eliza, William, Henry, Eliza, and William Henry. The first three died young. Eliza was living unmarried in Brooklyn in 1877. William Henry was born about 1811 and married Lydia Matilda Howard. He was a physician and died Nov. 12, 1837. He is buried in the grave-yard of the Presbyterian Church at Newtown, L. I. He had two sons: William Henry, who died Oct. 9, 1837, aged 14 mos., and Adrian, who married and was living in Brooklyn in 1877.

343. GERARDUS BANCKER (301) was born in Albany, N. Y., Apr. 1, 1706. He married, Oct. 31, 1731, in New York, Maria De Peyster, who was born Jan. 20, 1706, a daughter of Johannes De Peyster and Anna Bancker† and, therefore, first cousin to Gerardus. He appears to have returned directly after his marriage to Albany and to have made that his home, but we find little trace of him and he died before Feb. 27, 1745, as his wife is mentioned at that date as a widow. She married second Joseph Ogden of Newark, N. J., their license being dated June 14, 1753. She appears to have had no issue by this second marriage. In 1733 Gerardus was a lieutenant in a regiment of Albany county militia under Col. Philip Schuyler. He had at least six children, as follows:

- Anna, bo. Aug. 31, 1732;
- 344. Evert, bo. Aug. 9, 1734;
Elizabeth, bo. May 9, 1736; d. in May, 1800, unmarried;
- 345. Johannes, bp. Feb. 22, 1738;
Gerard, bo. Feb. 14, 1740;
Maria, bo. Mar. 10, 1742; nothing further known.

Anna married, June 15, 1753, in New York, Abraham Hyer, a mariner. She had at least six children: Christina, bapt. Sept. 15, 1754; Gerhardus, bapt. June 20, 1756; Maria, bapt. June 14, 1758; Abraham, bapt. Aug. 5, 1764; Elizabet, bapt. Apr. 17, 1768; and Ann, bapt. Jan. 14, 1770. None of these were traced any further.

Gerard appears never to have married, as in his will he mentions only children of his brothers, Evert and Johannes, and I have found no evidence of his having a family. He was treasurer of New York Colony under the Provincial Congress and in January, 1777, he asked to be relieved, but this does not seem to have been granted and he became the first treasurer of the State of New York and held the office from Apr. 1, 1778, until March 16, 1798. He was thus treasurer throughout the period of the Revolution, and the certificates issued in payment of soldiers' claims on the State of New York are all signed by him. He was appointed one of the commissioners for determining and settling the Massachusetts boundary in 1773 and again in 1783. He made his will in 1796, which was probated Jan. 21, 1799. He was buried in New York Jan. 18, 1799. Nearly one hundred years after his death, on Mar. 25, 1898, there was offered for sale by a Philadelphia auction house, as described in their catalogue, "A Unique Collection of Broad-sides gathered by Gerard Bancker, Provincial Treasurer of New York, and to be sold for the estate of the late Jas. A. Bancker, New York, embracing the largest Collection of Pre-Revolutionary and Revolutionary Broad-sides Relating to New York City and State that has ever been offered for sale and Historical Relics, Continental Money, Portraits, Bust of Washington, &c."

344. EVERT BANCKER (343) was baptized in Albany, Aug. 10, 1734. He married, Oct. 20, 1772, Ann Taylor, a daughter of John Taylor and Anna Nuttall, née Nicoll. He is mentioned in documents as Evert Bancker, Jr. This was at first puzzling, but it was evidently a means used to distinguish him from his older and more prominent cousin Evert, son of Christopher,* as both were living and doing business in the city of New York. Evert seems to have been living in the north ward in 1790, at which time he owned one slave. He was a surveyor and laid out the estate of James De Lancey into city lots in 1804. This tract was sold under forfeiture by the attainder of James De Lancey and was located between the East River, Rivington St., and Stuyvesant's Bowery. Evert died before 1831, when his widow made her will. This will of the widow was not probated until May 16, 1860, but proof of death is dated Oct. 27, 1840. Evert had at least two children and probably more:

Maria De Peyster;

Charles Nicoll.

Maria married George Washington Talbot, a son of Commodore Silas Talbot of the Revolution. She had at least one son, Charles Nicoll, who died in 1874. The latter had also at least one son, William Richmond, the father of Arnold G. Talbot now living in Wickford, R. I.

Charles married Sarah W. ——— and moved to Philadelphia, Pa. He was a vestryman of the United Episcopal Churches in 1813 to 1827. He undoubtedly had children, and either a son or a grandson, William W. Bancker, moved from Philadelphia to Newburgh, N. Y., where he died between May 13 and June 17, 1875. The latter mentions in his will "relatives Charles Nicoll Bancker Camac of Philadelphia; William Camac; and a niece, Sarah Morsell of Philadelphia." James A. Bancker referred to above on page 281 was probably a brother of William W. He died the latter part of October, 1897, and mentions in his will "Anna E. Steffens née Balche, wife of Franz S. Steffens of Hamburg, Germany, being the daughter of my late wife." He also mentions two nieces, Sarah B. Morsell and Annie B. Beasley, and others, doubtless relatives, Annie B. Rowland, Anne B. Nicoll, and Violetta Talbot.

The whole record of Evert's descendants could doubtless readily be obtained, but I have not followed them up.

345. JOHN BANCKER (343) was baptized in Albany Feb. 22, 1738. He married in New York, June 6, 1764, Altje Mesnard, probably a daughter of Francis Mesnard and Alida Van Deursen. He seems to have lived in Little Dock St., New York City, and in 1776, 310 pounds of sash leads were taken from his house by order of the Convention for public use. At the beginning of the War he was 2d lieutenant of Rangers in the 1st Battalion of New York under Col. Lasher and voted with sixteen other officers to enter the Continental service as a battalion. He obtained a captain's commission Oct. 4, 1776, but being displeased with some of the field officers he refused to join his battalion and entered a complaint against the officers. An investigation resulted in an exoneration of the officers and he withdrew his complaint. His position in the battalion, however, having been filled he became an independent captain. Toward the close of the war he seems to have been living in the vicinity of Poughkeepsie and in Ulster county. He appears to have been the head of a class in Col. Johannes Jansen's Reg't of Ulster county and is described as of "Lattentown in New Marlborough Precinct, Ulster Co., N. Y." In 1785, he signed a Land Bounty Right together with his son Francis M., his second son, Gerard, also signing as a witness. The John here described could not have been his son, as John, Jr., could not have been more than five or six years old at this time.

It is difficult to decide how many and what children John had, the records being scattered and fragmentary. He undoubtedly had by his wife Altje at least two children:

Francis Mesnard, bp. Apr. 8, 1765;

Gerhardus, bp. Oct. 26, 1766.

He appears to have married second Catharine Stevens, by whom he had at least two children:*

John, bo. June 13, 1781;

Elizabeth, bo. July 17, 1784.

He also had a daughter:

Susanna, bo. date not known, nor by which wife.

Francis was living* probably with his father in Ulster county near the close of the war. He was hired by his class of the Fourth Reg't of Ulster county militia under Col. Johannes Jansen to serve in the Levies. The class transferred to him all their interest in the Land Bounty Right of 200 acres of land. Under this arrangement, Francis was mustered in as a private Apr. 30, 1782, and served to Jan. 1, 1783, in Capt. John L. Hardenburgh's Co of Lieut-Col. Frederick Weissenfel's Reg't of Levies.* Nothing further was learned of him.

Gerard appears as a witness to the papers in the above transaction concerning his brother, but no further trace of him has been found.

John was traced no further.†

Elizabeth has been traced no further.

Susanna married Benjamin Ayerigg, a son of Benjamin Ayerigg, a merchant of New York, who was active in obtaining * Under an act of the Legislature of New York State passed the 23d of March, 1782, it was provided to complete the Line of the state in the service of the United States and also to raise two regiments of Levies for the defence of the Frontiers of the State by offering as bounty 200 acres of unappropriated land. This was done by organizing the state militia regiments into classes and requiring each class to furnish an able-bodied man, the title to the land then being given to the class. The two regiments of Levies thus raised were those of Col. Frederick Weissenfels and Col. John Harper, which did good service on the western frontier and in the Mohawk valley.

† The following incident, related by Peter S. Palmer in his History of Lake Champlain, may pertain to him, but it is not certain. The incident occurred at the beginning of the War of 1812, probably in that year.

"Among the many contrivances of the smugglers to escape detection was the following. John Banker, Jr., a resident of New York City, who had obtained from the collector of that port a commission authorizing him to fit out a privateer on Lake Champlain, equipped a small sail-boat of less than one ton burthen, which he called the Privateer Lark, and which was provided with an armament of three muskets. In this boat the Captain cruised around the Lake, threatening vengeance to the enemies of his country. Indeed he carried his ardor so far on one occasion as to fire into the Essex ferry boat, while it was crossing the lake, fifty miles south of the Canada line.

"After a profitless cruise in the vicinity of Burlington, the gallant Captain would run down to Rouses Point, and boldly lay at anchor upon the borders of Canada, until some hostile barge loaded with goods should incautiously run within range of his muskets. The approach of the barge was the signal of attack, and doubtless many a bloody battle would have been fought upon the quiet waters of Rouses Point Bay had not the enemy surrendered at the first appearance of the Captain's guns.

"The property thus forcibly captured by an armed privateer was now beyond the revenue officers. Captain Banker's next step was to appoint some trusty confederate as prize master, in whose possession he placed the captured property, with written instructions to deposit it in the government store houses at New York. When the prize master reached New York, he delivered the goods to the owners for whom they had been smuggled, upon receiving the stipulated price of transportation. As soon as the government officers ascertained that the goods did not reach the public store houses they seized the Lark, and thus put an end to privateering on Lake Champlain."

the removal of the bones of the victims of the infamous British prison ship Jersey and their proper burial in 1808. She had at least three children: Benjamin, born in New York Sept. 28, 1804, known as Colonel and who died at Lakewood, N. J., Feb. 2, 1895; John Bancker, born July 9, 1798, who was a physician; and a daughter, who married Capt. John Bogert Pell.

346. JOHANNES BANCKER (301) is mentioned in his father's will, from which it appears that he was probably the youngest son and was living with his father on his farm in Guilderland. He is said to have been born Feb. 20, 1712. He married Magdalena Veeder, a daughter of Gerrit Seymonse Veeder and Catrina ——— and hence a sister of Annatje, who married his brother William.* He appears to have continued living on his father's farm on the Normanskill. He had at least three children:

347. Elizabeth, bp. June 7, 1735;

348. Gerrit, bp. Feb. 27, 1737;

(A girl), died before baptism.

347. ELIZABETH BANCKER (346) was baptized in Schenectady June 7, 1735. She married, Sept. 25, 1755, Simon H. Veeder, a son of Helmers Veeder. She was his first wife and must have died between 1774 and 1783. In the latter year he married second Margaret Pootman, by whom he had at least one daughter, Elizabeth, born Apr. 1, 1784. The children of Elizabeth Bancker were:

Helmer, bo. Feb. 1, 1756; died young;

Helmer, bo. Feb. 11, 1759;

Magdalena, bo. Mar. 4, 1764;

Johannes, bo. Oct. 12, 1766;

Simon, bo. July 10, 1774.

Of these children only Johannes has been traced any further. He married, Dec. 30, 1797, Elizabeth De Graaf, a daughter of Andries De Graaf. He had four children: Simon, born July 5, 1798; Andries, born May 9, 1801, and died young; Nicholas, born Apr. 7, 1803; and Andries, born Aug. 8, 1806.

348. GERRIT BANCKER (346) was baptized in Schenectady, N. Y., Feb. 27, 1737. He married, Sept. 15, 1755, Hester Van Arnhem, a daughter of John Van Arnhem of Albany. He was a soldier in the Revolution and served in Capt. Bastian T. Vischer's Company of Col. Philip P. Schuyler's Regt. As early as Aug. 20, 1757, he received a commission as ensign in the first Battalion of the Albany county militia under the command of Sir William Johnson, Bar't, as Colonel. He seems to have been living in Watervliet in 1790, when he owned two slaves. He died Aug. 8, 1803, and was buried in the Reformed Dutch church-yard at Schenectady.* His wife died Jan. 2, 1822, aged 88 years. He had four children:

Magdalena, bp. May 11, 1756;

Elizabeth, bp. Aug. 21, 1760;

349. Johannes, bp. Dec. 25, 1764;

Catarina, bp. Dec. 20, 1767.

Magdalena married, Jan. 12, 1778, Isaac Vrooman, a son of Adam Vrooman. She had at least three children: Adam, born Oct. 28, 1778; Hester, born Aug. 2, 1784; and Susanna, born Oct. 2, 1793. The family has been traced no further.

Elizabeth possibly married Gerrit Quackenbush and had at least one child, Ann, born Mar. 1, 1797.

Catharina probably married Isaac A. Quackenbush, a lawyer who seems to have lived in Erie, Pa., but died in Schenectady, N. Y., Apr. 26, 1841, aged 74 years. If this assumption is correct, she died at Erie, Pa., Apr. 8, 1850, said to be aged 96 years.† She had the following children: Magdalene, born Aug. 5, 1789, died Jan. 21, 1790; John Bancker, born Dec. 12, 1790; Magdalene, born May 3, 1793; Anthony, born Aug. 7, 1795; and Esther, born Feb. 4, 1803.

349. JOHN BANKER (348) was baptized in Schenectady, N. Y., Dec. 25, 1764. Family records give his birth as Nov. 20, 1765. He married, Mar. 15, 1788, Annatje Ouderkerk, who was born Sept. 3, 1770, a daughter of Pieter and Matilda Ouderkerk. He appears to have succeeded to the ancestral estate in Guilderland, at least he lived on the Normanskill, but later at

† If this age is correct, she could not have been the Catharina who was the daughter of Gerrit. Pearson calls her, doubtfully, the daughter of John Banker of Normanskill, that is, Gerrit's father (see page 285). This appears from her age improbable even if she had been over a hundred. Moreover, it is not shown that that John Bancker had a daughter Catharine.

Glenville, Schenectady Co. He died Mar. 30, 1826, and his wife, Anna, died Aug. 27, 1832. Either he or his father dropped the e from his name. He had eight children as follows:

- 350. Gerrit, bo. Mar. 26, 1789;
Alida, bo. June 30, 1791;
- 354. Peter, bo. Jan. 18, 1794;
- 356. John, bo. Aug. 17, 1796;
Esther, bo. Apr. 3, 1799;
- 357. Isaac, bo. Apr. 1, 1802;
- 358. Abraham, bo. Nov. 2, 1805;
Matilda, bo. Dec. 20, 1812.

Alida married first Henry Ward and second John D. Ogsbury. She died aged 65 yrs., 8 mos., and 12 dys. Nothing could be learned of her family.

Esther, or Hesther, married a Barhydt. She had several children, one of whom married William Young of Albany and another married Henry Shephard. The latter had a son, Edward, who is said to be employed in Whitney & Co.'s store, Albany.

Matilda married a Potter of Albany. Nothing further was learned of her.

350. GERRIT BANKER (349) was born in Schenectady, N. Y., Mar. 26, 1789. He married Elizabeth Van Slyck. In early life he was a boat-captain on Lake Ontario and enlisted in the War of 1812. After the war he settled at Ogdensburgh, N. Y., and later moved across into Canada, living for a time at Picton on the shore of Quinty Bay. Although he spent the remainder of his life in Canada, he never took the oath of allegiance to the British crown, and in consequence drew his pension as a veteran of the War of 1812 from the United States. In 1832 he moved to Tweed, in Hastings county, where he located on heavily timbered land, having all the trials and hardships of a pioneer in a primitive forest. He cleared up a farm here, on which he lived the rest of his life. He was a famous hunter. About 1869 his home was burned and all his records were destroyed. He died a few years later. He had at least seven children as follows, but the order of age is not certain:

Angelica, died unmarried, aged 75 years;

- 351. Maria;

352. Alida Ann;

353. Albert, bo. Nov. 18, 1826;

Garret;

John, the youngest, died unmarried, aged 19 years.

Garret married Eliza Clarke* and is still living on a farm at Kaladar, Ontario, Canada. He has three children as follows: a son, Albert, who is still living unmarried, and is a bookkeeper; a daughter, Margaret, who married Hugh Bishop and lives on a farm at Cloyne, Ontario; and a second daughter, whose name could not be learned, living at home with her parents.

351. MARIA BANKER (350) married James Hicks Comer. He died in 1861 and she died in 1877. She had three sons:

John Garret;

James Albert;

Billa Flint.

John G. married Sarah Provost. He is living at Tweed, Canada, and has one daughter, Norma, who married Harold Fuller Corbett, but has no children.

James married Sarah Ann Kincaide and has two children: Ernest, who is unmarried; and Bella, who married a Robinson. James and his family are all living somewhere in Minnesota.

Billa married first Anna Nugent and had two children: John Wesley, who is living unmarried; and Lillian, who died in 1901, unmarried, aged twenty years. He married second Eliza Jane Graham, by whom he has had one daughter, Nellie Carman, living unmarried. Billa lives at Port Arthur, Canada.

352. ALIDA ANN BANKER (350) was born in Canada. She married in March, 1842, William Downing. Her husband was a native of the City of Dublin, Ireland, and migrated to Hastings county, Canada, when he was fourteen years old. At the time of his marriage he was in the lumber business and resided at Downings Rapids, where he owned mills. He purchased the first circular saws used in that part of the country, bringing them from New York City. For many years he made annual trips to Quebec in the interests of his business and often shipped his lumber direct to the Liverpool ship-builders. He died in Cheboygan, Mich., Feb. 22, 1874, aged 65 years and 7 months. Alida died May 31, 1853. She had three children as follows:

John, bo. Dec. 7, 1842;

Elizabeth, bo. Apr. 25, 1844;

William Garret, bo. Nov. 25, 1845.

John married at Toronto, Canada, June 9, 1882, Charlotte Eliza Breeze. He died June 4, 1906. He had four children: Tracy Wilkinson, born April 10, 1883, at St. Regis Falls, N. Y.; Claire Spence, born April 16, 1887, at Brandon, N. Y.; Cecil Edward, born Dec. 15, 1888, at Brandon; and Max Breeze, born July 19, 1892, at Forestport, N. Y.

Elizabeth married, Sept. 28, 1875, Dr. John M. Wilkinson, a physician, who was born June 28, 1845. She lives in Evart, Mich., and has one daughter, Nellie Banker, born July 29, 1881.

William disappeared from Michigan about 1879 and has never been heard from since.

353. ALBERT BANKER (350) was born at Picton, Ontario, Canada, Nov. 18, 1826. He married, May 26, 1854, Florilla J. Comer, who was born in Ontario Nov. 30, 1834, a daughter of John Comer and Ruth Clement. In early life he worked in the lumber regions of Canada, farming in the summer on the old homestead near Tweed. At about the time of his marriage he built a mill and a residence near Bridgewater. ### PART III.

PREFACE.

The third part of this work consists chiefly of the records of a number of families that could not be traced back more than three or four generations. Undoubtedly most of these are branches of one or the other of the two preceding families whose connection has been lost. Further search would doubtless discover the missing link in some cases; in fact, even while the manuscript was in preparation for the press it has been possible to transfer some to their proper places in the preceding family records. Most of these are probably branches of the Laurens Bancker family, a few are doubtless of the Gerrit Bancker family, while some are certainly independent families.

The part closes with a series of isolated data and notes which are here included as they may be of value to some one endeavor to trace ancestral lines. Such comments are made in connection with these as are thought to throw any light on the subject.

CHAPTER XXIV.

THE ABRAHAM BANKER FAMILY OF GOSHEN.

371. ABRAHAM BANKER was born in 1763 in Westchester county, N. Y. I have little doubt that he is a descendant of Laurens Bancker, but it is not possible to make the connection. The nearest we can come to it is the suggestion that he may have been a son of Aaron, born in 1765, but since he had no children named either Aaron or Margaret, this seems more than doubtful. He married first Hannah Feeks, née Robbins. Her father or some one of her family owned the Robbins Mills in Westchester county. She was born in 1774 and died Mar. 25, 1815. After her death Abraham married Mrs. Abigail Tupper, née Cooper. He was a farmer and moved first from Westchester county to Dutchess and lived for a time near Fishkill. He sold his farm there, Jan. 5, 1811, to Joseph Sherwood and then moved to Orange county and settled near Goshen. ## CHAPTER XXV.

THE JOSHUA AND ELIZABETH BANKER FAMILIES.

385. JOSHUA and ELIZABETH BANKER were brother and sister. Nothing is known of their father except that he lived in Dutchess county, N. Y., and is said to have had a family of thirteen children. I think it probable that he was a descendant of Laurens Bancker. A Henry Banker, living at 155 Garside St., Newark, N. J., about 1897, was a nephew of Joshua and Elizabeth, but nothing further was learned of him or his ancestors. It is said that one or more of Joshua's brothers committed suicide. All that I could find of this family were:

386. Joshua;

396. Elizabeth, bo. Jan. 3, 1780.

386. JOSHUA BANKER (385) came into Grafton, Rensselaer Co., N. Y., at an early date, probably before 1800. He married Rhoda Smith, whose father was a still earlier settler of the town, and bought 40 acres of land on the east of his father-in-law's farm. He afterward bought on as he prospered, extending his possessions farther east and built a good frame house, which is still standing and in possession of his grandson, Ziba Banker. It is said to be the oldest frame dwelling in the town. Joshua had seven children, one boy and six girls. I have found trace of only four as follows:

387. Henry, bo. Dec. 6, 1806;

390. Lucy, bo. about 1801; father's homestead, where he died Jan. 1, 1872. He had seven children, two of whom died young; the others were:

Frances married J. Warren Hyde of Hoosick. He was a farmer and lived in Hoosick, where he died Apr. 26, 1891. His memorial says, aged 67 yrs., 8 mos., 12 dys. This would make his birth Aug. 14, 1823. His widow is still living (1907) with her children in Manchester and Woodford, Vt. She had four children, but they have not been traced further.

401. JAMES MARSHALL BANKER (398) was born near Griffin's Corners, Delaware Co., or at Halcott, Greene Co., July 23, 1804. He married Fanny Berry, a daughter of Thomas Berry and Susanna. She was born June 17, 1808, and died Sept. 1, 1870. James was a farmer and lived in "Halcott late Lexington" from 1828 to 1866, when he sold his farm and in November of that year moved to Masonville, where he resided until his death, Sept. 30, 1893. He had six children as follows:

He acquired a good common school education and in his younger days was a teacher. After his marriage, however, he settled down to the life of a farmer, which he followed for twenty years at Halcott. He then removed to Griffin's Corners and went into the mercantile business, at which he continued for eight years, when he retired from active business. He was a democrat and active in politics. He died Aug. 14, 1884, and his widow died May 28, 1889. He had two children:

John Henry, bo. Oct. 7, 1842;

Tallman C., bo. July 23, 1846.

John became a physician and located in Margarettsville, Delaware Co., N. Y., where he became so greatly loved and respected that when the news of his death reached the town, all business places were closed and draped in mourning until his burial. His funeral is said to have been the largest ever held in Margarettsville. He died in New York City, March 24, 1892, having gone there to attend the Commencement of the Long Island Medical College, in which his son was a student. He contracted pneumonia and lived only three days. He was a prominent Mason and frequently represented his home lodge in the Grand Lodge. His widow was still living in Margarettsville in 1902. He had two children, Llewellyn D. S. and a daughter. The son is married and lives in Brooklyn. He purchased his father's business and continued it for a number of years at Griffin's Corners, but as it affected his health he finally gave it up. About this time the place became popular as a summer resort, and he went into the business of taking summer boarders. He had accommodations for about one hundred guests in the "Banker Cottages." He is now dead. He had one child, Augusta M., born Feb. 1, 1871. She is married and has a little girl who was about two years old in 1903.

CHAPTER XXVII.

VARIOUS FAMILIES.

JEREMIAH BANKER OF AUBURN, N. Y.

403. JEREMIAH BANKER was born Mar. 20, 1810.* He was the youngest of the family, which is said to have numbered thirteen. His father died in 1812 and his mother's name is believed to have been Sarah. Beyond that nothing is known of his parents.† The names of his brothers and sister are given in part and with some uncertainty as follows: Levi, John, Jedediah, Mabie, Obadiah, Peter, Maria, and Alvah. John is believed to have lived in Syracuse, N. Y. Mabie is said to have lived in New York City. Maria married and died leaving one son, an infant, James, who was brought up by her brother, Alvah, and, therefore, took the name Banker again. The last known of him he was living in Cayuga, N. Y. Alvah lived in Aurelius, Cayuga Co., where he died June 13, 1861. It is said that he was murdered for his money near Syracuse bridge. He married Christiana R., ——— and after his death she married a Frazer. Alvah had two children; Sarah, born Apr. 6, 1859, and died Sept. 16, 1875, and Alvah, born Jan. 17, 1861.

Jeremiah married, Feb. 28, 1831, Sarah Wheelock, who was born Apr. 19, 1810,‡ a daughter of Peter Salem Wheelock and Nabbie McKnight. He was a farmer and lived in Auburn, N. Y., until 1843; he then moved west and settled in Steven's Point, Wis., in 1849. In 1872, he went to Berlin, Wis., and in 1879, to Ripon. He died Mar. 12, 1890. He had six children:

404. Lansing William, bo. Apr. 28, 1834;

405. Caroline E. bo. Aug. 25, 1837;

* Also given as 1809 and as 1812.

† It seems to me very probable that the father of Jeremiah was Peter Banker, who married Martha Maby. (See page 225.) While this opinion is in some degree contradicted by the family tradition that the mother of Jeremiah was named Sarah, it seems to me more than counterbalanced by the fact that one of his brothers was named Mabie, an unusual name not likely to be introduced by mistake and pointing strongly to a maternal maiden name.

‡ Also given as 1812.

His father was also a veteran of the Civil War, and Mr. Sloggy is believed to be the oldest veteran who is the son of a veteran in the United States. He is a member of Camp 1, Sons of Veterans of St. Paul. Caroline had three children as follows:

Edwin E., bo. Jan. 1, 1856;
Orlando T., bo. Aug. 27, 1858;

Edwin lives in Eau Claire, Wis. He is a finisher and polisher of inside work of buildings and a sign painter. He is married and has two children, a son, Lee H., and a daughter, Fay. I.

Henry died in Ypsilanti, Mich., about 1849. He had seven children:

ABRAHAM VAN RANCE BANCKER OF PHILADELPHIA.

411. ABRAHAM VAN RANCE BANCKER was born in Baltimore, Md., about 1804. His father is supposed to have been engaged in flour milling, and it is believed that his name was also Abraham Van Rance. The father seems to have died when his family were young, and the boys at least were bound out to learn a trade. One of the boys, Joseph, is said to have lived in New York City and to have had a large family, but no trace of them has been found. There was at least one girl, Maria, who never married and lived in Mt. Joy, Pa. Abraham had a son whom he named Marinus. This son is still living and understands that he got his name from Col. Marinus Willet, who was in some way connected to the family by marriage. This suggests that the family is descended from one of the sons of Christopher, No. 306,* but none of Christopher's sons was named Abraham. I am inclined to doubt the family tradition that the father of Abraham was another Abraham, but would not be surprised if his name was William and that he married a Van Rance. However, there is no proof of this and it is idle to speculate with so few facts. A careful search of Baltimore records has furnished no clue to the family,† but it seems very probable that it is in some way connected with the Adam Banker family.‡

We know certainly that Abraham drifted to Philadelphia when a young man and there married Elizabeth Grubb about 1826. He became a tailor and lived the rest of his life in that city. He was a soldier in the Mexican War and also served throughout the Civil War in the same regiments as his son Marinus. He died in 1869. His wife died at the age of 68 years. He had the following children:

Valeida;
John;
Morris, } bo. Aug. 12, 1845;
Marinus, }
Charles, died young;
William;
Mary, died young;
Louise;
Van Rance;
Hiram Lee;
Joseph.

---

* See page 250.

† An Abraham Banniker, born Oct. 13, 1769, was left an orphan in 1785, but it is not probable he has any connection with the above family.

‡ See page 343.

Valeida was the eldest. She married an Arnold and lived at Iona, Mich. She had at least one son, Henry, who is said to be still living there.

John married and had six children. He was chief bugler in the 13th Connecticut Vol. during the Civil War, and at Port Hudson under General Banks he was one of 200 picked men selected to make a desperate charge over the ramparts of the enemy. The charge was not actually made on account of the surrender of the place. He lived in Philadelphia after the war and is now dead. His wife and two sons and a daughter were living in 1900.

Morris was a twin to Marinus and died young.

Marinus married, Dec. 23, 1863, Hannah Gilmore, who was born Mar. 20, 1846, a daughter of Elizabeth and Arthur Gilmore. He enlisted, Apr. 24, 1861, with the consent of his father, in Co. E, 18th Pa. Vol. Inf. to serve three months, then re-enlisted in Co. C, 91st Pa. Vol. Inf. for three years. After serving over two years, he re-enlisted in the field under orders from the War Department as a veteran volunteer in the same regiment for three years more or during the war. He served until the end of the war and was in every engagement of the Army of the Potomac up to the surrender at Appomattox. He was never wounded, but was once captured by General Ross's Brigade and was soon recaptured by the New Jersey Brigade. He holds three honorable discharges from the Civil War service. He also enlisted in the Spanish War in Co. I, 71st N. Y. Vol., and was all through Cuba with General Shafter. He is a cigar-maker and has his home in Springfield, Mass., with his son. He has only one child, William Marinus, who was born Mar. 16, 1874. The latter married, Aug. 22, 1902, Louise Perry, who was born Oct. 30, 1880, a daughter of Amos Perry and Almira La Belle. He enlisted in Co. C, 1st Reg't U. S. Marine Corps and was with General Chaffee all through the Boxer uprising in China and marched to Peking to the relief of the legations. He is a cigar-maker in Springfield, Mass., and has three children: Edward, born Mar. 29, 1903; Howard, born Nov. 4, 1905; and John, born May 18, 1906.

William was a physician and druggist in New York City and is now dead. He had one son, Charles, who was a druggist on Eighth Ave., in Harlem, in 1900.

Louise married Daniel P. Dieterich, owner of the Goodyear Patent Right. He died Mar. 1, 1892, aged 58 years. She was living in 1900 at the Colonade Hotel, Cor. 15th and Chestnut Streets, Philadelphia. She had no children.

Van Rance married and lived in Lexington, Va. He fought on the Confederate side in the Civil War and was an orderly sergeant in a battery of artillery in the famous "Stonewall" Jackson's Brigade. After the war he disappeared suddenly and nothing is known of him. His wife and two children are believed to be living in Lexington.

Hiram married about 1855 Margaret Welsh. He was a musician and lived in Philadelphia, where he died about 1858 or 1859. His widow married again and had six children. Her second husband is dead. She was living in 1900. Hiram had only one child, Hiram Lee, born Sept. 2, 1856. He married first Julia Gable, who died of typhoid fever one year and four months after her marriage. He then married, Jan. 31, 1898, Lucy Garver, who was born Sept. 29, 1875, a daughter of Wesley B. and Susanna Garver. He is a stone-cutter and a chenille-weaver and was living in 1900 at 2969 Leithgow St., Philadelphia. He had no children by either marriage.

ROBERT BANKER OF COEYMAN'S HOLLOW.

412. ROBERT BANKER is said to have come from Holland about 1812 and settled in Coeyman's Hollow, fifteen miles south of Albany, in a log cabin. He had a large family, one or two born probably in Holland. The preceding statements are tradition. They are probably true except respecting his coming from Holland. It is more probable that he came from somewhere farther down the Hudson, and the family is likely one of the lost lines of Laurens or Gerrit. It is a common thing in family traditions to lose several generations. There was a Robert Banker in Capt. Thos. Ellison's Company of foot from Highland Precinct in Col. Gaasbeek's Reg't of Ulster Co. militia in 1738. I can throw no further light on the ancestry of this Robert Banker of Coeyman's Hollow. Of his children we know only that one was Bram (Abraham) and another was Robert. Of the former nothing further is known.

413. ROBERT BANKER, son of the above, was born in Coeyman's Hollow and married Jane Houghtailing; her mother's name was Sarah. It is said that Robert and his wife could speak Dutch freely. He had two children:

Catharine, bo. 1836 (?);

414. Jasper, bo. Aug. 28, 1840.

Catharine married first Zebulon Miner, a laborer, by whom she had four children. She afterward married Charles Palmer, also a laborer, by whom she had three children. She is now living at New Baltimore, N. Y. Her children by her first husband were; Emma Jane, Charles, Kate, and Belle. By her second husband she had; William, Frank, and Minnie.

414. JASPER BANKER (413) was born in Coeyman's Hollow Aug. 28, 1840. He married first, Jan. 13, 1863, Pearline Palmer, a sister of Charles Palmer and a daughter of Copeland Palmer and Nancy Drew. After her death he married second Hannah Seaburgh, who was born Dec. 17, 1844, a daughter of John Seaburgh* and Margarie Snyder. At the time of her marriage to Jasper she was the widow of John Seaburgh, who, so far as known, was no relation to her. By her first husband Hannah had one daughter, Laura, born Dec. 2, 1867. Jasper is a carpenter and lives at 4 Charles St., Albany. The following record of his children was taken from an old family Bible, in which the name was usually spelled Bonker. By his first wife he had:

Alvin E. Palmer, bo. Aug. 4, 1861;

Emeline P., bo. Oct. 1, 1863;

Alfred P., bo. Aug. 27, 1865;

Jennie, bo. Jan. 27, 1871.

By his second wife he had:

Edward, bo. Oct. 15, 1883.

Alvin married, July 4, 1886, Minnie Fletcher. He is a painter and lives in Brookview, N. Y. He has seven children; Arthur, Thomas, born Sept. 16, 1887, Alvin, Lizzie, Harry, Hattie, and Edith.

Alfred married, Oct. 12, —, Hester Wickham, who was born Mar. 11, 1868, a daughter of J. and S. Wickham. Alfred is a paperhanger and resides at 15 Gansevoort St., Albany. He has four children: Charles, born about 1890; Henry, born about 1892; Harry, born about 1895; and Bertie, born about 1897.

ADAM BANKER OF BALTIMORE.

415. ADAM BANKER lived in Baltimore, Md., and was a millwright. Nothing further could be learned of his ancestry and I cannot identify him with any of the lines that I have traced, but see page 339. He died in Indiana Oct. 10, 1868.* He had four children as follows:

- 416. John, bo. Apr. 18, 1818;
Emanuel;
Christopher, bo. Oct. 19, 1826;
Daniel;

Emanuel and Daniel have been traced no further.

Christopher married, Mar. 9, 1848, Elizabeth Carney.† He was a farmer and stock-raiser and lived in Salina county, Kan., where he died Oct. 19, 1898. He enlisted as a private in the Civil War and served in the 167th Ohio National Guards. He had four children: John A., born Dec. 23, 1848; Walter E., born June 7, 1853; William H., born Oct. 13, 1857; and Annie C., born Jan. 11, 1863. The children all live in Salina, Kan.

416. JOHN BANKER (415) was born Apr. 18, 1818. He married Elizabeth Kearney, who was born Jan. 27, 1820, a daughter of Michael Kearney.‡ He was a farmer and lived in Butler county, Ohio, until 1849, after that in Shelby county, Ind., then with his son Demetrius in Kansas, where he died Oct. 30, 1890. He had five children as follows:

Adoniram Judson, bo. Jan. 8, 1845;
Wilson Thompson, bo. Apr. 6, 1848;
Lavina Ellen, bo. May 5, 1852;
Mary Belle, bo. Dec. 12, 1854.

Demetrius married, Mar. 8, 1864, Sarah Jane Watson, who was born Apr. 1, 1845, a daughter of Clinton and Vashti Watson. He is a farmer and came to Shelby county, Ind., with his father in 1849, where he has since lived except from 1884 to 1893, when he lived in Kansas. He has seven children: Edwin Benham, born Jan. 10, 1865; Mary Elizabeth, born Mar. 8, 1868; John Roscoe, born Aug. 18, 1870; Minnie Belle, born Feb. 21, 1873; Ora Clinton, born Jan. 13, 1875; Edith Luella, born Apr. 5, 1881; and Earl Judson, born Oct. 12, 1889.

Adoniram married Mary H. Boyd, a daughter of Ezekiel C. Boyd. He is a physician and surgeon of eminent ability. He is the proprietor of the Columbus Surgical Hospital at Columbus, Ind. He is a graduate of the Indiana Medical College, Indianapolis, of Bellevue Hospital and Medical College, New York, and of the Polyclinic, Chicago, Ill. He is ex-United States Examining Surgeon; Surgeon for the P. C. C. & St. L. Railroad and the Big Four Railroad; Professor of Surgery in the Central College of Physicians and Surgeons, Indianapolis; ex-professor of obstetrics in Central College; and delegate to the Tubercular Congress, Berlin, Germany. He has no children.

Wilson is a physician associated with his brother in the management of the Hospital at Columbus, Ind. He married Hattie E. Keith and has eight children: Mary Elizabeth, Thomas A., William, born Nov. 24, 1883, Ethel Amina, Edna Lavina, Mildred Rose, John Keith, and Helena Martha. William is a draughtsman and lives at 3558 Prairie Ave., Chicago.

Lavina lives in Burlington, Kansas.

Mary lives in Columbus, Ind.

EBENEZER BANKER.

417. EBENEZER BANKER was a farmer and lived in Auburn, N. Y., where he purchased property as early as 1829. He was associated with Levi Banker in the ownership of land near Auburn in 1833. These facts incline me to believe that he was a brother of Levi and probably a son of Peter.* In 1839 he went to Jonesville, Mich., and the next year bought 160 acres from the government three and a half miles southwest of Hillsdale near where the village of Bankers now stands. He died here Apr. 26, 1847. He married Janette Gloud and had eight children as follows:

Horace E.;

Charles A.;

* See page 228.

George Gloud, bo. Jan. 1, 1830;
Eliza Jane;
Mary H.;
Evaline N.;
Caroline O.;
James H.

Charles, Caroline, and James died before 1903.

Horace has not been traced.

George married first, in 1853, Mary O. Kelly. She died Aug. 6, 1896, and he married second, Mar. 2, 1898, Ellen M. Thurston, who was born Oct. 25, 1862, a daughter of Stephen and Sarah King Thurston. George was a baggage-man for the old Michigan Southern Railroad for some years, but in 1854 he bought a farm directly across the road from his father's, where he lived to the time of his death, Jan. 20, 1900. He was sheriff of Hillsdale county for four years, having been elected in November, 1888. His widow is living in Hillsdale, Mich. He had two children by his first wife, Ebenezer and Georgiana. By his second marriage he had one daughter, Violet, born Feb. 11, 1899.

Eliza married a Cooper and died in 1885.

Mary married a Gale and was living in Toledo, Ohio, in 1903.

Evaline married, in 1867, Justis Gray, a merchant of Hillsdale, Mich., and afterward moved to Kalamazoo, where she lives at 730 West Willard St. She has one son, Fred Justin, born Oct. 22, 1870. He is a traveling salesman in the hardware business. He is married and has one son, Robert B., born Oct. 9, 1898, in Hillsdale.

LAWRENCE BONKER OF NEW MARLBOROUGH, ULSTER CO., N. Y.

418. LAWRENCE BONKER was a soldier of the Revolution. I think that he was in all probability the son of Rombout Bancker, born Apr. 27, 1728.* He enlisted in the 5th Reg't of the New York Line under Col. Lewis Dubois and died in the service at Johnstown, N. Y., in 1779. He is reported to have left the service July 3, 1779. This is probably the date of his death. His family were living in the Precinct of New Marlborough, Ulster Co., at that time, and his wife, Mary, received supplies of wheat from the state from February to April, 1779. In 1781, Mary gave bonds for the administration of the estate of her husband as also at the same time for the administration of the estate of her son, William, late a soldier in Col. Dubois's Reg't. She probably afterward married a Jackson. Lawrence appears to have had the following children:

William;
Solomon;
Abraham;
John;
Hannah.

William was a soldier of the Revolutionary War. He enlisted Feb. 10, 1777, as a private in Capt. Amos Hutchings's Company in the 5th Reg't of the New York Line under Col. Dubois. He was taken prisoner at the capture of Ft. Montgomery Oct. 6, 1777, was discharged Feb. 28, 1778, and died before Apr. 10, 1780. There seems to be some uncertainty about his death, and it may have occurred soon after his capture, very possibly while confined in the loathsome British prisons in New York. By virtue of his service he obtained a right to six hundred acres of land known as Lot Number 77, in the township of Ovid in the Military Tract. On June 20, 1791, Solomon Bonker of Memacatling, Ulster Co., N. Y., John Bonker of Sussex county, N. J., and Mary Bonker, "now called Mary Jackson," of Sussex county, N. J., sold this lot to Abraham Westfall. According to a later deed given by Westfall for this same tract John Bonker and Mary Bonker are said to be heirs of William Bonker, deceased, but nothing is said as to Solomon. In 1802, Abraham Bonker of Clarkstown, Rockland Co., N. Y., Hannah Miller of Plattstown, Ulster Co., N. Y., and John Bonker of Wautage, Sussex Co., N. J., said to be brothers and sister and heirs at law of William Bonker, sold "three full and equal undivided fourth parts" of Lot No. 77 in the township of Ovid, to Philip Ross. It is on the ground of these records that I conclude that William, Solomon, John, Abraham, and Hannah were brothers and sister, and children of Lawrence and Mary Bonker of New Marlborough.

Solomon was also a soldier in the Revolutionary War and served in Capt. David Ostrander's Company of Col. Johannes Johnson's Reg't, the 4th Ulster Co. Militia, for which he received 16s., the company being out from June 21 to June 29, 1780. He served under Col. Marinus Willet in the Levies that joined the 5th New York Reg't from July 25 to Dec. 15, 1780, for which he received £12, 10s. 8d. He then served in Capt. Gilbert J. Livingston's Company (also called Capt. John Burnet's Company) of Col. Albert Pawling's Reg't of New York Levies from April to December 19, 1781, for which he received £20, 16s. He also served in Capt. Andrew White's Company of Col. Frederick Weissenfal's Reg't of New York State Levies from May to Dec. 31, 1782, for which he received £21, 6s. 8d. He married Debora Numan in the Dutch Reformed Church of New Paltz, Mar. 21, 1784, and was living in Memakating, Ulster Co., now Sullivan Co., about 1790, at which time he had two boys.

The family was not traced further.

STEPHEN BANKER OF HAMLIN.

419. STEPHEN BANKER married Eunice ———. He lived in the town of Hamlin, N. Y., where he died July 26, 1865. His wife died May 16, 1899. He had at least five children as follows:

William H.;
John W.;
Amanda M.;
Mary;
Sarah.

William lived in Hamlin in 1865 and in Gainse, N. Y., in 1899.

John married Helen E. ———. He lived in Hamlin in 1865, but died before 1899. He had at least three children: John, Elmer F., and Minnie. He also had an adopted son, Burton J., who lived in Knowlesville, N. Y. Of these children John married Jennie ——— and lived in Syracuse, N. Y., in 1899. Elmer lived in Yuba, Washington. Minnie married an Underdaunk and lived in Syracuse, N. Y.

Amanda married Reuben Paine, Jr. She lived in Hamlin in 1865 and in Clarkson, N. Y., in 1899.

Mary married Edwin Ross. She lived in Sweden, N. Y., in 1865 and in Kuckville, Orleans Co., in 1899.

Sarah married Elisha Underhill and lived in Litchfield, Montgomery Co., Ill., in 1865. She died before 1899. She had four children; Dora, Phoebe, William, and Henry. Dora married a Campfield and lived in Kansas City, Kan., in 1899. Phoebe married a Rollins and lived in Rome City, Ind. The two boys were living in southern Missouri. All were over 21 years old.

THOMAS BANKER OF DELAWARE CO.

420. THOMAS BANKER lived in Delaware county, New York. He had a large family, of whom there is known only:

421. James B., bo. January, 1830.

421. JAMES B. BANKER (420) married, in August, 1858, at Franklin, Delaware Co., N. Y., Helen E. Freer, who was born in October, 1840, a daughter of Minard and Rhoda Freer. He was a shoemaker before the war. He enlisted in the 7th Mich. Inf. in 1861. Since the war he has been a cook, residing chiefly in Philadelphia. He has two children:

Willis G., bo. Sept. 8, 1859;

Florence A., bo. Mar. 8, 1862.

Willis married, Sept. 15, 1885, at Estherville, Iowa, Mary T. Bingham, a daughter of Lemuel R. Bingham and Martha Tracy. He was educated at the Delaware Literary Institute, Franklin, N. Y., 1874- 1878. He engaged in business in Iowa from 1878 to 1882. He then entered the Western Theological Seminary at Allegheny, Pa., where he remained three years. He became a Presbyterian minister and supplied at Denison, Iowa, from 1885 to 1887, was pastor in Greenfield, Mo., 1887 to 1890, then at McPherson, Kan., until 1894, and since then he has been at Lawrence, Kan. He received the degree of A. M. from the University of Kansas in 1895. He has four children: Julian Warfield, born Apr. 6, 1887; Bertha Bingham, born May 30, 1889; Willis Rothwell, born Jan. 25, 1893; and Martha Tracy, born Sept. 30, 1898.

Florence married the Rev. C. P. Boardman and lives at 3716 Portland Ave., Minneapolis, Minn.

JOHN BANKER OF VERMONT.

422. JOHN BANKER married Elizabeth Nichols, who was born Mar. 2, 1825. He was a stone-cutter and lived in Vermont.

He died in 1881 and his wife died in 1896. He had seven children as follows; George W., Howard E., Abbie A., Mary A., Hattie E., Sarah F., and Martha J. All are dead except Mary, Hattie, and Sarah. It is supposed that John had brothers living in New York state named George Washington, Sidney, Elias, and Marcus. There was also a Vinal in the family.

Hattie E. married a Brown and lives in Rowley, Mass.

Martha J. married C. E. Harrigan, who was born in 1864, a son of Daniel and Laura Harrigan. Her husband is a painter and they lived in Newburyport, Mass., in 1906. She died in June, 1907. She had three children: Elsie M., born Mar. 22, 1884; Everette D., born June 21, 1886; and Homer A., born June 13, 1892.

From the names in this family, the probable date of John's birth, his location in Vermont, and the traditions concerning family names I felt confident that John was the son of John Banker No. 40, page 70, but I was assured by Elias Banker that his brother John died in infancy.

JAMES BANKER.

423. JAMES BANKER was born about 1750. I have not been able to identify him with any of the lines which I have traced. He married Phoebe Sherer. He was a soldier of the Revolution and enlisted as a private in Capt. John Doughty's Company* of Col. John Lamb's Continental Artillery. He held the position of matross, and in 1781 received £39 pay. He also became entitled to a right of 600 acres of land in the Military Tract for his services in the war. This right he sold Mar. 4,

---

* This company has had a remarkable history. It was first organized Mar. 14, 1776, as the "New York Provincial Company of Artillery," under Capt. Alexander Hamilton. With the Declaration of Independence it changed its name to the "New York State Company of Artillery." During the struggle for New York City and the retreat across the Jerseys the company was frequently engaged and did excellent service. In March, 1777, Hamilton was promoted to Washington's staff, and the New York Convention authorized the transfer of the company to the service of the United States. Washington at once appointed Capt. John Doughty to its command and it was attached to the newly organized 2d Regiment of Artillery under Col. John Lamb. The company saw active service throughout the war, being engaged at Brandywine, Germantown, Monmouth, and Yorktown. At the close of the war, when the Continental Army was disbanded, this company was retained in the United States service, where it has maintained an unbroken record to the present. It is now known as Battery F, 4th Reg't, U. S. Art.

1791, to Wm. McKown for £40.* After the war he lived near Sackett's Harbor, but after 1812 he moved to Canada. In 1829, he was living in Springsport, Cayuga Co., N. Y., and in 1839 he moved to Oakland county, Mich., to live with some of his children. He died sometime after 1843, said to have been over 100 years old. He drew a pension of $96 a year. His name is written in his papers both Bancker and Banker. He had eight children as follows; Matilda, Amy, Lucretia, Phoebe Ann, Caroline, Harry, Platt, and William S.

Platt died young. William S. returned from Canada to the States about 1834 and was living with his son, E. Warren, in Lansingburgh, N. Y., in 1902. Both are now dead. A son or grandson of E. Warren, Capt. Edward Warren Banker, is in the United States Marines, now (1909) on duty at headquarters, Washington, D. C. He is engaged to Katherine Bruce Langtry, a daughter of George Langtry of New Orleans.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

MISCELLANEOUS NOTES.

424. DELIVERANCE BONKER was born in Cortland Manor about 1728 and belonged to the militia company of Capt. Jas. Tallier. He enlisted Apr. 4, 1758, in Capt. John Verplank's Company for the French and Indian War. He is described as 5 ft. 8 in. high with gray eyes, fair complexion, and round features. He appears to have enlisted again the next year, Mar. 29, 1759, in Capt. Gilchrist's Company. He again enlisted in the latter company, Apr. 17, 1760, when his height is given as 6 ft. It seems very possible that he may have been a son of Hendrick Bancker No. 5, and would, therefore, come between Rachel and Hendrick. It may be noted that there is a five year gap in the record at this point which he seems to properly fill, but see Gregorius, following.

425. GREGORIUS BANCKER enlisted from Philipsburg for the French and Indian War Apr. 11, 1758. He is described as 5 ft. 9 in. high, with gray eyes and a round face. He had been in the militia company of Capt. Del. Conkling. He was born about 1728. He and Jannetje Bancker were sponsors at the baptism of Frederick, son of Hendrick Banker, No. 37. It is probable also that he enlisted in Capt. John Honeyman's Company for the expedition against Canada and was mustered in Sept. 26. 1746.

426. JACOB BONCKER, born in Philipsburg about 1740, enlisted in Capt. John Verplank's Company for the French and Indian War Apr. 8, 1758. He belonged to the militia company of Nathaniel Hyatt and is described as 5 ft. 8 in. high, with gray eyes and a round, ruddy countenance.

427. JOHN BANKER, born in Philipsburg about 1738, enlisted Apr. 13, 1758, in Capt. Jonathan Fowler's Company for the French and Indian War. He had been in the militia company of Capt. Gilbert Drake and is described as 5 ft. 11 in. high, with brown eyes, and "long say round visage."

428. JOHN BANKER from West Jersey enlisted Apr. 2, 1758, in Capt. John McEver's Company of the New York troops. He is described as of a brown complexion. A John Banker died in the army in 1758.

429. JOHN BANCKER was a soldier of the Revolution. He was pursued and apprehended as a suspect by Capt. Henry Humpey in November, 1777. He enlisted Jan. 9, 1778, as a private in Capt. John Johnson's Company of the 5th Reg't of the New York Line under Col. Dubois for the war, was transferred about May, 1779, to Major Samuel Logan's Company in the same regiment, and deserted Mar. 1, 1780. He resided in Nine Partners, Dutchess Co., N. Y. There was a John Bancker who served in Capt. Isaac Van Wyck's Company of Col. Abraham Brinckerhoff's Reg't, the 2d Dutchess Co. Militia, to June 11, 1779, for which he received £1, 3d.; also one who served in Capt. Peter Roosa's Company of Col. Johannes Johnson's Reg't of Ulster Co. militia from Apr. 27, to May 10, 1780, in the service of the United States by order of Gov. Clinton, for which he received £19, 6½d. It is not certain that these are all the same John Bancker.

430. BETHUEL BANCKER was a soldier of the Revolution and was associated with John above. He was pursued and apprehended as a suspect at the same time as John by Capt. Henry Humpey in November, 1777. He is mentioned as in Capt. John Johnson's Company in the 5th Reg't of the New York Line with the following record: "Entered Jan. 9, 1778, for the war, deserted 1st muster, mustered June, 1778, Corporal Oct., 1779, deserted Mar., 1780." He was also in Major's Company of the same regiment and was absent on furlough from Jan. 6, 1780, to Feb. 4, 1780.

431. JACOBUS BANCKER, a Revolutionary soldier, was born in Fishkill about 1756 and is described as 5 ft. 7 in. high, with light hair and complexion. He served as a private in Capt. Samuel Sacket's Company of the 4th New York Line under Col. Henry B. Livingston. He enlisted Jan. 11, 1777, for the war and deserted Oct. 11, 1777. He was pursued and apprehended with Bethuel and John as a suspect by Capt. Humpey in November, 1777. He or another served in Capt. John Crane's Company of Col. Henry Ludeington's Reg't, the 7th Dutchess Co. Militia to June 16, 1779, for which he received £1, 15s. 11d.

432. STEPHEN BANKER, a Revolutionary soldier, served in Col. Hopkin's Reg't in the year 1777 at Peekskill. He served in Col. Abraham Brinckerhoff's Reg't of Dutchess Co. Militia in 1779 and 1780, for which he received 11s. 4½d. This service was from June 1 to 11, 1779, and from June 7 to 12, 1780, in each case on a general alarm to repel the enemy by order of Gov. Clinton. He also served in Capt. John Van Benschoten's Company of Col. Roswell Hopkin's Reg't of militia of the State of New York in the service of the United States at Fishkill from Oct. 10, to Nov. 22, 1779, both days included; also including two days marching home, 40 miles, for which he received £3, 3s. 3d. The above is doubtless, in part at least, the Stephen Banker described on page 145.

433. THOMAS BANKER, a Revolutionary soldier, served in Capt. Lemuel Conklin's Company of Col. Morris Graham's Reg't to Nov. 24, 1779, for which he received £4, 3s. He served as a private in Capt. Leonard Bleecker's Company of the 3d Reg't of the New York Line under Col. Peter Gansevoort. He enlisted July 15, 1780, for five months and was discharged Dec. 15, 1780. He then enlisted in Capt. Gilbert J. Livingston's Company of Col. Albert Pawling's Reg't of New York Levies and served from April to Dec. 21, 1781, for which he received £17, 6s. 8d. He also served in Col. William Humphrey's Reg't of Dutchess Co. militia. The above is doubtless, in part at least, the Thomas Banker described on page 58.

434. FREDERICK BANCKER, a Revolutionary soldier, served as private in Capt. Gilbert Dean's Company of Col. James Hammond's Reg't of New York militia at various times between Mar. 20 and Aug. 1, 1777, a total of 23 days. He served in Capt. Henry Humphrey's Company of New Levies raised by order of the Governor for the defence of the frontiers. This service ended Dec. 14, 1780, for which he received £3, 13s. 9d. It seems very probable that the above is the Frederick Banker described on page 59. There was also a Frederick Bancker in Col. John Hathorn's Reg't of Orange Co. militia.

435. JAMES BANCKER, a Revolutionary soldier, served in 1780 in Capt. Lothrop Allen's Company of Col. John Harper's Reg't, for which he received a total of £17, 8s. 5d. He was at Fort Herkimer in September and at Albany Dec. 1, 1780. The service ended Nov. 30, 1780. He was very probably the James Banker who afterwards served in the artillery. See page 349.

436. JUSTUS BANKER, a Revolutionary soldier, served in Col. John Hathorn's Reg't of Orange Co. militia, for which he received a total of £39, 2s. 11¼d. It seems possible that the name should have been Bunker. There was a family of that name in Orange county at this date.

437. ABRAHAM BONKER, a Revolutionary soldier of North Castle, Westchester Co., served in Capt. Jacob Purdy's Company of Col. Thomas Thomas's Reg't, the 2d Westchester Co. Militia, to July 16, 1779, for which he received £3, 15s. 6d.

438. JOHN BANCKER was a member of Anthony Winne's Class of Capt. Van Arnen's Company in Col. Philip P. Schuyler's Reg't of militia in 1782. He was in the 3d Reg't of the New York Line.

439. NICHOLAS BANCKER, a Revolutionary soldier, served in Col. Henry Ludenton's Reg't of Dutchess Co. militia.

440. GERARD BANCKER was a member of Col. Cuyler's Reg't in Albany in 1782. He may have been Gerrit. See page 285.

441. HESTER BANKER was a sponsor with Johannes Lyfer at the baptism of Johannes, son of Frans Breyert and Jannitje, June 3, 1740 in the Sleepy Hollow church. She was undoubtedly of the Laurens Bancker family, but I cannot place her further.

442. MARY BANKER, according to George W. Cocks, of Glen Cove, N. Y., was the wife of Jacob Covert, and they resided in the vicinity of Peekskill in 1760. He was supposed to be from Long Island and she was believed to be a descendant of Laurens Bankert and Niesje DeGroot. I cannot identify her with any one in these records.

443. MATHEUS BANKER and his wife Rebecca had a daughter, Rachel, baptized at Sleepy Hollow June 21, 1762. The sponsors were William Artse and his wife, Maritje. It has not been possible to determine whose son Matheus was. He was undoubtedly a grandson of Laurens, but beyond that it has not been possible to go.

444. ADRIAN BANCKER was one of the Deacons of the Reformed Protestant Dutch Church in the City of New York in 1769 and was one of a committee of four elders and four deacons who had charge of the building of the church that year for English service. Whether this was Adrian No. 335 or Adrian No. 309 I cannot decide, but think it was probably the latter.

445. ABRAHAM BANCKER, a shoemaker of New York City, married Abigail King, the license being dated Apr. 20, 1771. He had at least one son, John K. Bancker, a merchant of New York, who married Margaret ———. John owned a farm in Fishkill three or four years before his death. He also owned property in Newburgh. He died between Sept. 5 and Oct. 22, 1804, and had at least two children, John Mason and Delia.

446. WILLEMYNTJE BANKER was the wife of Abraham Ecker according to the Sleepy Hollow records, but I cannot identify her. She and her husband were sponsors at the baptism of Willemyntje, daughter of Jacob and Jenneke Ecker, June 17, 1783. See page 53. They were also sponsors at the baptism of Abraham, son of Sybout and Engeltje Ecker, Apr. 17, 1773. See page 49.

447. RACHEL BANKER, wife of Gerrit Gersen, witnessed a baptism in Hackensack, N. J., Oct. 17, 1773.

448. STEVEN BANKER, of Fishkill, married Rebecca Heermans, of Rhinebeck, in New Hackensack, Jan. 16, 1773.

449. STEVEN BANKER married Catharine Stevens and had Maria, born Sept. 2, 1778. The witnesses at this baptism, which occurred in New Hackensack, were Gerardus Bancker and his mother, Maria Ogden. This item is somewhat perplexing. It seems that Steven must be an error for John. So far as known, Maria Ogden (Bancker) had no son Steven. The name does not occur in that line of Banckers. Maria, however, had a son John, who married for his second wife Catharine Stevens and was living in the vicinity of Poughkeepsie at about this time or a little later. See the records of this family on page 283.

450. JOHANNES BANCKER married Geertruyd Jacobi in Albany, Apr. 19, 1778. He was perhaps the John Banker who was a private in a company of militia in Albany in 1767, and may have been also the John Banker who was elected constable of the 2d ward in Albany Sept. 29, 1782. He had at least three children: Henry, born Feb. 9, 1779; Margarita, bapt. Oct. 27, 1780; and Abram, born Dec. 16, 1790. It seems probable that Johannes belongs to the Gerrit Bancker family, but I am not able to connect him; in fact the only possible connection appears to be that he was a son of Johannes No. 346, but there is nothing to show that Johannes had more than the one son, Gerrit.

451. ABRAHAM BANCKER married Mary Sitcher in New York City. He had at least four children: Henry, born June 5, 1792; Mary, born Aug. 30, 1794; Rachel, born Feb. 1, 1797; and Sophia, born Sept. 29, 1799.

452. HENRY BANKER purchased 100 acres of land in Carmel, N. Y., May 7, 1803.

453. JEREMIAH BONKER, according to a register of deeds in Auburn, N. Y., made a conveyance of his right to lands in the Military Tract to Stephen Mapes, Oct. 25, 1791.

454. OLIVER BONKER (or Bancker) and wife Hannah, sold land in Aurelius, Cayuga Co., N. Y., Apr. 18, 1810. An Oliver Bonker with a wife and two sons was living in Bedford, Westchester Co., in 1790.

455. JAMES BANCKER bought land in Oppenheim, Montgomery Co., N. Y., in 1814.

456. ISAAC BANKER, of Marcellus, Onondaga Co., N. Y., bought Lot 36 in Marcellus Dec. 4, 1816, and sold it the next spring.

457. JAMES W. BANCKER was a circus-rider and when a boy was connected with the North Pearl St. Circus in Albany, N. Y. He first rode in Albany in 1823 at a circus located on the corner of Eagle and State Streets. When the North Pearl Street Circus opened in 1826, he was one of the first company and rode the first horse and threw the first somersault in the house. He became riding master later. This amphitheater, or hippodrome, was at that time one of the most spacious and perfect in its appointments in the Union. In 1857, he was the only one of the original company living and was then time agent for Sloat and Shephard's Circus. He also conducted a circus on Beaver Street between Green and South Market. In 1860 the Albany Morning Express, speaking of the Pearl Street Circus, said: "There is only one left of that immortal horse opera house and that is Jim Bancker, who looks as young and agile as he did twenty-five years ago. Jim keeps a splendid saloon on Walnut Street above Eighth, Philadelphia."

458. W. BANCKER was a circus-rider in the North Pearl Street Circus in Albany, N. Y., in 1826. He is mentioned in connection with "J. Bancker," and was probably a brother of James Bancker described above.

459. DANIEL BANKER was a farmer of Putnam county, N. Y., and lived in the town of Carmel. It seems probable that he was married, July 3, 1795, to Mary Burgdough by the Rev. Silas Constant at Yorktown. I cannot identify him, but think he belongs in the Jacob Bancker family of Chapter XIX. He died intestate Aug. 10, 1833, and left a widow, Mary, and ten children as follows; Elizabeth, Harriet, Phoebe, Parmelia, Alson, Jacob, Elias, Silas, Mary, and Louisa. Elizabeth married Charles Agor. Harriet married Job Wright, who died before 1833. Phoebe was unmarried in 1846. Parmelia, unmarried, joined the Presbyterian Church at Hanover in January, 1825. Alson married Emeline ———. Jacob owned a farm adjoining his father's. He married Ann Maria ———, and was living as late as 1850. Elias purchased the interest of the other heirs in his father's farm, married Margaret Ann ———, and was living as late as 1861. Silas married Cornelia ——— and was a farmer of Carmel. He had at least four children; Daniel, Stephen, Sarah, and Mary. Sarah married a Purcell and Mary married a Wright. Silas died between Aug. 1, 1871, and Apr. 27, 1875, and his wife died between May 27 and June 15, 1871. Louisa married Seth Barret.

460. JOHN BANKER, of Peekskill, died July 18, 1834, aged 58 yrs., 1 mo. and 10 dys. He left a wife, Mary, and two daughters, Phoebe, who married Robert Slater, and Jane, who married Hugh W. McDonnell. He also had a daughter, Mary, who died July 7, 1809, aged 7 years, and a daughter, Jean, who died Mar. 6, 1806, aged 6 days.

461. ABRAHAM BANKER and wife, Phoebe, lived in New Castle, Westchester Co., N. Y., and sold land there in 1841. In 1860, they sold a piece of land to the Methodist Episcopal Church at Pine's Bridge.

462. ELI BANKER and wife, Cluda, lived in Pawling, Dutchess Co., N. Y., in 1842.

463. EUGENE DELAVAN BANKER married, July 3, 1849, Submit Tuttle, who was born May 28, 1822, a daughter of William Amos Tuttle and Prudence Marshall. His wife died without issue and nothing further is known of him.

464. SARAH BANKER, wife of Gerretson Banker of Yorktown, Westchester Co., N. Y., sold land there in 1850 and 1864.

465. MARY BANKER, who died in New York City in 1851, had a granddaughter Mary S. D., wife of Joseph E. Mount, at that time.

466. GERARD BANCKER and wife, Phoebe, of Yonkers, sold land there in 1853.

467. SAMUEL BONKER died intestate in Auburn, N. Y., Jan. 1, 1858, leaving no widow.

Arad Bonker, brother of Samuel, received letters of administration in the above estate Jan. 16, 1860.

469. CHARLES HENRY BANKER and wife, Maria, lived in Utica, N. Y., in 1869.

470. SARAH BANKER died in New York City between Mar. 22 and 29, 1875. Her maiden name is not known. She had a daughter not over 40 years old in 1875, who seems to have married first a man by the name of Moll, by whom she had a son, Edward Eugene, not 21 years old in 1875, and she afterward married some one by the name of Young, by whom she had at least one child, May De Forrest. Sarah also had a sister, Margaret, who married a Cox and had two daughters, Margaret and Catharine.

471. JAMES H. BANKER, of Tarrytown, made his will Jan. 22, 1884, and it was admitted to probate May 6, 1885. He was associated with Cornelius Vanderbilt and was connected in some way with the New York Central Railroad. He had a brother, Edward, and his wife was Ellen Josephine Gottsberger. He appears to have had no children. He was wealthy and owned a large estate near Tarrytown. His widow died in 1903 and distributed the estate by will chiefly to her relatives, nephews and nieces, giving besides $10,000 to Columbia University and $25,000 for the benefit of the Bloomingdale Insane Asylum in White Plains. It may be noted in this connection that a James H. Banker was appointed administrator of the estate of his father, Edward, who died intestate in New York City in 1866.

472. EDWARD W. BANKER, of the town of Cortlandt, Westchester Co., N. Y., died shortly before Feb. 26, 1892, and left at least a widow, Mary E. Jacobs.

Carson, who was born Feb. 3, 1852, a daughter of Darius and Mary Carson. He is a machinist and lived in Logan, Schuyler Co., N. Y., from 1857 after the death of his mother until 1871, when he went to Burdett, N. Y., where he lived for ten years. The next ten years he lived in Antrim, Pa. Since 1895 he has lived in Syracuse, N. Y., where he has charge of the works of the Direct Separator Co., and lives on a farm which he owns just outside of the city. He has had children: Walter P., born Apr. 7, 1873, and died July 12, 1899; John H., born Aug. 16, 1875; and Charles A., born Feb. 3, 1879.

474. JOHN BANKER lived in Lansingburgh, N. Y., about 1877. His wife, Margaret, died in December, 1876, leaving him with four small children. He was reported as a man of dissolute habits unfit to care for his children. He had: Margaret, born a little before 1863; Ernest, born Jan. 6, 1867; Joseph, born Feb. 8, 1871; and Emma, born May 1, 1874. Emma was committed to St. Vincent's Female Orphan Asylum by Duane Lockwood on Jan. 13, 1879. She died there Dec. 1, 1879. In 1889 letters of administration were issued to Ernest, at which time the whereabouts of Joseph and Margaret were unknown. These children had a half-sister, Mary, twenty-one years old in 1877.

475. MINNIE OLIVE BANKER was born Apr. 13, 1875, a daughter of Eugene Banker. Her mother died when she was but two weeks old and her father gave her for adoption to Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Sims. The papers of adoption are dated Hamilton, Litchfield Co., Conn., Apr. 19, 1876. Both of her adopted parents died before she was fourteen years old, and she has never learned anything of her parents or their relatives. She now lives at 136 Wooden St., Rochester, N. Y.

He had five children: Anne, who married a Gutkis and lives at 92 Van Dyke St., South Brooklyn; Mary, who married a Tourell; Julia, who married a Zeek; Charles; and Fred J., who married Mary Anthony. who spelled it as it sounded, Banker, and the family have continued to use the name so spelled. How the name may have been originally spelled it is now impossible to tell. According to the first census of the United States taken in 1790 the following were heads of families in New York State, not previously mentioned in this work. The census gives the number of males and females in the family, but for various reasons these figures are not to be trusted as representing the man's actual immediate family. In the following list the number of males is to be understood as in addition to the head of the family.

Blakma Bancker lived in the North ward of New York City with a family of two males under sixteen years and one female.

Henry Bancker lived in the same ward with a family of one male over sixteen and three females.

Henry Bancker lived in Pawlingtown, Dutchess Co., with a family of one male under sixteen and one female.

Abraham Banker lived in the North ward of New York City with a family of two males under sixteen and five females.

Ann Banker lived in the Out ward of New York City with a family of one male under sixteen and three females besides herself.

Daniel Banker lived in Middletown, Ulster Co., with a family of one male under sixteen and one female.

Henry Banker lived in the Out ward of New York with a family of one male under sixteen and one female.

John Banker lived in Montgomery ward of New York with a family of four females.

John Banker lived in the South ward of New York with a family of one male over sixteen, one male under sixteen, and four females.

Nathaniel Banker lived in Pittstown, Rensselaer Co., with a family of four males under sixteen and two females.

Abraham Bonker lived in North Castle, Westchester Co., with a family of one male over sixteen and three females.

Daniel Bonker lived also in North Castle with a family of two males under sixteen and four females.

Henry Bonker lived in North Castle with a family of one male under sixteen and two females.

Matthew Bonker lived in North Castle with a family of two males over sixteen, three males under sixteen, and three females.

John Bonker lived in Bedford, Westchester Co., with a family of three males under sixteen and three females.

John Bonker lived in Yorktown, Westchester Co., with a family of three females.

David Bouker lived in Yorktown with a family of two females. It seems probable that his name was Banker.

Stephen Bonker lived in Fishkill, Dutchess Co., with a family of one female.

William Bonker lived in Mt. Pleasant, Westchester Co., with a family of two males under sixteen and two females.

The following item appeared in a recent periodical. It has not been possible to determine what member of the family experienced this thrilling adventure:

There was a young lady named Banker

Who slept while the ship lay at anchor.

She awoke in dismay

When she heard the mate say,

“Now hoist up the top sheet and spanker.”

Ohe!

Jam satis est.—Horace.

SOURCES OF INFORMATION.

The following are the principal sources of information from which this work has been compiled, with comments as to their value. This is not a list of all the sources examined, but only of those from which actual information has been obtained.

FAMILY RECORDS.

1. FAMILY BIBLES. These vary greatly in reliability and their value can be estimated only by the appearance of the record. They are too numerous to list, but some of the more important are mentioned in the text.
2. ORAL TRADITION, including the memory of those living. The trustworthiness of oral tradition varies inversely as the square of the distance and directly as the idiosyncrasy of the narrator. A tradition which has come down through two or three generations is usually of little value in itself, but is frequently very suggestive of clues, which, followed up by more reliable methods, prove often fruitful in results. The memory of living persons, especially very old people, is one of the most valuable sources of information when properly used. Leading or suggestive questions should not be asked. The real object must be approached indirectly, leaving the memory free to follow its own lines of association. The writer has had some of his most thrilling experiences in such interviews and in two cases at least recovered the most important facts of relationship that were all but forgotten even by the aged one and in a few months would have been lost forever.
3. CORRESPONDENCE. The value of this source of information is highly variable, depending on the character of the correspondent and his sources of information. One check on such information is the comparison of the report of several different correspondents on the same subject. A discouraging difficulty here is the fact that they so frequently disagree. Nevertheless the genealogist must depend very largely on his correspondents for information concerning the later families.

4. TOMBSTONE RECORDS. These also vary greatly and need to be confirmed by other records where possible. The location of the more important ones is given in the text.

CHURCH RECORDS.

These are among the most valuable and reliable records we have. Errors sometimes occur but on the whole they are usually reliable. The Dutch were very particular about the baptism of their children and that rite was usually performed as soon as convenient after the birth of the child, sometimes within a few days, but, where the neighboring church received the ministrations of a pastor only at intervals of one, two, or three months, as was the case in the early days of the Sleepy Hollow Church, a much longer time necessarily intervened. The records of the early Dutch Reformed churches are especially full and complete, but in some cases the clerk evidently did not write for the special information of the future genealogist, while in other cases his records are all that one could desire.

5. REFORMED DUTCH CHURCH OF NEW YORK. This is one of the most complete and valuable church records that we have. The marriage records from 1639-1801 have been printed as Vol. 1 of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society's Collections. The record of baptisms for the same period has also been published in the volumes of the New York Genealogical and Biographical Record.
6. REFORMED DUTCH CHURCH OF SLEEPY HOLLOW, now Tarrytown. The records have recently been published in a volume entitled "Sleepy Hollow Church Records," by Rev. David Cole.
7. REFORMED DUTCH CHURCH OF BROOKLYN. The records have been published in the "Year Book of the Holland Society of New York" for 1897.
8. REFORMED DUTCH CHURCH OF FLATBUSH. The records have been published in the "Year Book of the Holland Society of New York" for 1898.

9. REFORMED DUTCH CHURCH OF TAPPAN. These records have been published in Cole's History of Rockland County. 1884.
10. REFORMED DUTCH CHURCH OF HOPEWELL, Dutchess Co. The original records are in possession of the pastor of the church, by whose permission they were consulted.
11. REFORMED DUTCH CHURCH OF POUGHKEEPSIE. A manuscript copy of the records is in possession of the Holland Society of New York, where it was consulted by permission of the secretary.
12. REFORMED DUTCH CHURCH OF THE FLATS, near Nether Rhinebeck, Dutchess Co. A manuscript copy of the records in possession of the Holland Society of New York was consulted by permission of the secretary.
13. REFORMED DUTCH CHURCH OF NEW HACKENSACK, Dutchess Co. A manuscript copy of the records was consulted at the rooms of the Holland Society.
14. REFORMED DUTCH CHURCH OF RHINEBECK, Dutchess Co. A manuscript copy of the records was consulted at the rooms of the Holland Society.
15. REFORMED DUTCH CHURCH OF KINGSTON. The records of this church have been published by the Rev. Roswell R. Hoes. 1891.
16. REFORMED DUTCH CHURCH OF NEW PALTZ, Ulster Co. The records have been published in the Collections of the Holland Society of New York. 1896.
17. REFORMED DUTCH CHURCH OF HACKENSACK, N. J. These have been published in the Collections of the Holland Society. 1891.
18. FIRST AND SECOND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCHES OF NEW YORK. These records have been published in the New York Genealogical and Biographical Record.

COUNTY RECORDS.

The most important of these are the records of the Surrogate's Courts and the records of deeds. For genealogical purposes citations are frequently more valuable than the wills. Deeds occasionally recite the family history for a generation. While errors sometimes occur, these records are usually accurate and reliable, but too fragmentary as a rule to furnish more than important connecting links at times. Frequently they are invaluable for this purpose. The following records have been examined personally.

19. ALBANY COUNTY RECORDS at Albany, N. Y. These records are among the oldest in the state.
20. CAYUGA COUNTY RECORDS at Auburn, N. Y. Although the records are not old, dating from about 1799, they are one of the most valuable collections that we have, as they contain many transfers of the claims of Revolutionary soldiers to the Military Lands.
21. DUTCHESS COUNTY RECORDS at Poughkeepsie, N. Y. As one of the original counties of the state located in the main channel of the migratory movement from New York and Connecticut, the records often furnish unexpected clues.
22. FULTON COUNTY RECORDS at Johnstown, N. Y. These records are of only local interest.
23. GREENE COUNTY RECORDS at Catskill, N. Y.
24. MONROE COUNTY RECORDS at Rochester, N. Y.
25. MONTGOMERY COUNTY RECORDS at Fonda, N. Y. As this county was one of the first to be set off from Albany and at first and during the Revolutionary period included nearly all the country west of Albany, it possesses the records of the early settlers of the most of this region dating from about 1770.
26. NEW YORK COUNTY RECORDS at New York City. Probably the most valuable of all our county records and containing many that would naturally be looked for in other counties.
27. ONEIDA COUNTY RECORDS at Utica, N. Y.
28. ONONDAGA COUNTY RECORDS at Syracuse, N. Y.
29. ORANGE COUNTY RECORDS at Goshen, N. Y.
30. PUTNAM COUNTY RECORDS at Carmel, N. Y.
31. RENSSELAER COUNTY RECORDS at Troy, N. Y.
32. SARATOGA COUNTY RECORDS at Ballston, N. Y.
33. SCHENECTADY COUNTY RECORDS at Schenectady, N. Y.

34. ULSTER COUNTY RECORDS at Kingston, N. Y. The records are very old, this being one of the original counties.
35. WAYNE COUNTY RECORDS at Lyons, N. Y.
36. WESTCHESTER COUNTY RECORDS at White Plains, N. Y. One of the original counties.

MISCELLANEOUS OFFICIAL RECORDS.

Most of these are thoroughly reliable and pertain to civil transactions or military service. Many of these are to be found in the state archives or are deposited in the State Library.

37. TOWN RECORDS OF FLATBUSH in the Brooklyn Hall of Records, Brooklyn, N. Y.
38. WILLS AND SETTLEMENTS OF ESTATES on file in the office of the clerk of the Court of Appeals, and of the Secretary of State, Albany.
39. MARRIAGE BONDS given for marriage licenses issued by the Secretary of the Province of New York before 1784. These bonds are on file in the office of the Secretary of State in Albany, N. Y.

LOCAL HISTORIES.

Local histories are secondary sources of information. They have not, therefore, the value of original documents or primary sources. They are, however, invaluable as guides and frequently give information that can no longer be obtained anywhere else. Their reliability varies with the personality of the author and with the facilities which he may have had for accumulating original information.

63. HISTORY OF HARLEM. By James Riker. 1881. A valuable history, especially as the original documents are now lost.

64. ANNALS OF NEWTOWN, Queens County, N. Y. A history of the town and its vicinity from the first settlement. By James Riker. 1852.
65. ANNALS OF STATEN ISLAND, from its discovery to the present time. By J. J. Clute. 1877.
66. HISTORY OF PUTNAM COUNTY, N. Y., with biographical sketches of its prominent men. By William S. Pelletreau. 1886.
67. HISTORY OF WESTCHESTER COUNTY, N. Y. A history of the county from its first settlement to the present time carefully revised by the author. By Rev. Robert Bolton. 1881. I have found this work misleading.
68. HISTORY OF LAKE CHAMPLAIN from its first exploration by the French in 1609 to the close of the year 1814. By Peter S. Palmer. 1866.
69. MEMORIAL HISTORY OF THE CITY OF NEW YORK from its first settlement to the year 1892. By J. G. Wilson. 1892-93.
70. HISTORY OF ORANGE COUNTY, N. Y., with illustrations and biographical sketches of many of its pioneers and prominent men. By E. M. Ruttenber and L. H. Clark. 1881.
71. HISTORY OF ROCKLAND COUNTY, N. Y., with biographical sketches of its prominent men. By David Cole. 1884. An especially valuable feature of this history is that it contains the baptismal registers of the Reformed Churches at Tappan and Clarkstown.

GENEALOGIES.

The same remarks apply to genealogies that were made in respect to local histories, except that the original sources of information are more frequently lost in the case of the former and the genealogy becomes, therefore, more valuable as the only source of information.

72. GENEALOGICAL NOTES from New York and New England families. By S. V. Talcott. 1883. So far as I can judge this is a trustworthy compilation by a careful worker.
73. GENEALOGY OF THE DE PEYSTER FAMILY. By John Watts De Peyster. 1854. This is a somewhat crude compilation, acknowledged by the author to be full of errors, yet valuable as the only source of information respecting some lines.

74. SCHENECTADY FAMILIES. Contributions for the genealogies of the descendants of the first settlers of the patent and city of Schenectady from 1662 to 1800. By Jonathan Pearson. 1873.
75. ALBANY FAMILIES. Contributions for the genealogies of the first settlers of the ancient county of Albany from 1630 to 1800. By Jonathan Pearson. 1872. Pearson was a careful historian and a thorough-going genealogist and his work is as reliable as a genealogy can be.
76. AMERICAN GENEALOGY, being the history of some of the early settlers in North America and their descendants from their first emigration to the present time. By Jerome B. Holgate. 1848. This is one of our standard genealogical works.
77. NEWCOMB FAMILY GENEALOGY. By John B. Newcomb. 1874. A well written work and on the whole as reliable as can be expected.
78. WHITNEY FAMILY OF CONNECTICUT. By S. W. Phoenix. 1878. A monumental work in three immense volumes, apparently trustworthy as to the American lines, but I understand that the author was victimized as to his European ancestry by a professional genealogist.
79. GENEALOGY OF THE DE VEAUX FAMILY. By Thomas F. DeVoe. 1885. This appears to be a fairly reliable and carefully prepared genealogy.
80. GENEALOGY OF THE BANCKER FAMILY, for about one hundred years. Revived by Adrian Bancker, 1838. This is a chart in the form of a tree. It shows the lines of descent of the first three generations of the descendants of Gerrit Bancker. It seems probable that the work is based on some older manuscript records, but evidently also in part on tradition. It contains numerous errors both in dates and names, yet is helpful in recovering the early records of the family and in a few lines is the only source of information that I know of. Only four copies are known to exist. I have had the privilege of examining this unique and curious work through the kindness of Mr. John Gribbel of Philadelphia. A reduced reproduction of this chart is given facing page 239.

81. THE DESCENDANTS OF WILLIAM AND ELIZABETH TUTTLE. By George Frederick Tuttle. 1883. A good, trustworthy genealogy.
82. THE VAUGHAN FAMILY. Some statements as to the ancestry of the Vaughan family as well as some of their descendants. Written by Nathan A. Vaughan. Copied by Miss Rebecca Vaughn. 1904. A little booklet of about 26 pages consisting chiefly of the reminiscences of Mr. Vaughan.

MISCELLANEOUS.

These are in part historical and genealogical magazines whose notes and articles have usually co-ordinate value with local histories and genealogies, but frequently are of greater value as being literal transcripts of original documents. The rest are histories and genealogical works of various character.

83. PENNSYLVANIA MAGAZINE OF HISTORY AND BIOGRAPHY.
84. NEW YORK GENEALOGICAL AND BIOGRAPHICAL RECORD. A work of the greatest value for the genealogist of New York families.
85. NEWSPAPERS. The obituaries and other notices contained in the news press are often helpful but are comparatively a recent factor in genealogical research.
86. AMERICAN BOOK PLATES. By Charles Dexter Allen. 1894. This describes in detail five Bancker book-plates and reproduces one.
87. GESCHIEDENIS VAN HET NEDERLANDSCHE ZEEWEZEN. By J. C. De Jonge. A history of the Dutch navy. It contains a considerable account of the Van Trappen family who assumed the name Banckert.
88. BIOGRAPHISCH WOORDENBOEK DER NEDERLANDEN.
89. ARMORIAL GENERAL precede d'un Dictionnaire des Termes du Blason. By J. B. Rietstap. 1884.
90. JOURNAL OF REV. SILAS CONSTANT, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Yorktown, N. Y., with some of the records of the church and a list of his marriages, 1784 to 1825, together with notes on the Nelson, Van Cortland, Warren, and some other families mentioned in the Journal. By Emily W. Roebling. 1903.
